Will Rogers Beats Brisbane to This Advice on Stocks

(Special To The News)
INDIANAPOLIS, April 7. — I am going to beat my friend Brisbane to this one. I read:

"Aviator flies in seven hours over Timbuctoo and Sahara Desert. It takes five months to make the trip overland."

So, if you are going to Timbuctoo that's all the more reason why you should have an airplane.

And don't sell America short. Get some good stock and hold it till it's worth more and then sell. But don't gamble.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Promise of the Western Pennsylvania Weather man for excellent weather conditions for Easter certainly "listens good" to New Castle. While the conditions are quite threatening when this is written, the official weather forecast given for Sunday is that it will be clear and cool.

Friday was probably the hottest April day that has been experienced in New Castle in some years. Temperature got up nearly to eighty yesterday afternoon, and coming so quickly on top of the wintry blasts was more noticeable than usual. It is cooler today.

Candy, flowers and Easter finery have the call today.

Work has been started on paving of Sheridan avenue, from Highland to Mercer streets. This will make another fine addition to the improved road system of the North Hill and will give a connection from the end of the paving on Mercer street, to Highland avenue.

Announcement that the Bell Telephone company will expend $100,000 in improvements in this county during the year, is another announcement that sounds good to Pa Newc. Evidence is accumulating on every side of the substantial progress being made by the city and county.

These warm spring days one observe many people from the city out in the fields near town gathering greens until they have baskets full. The principal green sought seems to be the dandelion, which so many relish at this time of year.

Even dogs feel the call of spring. This morning on Highland avenue, a collection of all breeds—a veritable pack of about 15 animals—were racing up and down the street, hitting back doors for their breakfasts.

Now that spring winds are here, the street department has shown that it will clean up the city. Almost every day a force is working on one of the paved streets, cleaning it.

A suggestion to Pa Newc comes from Robert Whitla. He believes that some night, the fire department should wash down the main streets at least. In other cities they do this to keep the streets clean. Why not in New Castle?

When Chamberlin comes to New Castle, the Chamber of Commerce has made elaborate plans for his entertainment. But they will fail if the citizens do not co-operate. Chamberlin will explain the future of aviation, and he knows what he is talking about, for he is a scientific man. Are you going to help?

One woman confided to Pa Newc last evening. "Do you know," she said, "every time I attend a church wedding, I believe I am getting married all over again." And another newshousewife cautioned her erring husband to take some of the ceremony to heart again.

One of the downtown churches had an unusual competition last night. Some band took a notion to practice in a building nearby while the service was on, and it was with difficulty that the minister in the pulpit made himself heard above the din of the band.

There was one auto parked on N. Mercer street last night that was in no danger of being stolen. A large police dog was tied to the hood, and as he clambered about on the hood, no one dared to go near the machine in safety.

Gaynor, one of the owners of the new McCormick hotel, was kidnaped Sunday from his home, it was revealed. Two members of the kidnaping gang were captured yesterday, police said, after they had delivered demands for $100,000 for Gaynor's return.

Deputy Commissioner of Police William E. O'Connor, who headed the rescue squads, said he expected to uncover a kidnaping ring that has extorted thousands of dollars from business men and racketeers here and in New York, Detroit and Minneapolis.

The children's names were Catherine, 12; Glady, 10; Dorothy Glenn, 8; Jimmy Dillon, 6, and twin babies, aged 14 months.

The blaze started shortly before midnight. The bodies of the children were badly burned. The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson showed no marks of violence.

Officials Find Man's Body In Coupe Near Ambridge

(International News Service)
AMBRIDGE, Pa., April 7.—Called by a mysterious telephone message to the Legionville bridge near here, officials found the body of Mike Rappo, 30, in a coupe at the foot of an embankment at the north approach of the bridge today.

The body, bleeding from blows which had fractured the skull, was slumped in the seat of the car, which was in second gear and from which the keys had been removed. County Detective Andy Beers declared that Rappo had been killed elsewhere and brought to the spot, since it would have been impossible for him to drive the car down the embankment before he died. The car was not damaged and nothing which would give police a clue was found in it.

Rappo was said by his wife to have left their home shortly after midnight to meet a man named "Valentino", saying that he would return about one a. m. Officials expressed the belief that he was the victim of rival bootleggers or of a secret society.

By LELAND C. LEWIS
International News Service Special Correspondent

GROOM, Texas, April 7.—C. C. (Cross-Country) Pyle's Bunion Bedouins today moved out of Groom for McLean, their thirty-fifth control. Thirty-six miles was the advance tabulated of the trek.

With Arne Suominen, Detroit naprapath, heading the van with an elapsed time of 204:10:14 for the 1,229.6 miles from Los Angeles to Groom the other followers in the pack continued to press more closely with each passing day. Suominen maintained a steady pace, and refused to register excitement when officials told him that Andrew Payne, stocky Oklahoman, had cut down his margin by 37 minutes 29 seconds.

In Fourth Place

John Salo, Passaic, New Jersey Finn, who also had been hitting a consistent gait recently, was entrenched in fourth place with a four hour lead over Phillip Granville, Hamilton, Ontario.

Ollie Wanttinen, 91-pound New York Finn, blazed through from Amarillo to Groom, 40.6 miles, at almost a seven mile an hour stride to win the lap in 5:56 flat. Wanttinen's short build, coupled with the fact that he takes two steps almost to every other runner's one makes him the sensation at each nightly control. Wanttinen's latest performance has moved him from tenth to sixth place.

Earl Dilks of New Castle, Penna., negotiated the distance in 14:51:03 for an elapsed time of 293:21:36.

Criminals Will Find Harder Path In Pennsylvania

Judges And District Attorneys Consider Changes In Law

LUDLOW ACT REPEAL URGED BY DELEGATES

Legislation Similar To Baumes Act Of New York Also Urged

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, April 7. — The path of criminals in the Keystone State will be considerably harder at the next legislature listens to the recommendations of the state district attorneys and criminal judges who are holding a two-day conference here.

The initial sessions held yesterday resulted in seven specific recommendations to speed up the punishment of crime and the final sessions today are expected to be fruitful of additional suggestions.

Several new proposals on criminal court procedure are up for discussion at the closing sessions today.

Would Repeal Ludlow Act

Resolutions urging the repeal of the Ludlow Act, which provides minimum sentences shall not be less than half of maximum sentences, and adoption of legislation similar to the Baumes Act of New York were passed at the joint conference yesterday with 57 district attorneys of the state and 127 criminal court judges present.

Both the prosecutors and judges agreed that Pennsylvania needs stronger laws to remove the menace of the professional criminal. Though they did not favor a law exactly duplicating the Baumes Act legislation was recommended that would preserve its spirit.

The judges favored trials without juries when the defendants waives his right to trial by jury. The district attorneys urged that the law on jury verdicts be changed to permit the concurrence of ten jurymen to serve as the verdict in all but capital cases.

Recommendations of both groups will be referred to the Pennsylvania Crime Commission which will present them to the next legislature.

No Word From Capt. Wilkins

Presumed That Flight Over North Pole Has Not Been Started

STORM'S APPROACH DELAYS START

(International News Service)
SEWARD, Alaska, April 7. — Although the government wireless station had received no word from Captain George H. Wilkins early today, it was presumed that the famous arctic explorer and his pilot, Carl Eielson are still at Point Barrow, waiting for clearing skies before taking off on their hazardous air dash over the North Pole.

Army wireless experts here stated that radio signals were distinct and that a message from Captain Wilkins could be picked up easily under the prevailing atmospheric conditions. When the explorer hops off, it was pointed out, he will send an announcement to that effect through the ether.

The last radio message from Captain Wilkins declared that the hop-off on the flight across the Arctic Circle to Spitzbergen had been postponed when the sky suddenly grew cloudy and that the aerial expedition would not begin until the clouds disappeared.

Face Prospect Coolidge May Wield Veto Axe

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The prospect of President Coolidge wielding the veto axe on the legislative program of the 70th Congress loomed strongly today as treasury experts indicated the government would face a huge deficit in 1929 if the whole program is enacted into law.

The President might even reject tax reduction legislation, it was intimated, if Congress exceeded the $201,000,000 limit fixed by the Treasury Department. The pending legislative program in Congress calls for an increase of from $295,000,000 to $305,000,000 in federal appropriations next year, it was pointed out, while the estimated treasury surplus for 1929 is only $200,000,000.

By this computation the government would run into a deficit of from $85,000,000 to $125,000,000 in 1929, should the program be enacted. If taxes were reduced in the meantime the loss of revenue would only increase the deficit.

Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the Senate finance committee, predicted the Senate would limit tax reduction to $200,000,000. He added, however, that he anticipated that much of the pending legislative program would never be enacted.

Some of the new appropriations necessary next year, if the pending program is enacted, would include $50,000,000 each for flood relief, the Columbia river basin, allen property

Plant Blast Kills One Man; Injures Seven

(International News Service)
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 7.—An explosion today in a gas and electric company plant killed one man, injured seven others and caused $30,000 damage. The city's gas service is paralyzed.

John Morrisey, 60, believed to have been knocked unconscious in the explosion, was fatally burned in the fire that followed.

The injured are Samuel Hillborn, 60; Oscar McFarland, 45; Harry Wessells, 29, Jacob Van Hoeva, 59; Joe Baker, 31, Matthey Bienick, 45; all laborers and Herbery Straight, superintendent. Bennick is fighting for his life in a local hospital, but probably will live. The others are less seriously burned.

The blast came, according to the men, while they were installing a 30-inch main. An air and gas mixture in the main is believed to have been ignited by solder they were using.

Father And Son Burn To Death In Bunkhouse

Charles Johns And Son George, Of Princeton, Victims In Blaze

COUNTY OFFICIALS PROBE MYSTERY

Cause Of Blaze Unknown; Victims Evidently Asleep At Time Of Fire

Two men were burned to a crisp in a mysterious fire which destroyed a bunkhouse at a coal mine on the farm of I. E. Newton, Wayne township, about 11 o'clock last night.

The dead are Charles Johns, aged 51, of Princeton, and his son, George Johns, aged 18. Both were employed as miners by Connie Wardman of Ellwood City, who operates the mine.

The charred remains of the two men, burned so badly that both were unrecognizable, were found in the burning embers soon after the bunkhouse had been destroyed. They were taken to the I. E. Van Gorder morgue at Ellwood City, where they were viewed this morning by Coroner J. F. Caldwell.

Probe Mystery

Upon learning that there had been no fire in the bunkhouse during the evening, and that there were mysterious circumstances connected with it, Coroner Caldwell called County Detective William Fleming and Sheriff H. M. Reynolds, who were soon on the scene.

From Mr. Wardman, operator of the mine, and his foreman, George Funkhouser, it was learned that the dead men had been employed by him for some time. The bunkhouse was 10

Jeanne Eagels To Defy Order

Declares She'll Play Next Fall, Despite Equity Association Bar

PENALTY IS MOST SEVERE YET GIVEN

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 7. — Jeanne Eagels insisted today she would appear in a play on Broadway next fall despite the decision of the Actors' Equity Association banning her from the stage until September 1, 1929, and imposing a fine of two weeks' salary, approximating $3,000. The actress declared she is already under contract with Sam. H. Harris to appear next October in "Parita."

The star of "Rain" and "Her Cardboard Lover," the latter of which she is accused of deserting in Milwaukee and St. Louis, issued the following defi.

"A handful of actors for whom, with a few exceptions, I have no respect, cannot keep me from my public which is a big one. I shall appear in a play on Broadway before Christmas. I have never been a full-fledged member of the Equity—I joined the organization under protest in 1925 at the insistence of my manager, Sam H. Harris.

"The suspension is ridiculous and unjust. Equity had no proof against me. I have the word of twelve of the most prominent physicians in the United States that I was really ill when I did not appear, and my whole company and the management appeared in my behalf. My only crime was that I refused to see a deputy of Equity, whom I did not believe to be an Equity deputy."

Equity's penalty is the most severe ever meted out to a player, and is the first suspension of an actress of Miss Eagels' standing.

Weather Man Changes Mind

Fears Easter Day May Be Damp In Part Of Pennsylvania

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, April 7.—Inclement weather for Easter all over Pennsylvania was predicted here today by the government weather bureau.

Rain and thunderstorms which dampened the western portion of the state will probably fall upon the eastern half for Easter, the weather bureau here said.

In the western half snow flurries were expected for tomorrow with cold weather and possibly even more of the rain which was prevalent over the entire western section today.

It had been expected the rain would reach Pennsylvania last night and that pleasant weather would be present for Sunday. The rainfall was slow in passing over the mountains from the Mississippi section, the bureau said.

Arthur Mometer

Lowering skies and a shower of rain, forecast weather I am afraid, that makes it look bad for the hats and gowns booked to be shown at the Easter parade. Chic looking bonnets with ribbons of red, trim little hats with a flowery spray, may be held in for the Easter parade, for the weather is wet and just fifty today. Ladies must dress and tomorrow they shine, resplendent in gowns of a rainbow like hue, but what if it rains or it snows or its cold, what are the ladies with new clothes to do. Easter brings out all the new clothes in town, should be a sunny day, balmy and fair but rain for the day would be almost enough to cause many ladies to spatter and swear.

GROOM, Texas, April 7.—C. C. (Cross-Country) Pyle's Bunion Bedouins today moved out of Groom for McLean, their thirty-fifth control. Thirty-six miles was the advance tabulated of the trek.

With Arne Suominen, Detroit napparath, heading the van with an elapsed time of 204:10:14 for the 1,229.6 miles from Los Angeles to Groom the other followers in the pack continued to press more closely with each passing day. Suominen maintained a steady pace, and refused to register excitement when officials told him that Andrew Payne, stocky Oklahoman, had cut down his margin by 37 minutes 29 seconds.

In Fourth Place

John Salc, Passaic, New Jersey Finn, who also had been hitting a consistent gait recently, was entrenched in fourth place with a four hour lead over Phillip Granville, Hamilton, Ontario.

Ollie Wanttinen, 91-pound New York Finn, blazed through from Amarillo to Groom, 40.6 miles, at almost a seven mile an hour stride to win the lap in 5:56 flat. Wanttinen's short build, coupled with the fact that he takes two steps almost to every other runner's one makes him the sensation at each nightly control. Wanttinen's latest performance has moved him from tenth to sixth place.

Earl Dilks of New Castle, Penna., negotiated the distance in 14:51:02 for an elapsed time of 293:21:36.

Criminals Will Find Harder Path In Pennsylvania

LUDLOW ACT REPEAL URGED BY DELEGATES

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 7. — The path of criminals in the Keystone State will be considerably harder if the next legislature listens to the recommendations of the state district attorneys and criminal judges who are holding a two-day conference here.

The initial sessions held yesterday resulted in seven specific recommendations to speed up the punishment of crime and the final sessions today are expected to be fruitful of additional suggestions.

Several new proposals on criminal court procedure are up for discussion at the closing sessions today.

Would Repeal Ludlow Act

Resolutions urging the repeal of the Ludlow Act, which provides minimum sentences shall not be less than half of maximum sentences, and adoption of legislation similar to the Baumes Act of New York were passed at the joint conference yesterday with 57 district attorneys of the state and 127 criminal court judges present.

Both the prosecutors and judges agreed that Pennsylvania needs stronger laws to remove the menace of the professional criminal. Though they did not favor a law exactly duplicating the Baumes Act legislation was recommended that would preserve its spirit.

The judges favored trials without juries when the defendants waives his right to trial by jury. The district attorneys urged that the law on jury verdicts be changed to permit the concurrence of ten jurymen to serve as the verdict in all but capital cases.

Recommendations of both groups will be referred to the Pennsylvania Crime Commission which will present them to the next legislature.

No Word From Capt. Wilkins

Presumed That Flight Over North Pole Has Not Been Started

STORM'S APPROACH DELAYS START

(International News Service)

SEWARD, Alaska, April 7. — Although the government wireless station had received no word from Captain George H. Wilkins early today, it was presumed that the famous arctic explorer and his pilot, Carl Eielson are still at Point Barrow, waiting for clearing skies before taking off on their hazardous air dash over the North Pole.

Army wireless experts here stated that radio signals were distinct and that a message from Captain Wilkins could be picked up easily under the prevailing atmospheric conditions. When the explorer hops off, it was pointed out, he will send an announcement to that effect through the ether.

The last radio message from Captain Wilkins declared that the hop-off on the flight across the Arctic Circle to Spitzbergen had been postponed when the sky suddenly grew cloudy and that the aerial expedition would not begin until the clouds disappeared.

Face Prospect Coolidge May Wield Veto Axe

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The prospect of President Coolidge wielding the veto axe on the legislative program of the 70th Congress loomed strongly today as treasury experts indicated the government would face a huge deficit in 1929 if the whole program is enacted into law.

The President might even reject tax reduction legislation, it was intimated, if Congress exceeded the $201,000,000 limit fixed by the Treasury Department. The pending legislative program in Congress calls for an increase of from $285,000,000 to $325,000,000 in federal appropriations next year, it was pointed out, while the estimated treasury surplus for 1929 is only $200,000,000.

By this computation the government would run into a deficit of from $85,000,000 to $125,000,000 in 1929, should the program be enacted. If taxes were reduced in the meantime the loss of revenue would only increase the deficit.

Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the Senate finance committee, predicted the Senate would limit tax reduction to $200,000,000. He added, however, that he anticipated that much of the pending legislative program would never be enacted.

Some of the new appropriations necessary next year, if the pending program is enacted, would include $50,000,000 each for flood relief, the Columbia river basin, alien property

Plant Blast Kills One Man; Injures Seven

(International News Service)

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 7.—An explosion today in a gas and electric company plant killed one man, injured seven others and caused $30,000 damage. The city's gas service is paralyzed.

John Morrisey, 60, believed to have been knocked unconscious in the explosion, was fatally burned in the fire that followed.

The injured are Samuel Hillborn, 60; Oscar McFarland, 45; Harry Wessells, 29, Jacob Van Hoeva, 59; Joe Baker, 31, Matthey Bienick, 45; all laborers and Herbery Straight, superintendent. Beinick is fighting for his life in a local hospital, but probably will live. The others are less seriously burned.

The blast came, according to the men, while they were installing a 30-inch main. An air and gas mixture in the main is believed to have been ignited by solder they were using.

Jeanne Eagels To Defy Order

Declares She'll Play Next Fall, Despite Equity Association Bar

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 7. — Jeanne Eagels insisted today she would appear in a play on Broadway next fall despite the decision of the Actors' Equity Association banning her from the stage until September 1, 1929, and imposing a fine of two weeks' salary, approximating $3,600. The actress declared she is already under contract with Sam. H. Harris to appear next October in "Parita."

The star of "Rain" and "Her Cardboard Lover," the latter of which she is accused of deserting in Milwaukee and St. Louis, issued the following defi.

"A handful of actors for whom, with a few exceptions, I have no respect, cannot keep me from my public which is a big one. I shall appear in a play on Broadway before Christmas. I have never been a full-fledged member of the Equity—I joined the organization under protest in 1925 at the insistence of my manager, Sam H. Harris.

"The suspension is ridiculous and unjust. Equity had no proof against me. I have the word of twelve of the most prominent physicians in the United States that I was really ill when I did not appear, and my whole company and the management appeared in my behalf. My only crime was that I refused to see a deputy of Equity, whom I did not believe to be an Equity deputy."

Equity's penalty is the most severe ever meted out to a player, and is the first suspension of an actress of Miss Eagels' standing.

Father And Son Burn To Death In Bunkhouse

Charles Johns And Son George, Of Princeton, Victims In Blaze

Cause Of Blaze Unknown; Victims Evidently Asleep At Time Of Fire

Two men were burned to a crisp in a mysterious fire which destroyed a bunkhouse at a coal mine on the farm of I. E. Newton, Wayne township, about 11 o'clock last night.

The dead are Charles Johns, aged 51, of Princeton, and his son, George Johns, aged 18. Both were employed as miners by Connie Wardman of Ellwood City, who operates the mine.

The charred remains of the two men, burned so badly that both were unrecognizable, were found in the burning embers soon after the bunkhouse had been destroyed. They were taken to the I. E. Van Gorder morgue at Ellwood City, where they were viewed this morning by Coroner J. P. Caldwell.

Probe Mystery

Upon learning that there had been no fire in the bunkhouse during the evening, and that there were mysterious circumstances connected with it, Coroner Caldwell called County Detective William Fleming and Sheriff H. M. Reynolds, who were soon on the scene.

From Mr. Wardman, operator of the mine, and his foreman, George Funkhouser, it was learned that the dead men had been employed by him for some time. The bunkhouse was 10

Weather Man Changes Mind

Fears Easter Day May Be Damp In Part Of Pennsylvania

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 7.—Inclement weather for Easter all over Pennsylvania was predicted here today by the government weather bureau.

Rain and thunderstorms which dampened the western portion of the state will probably fall upon the eastern half for Easter, the weather bureau here said.

In the western half snow flurries were expected for tomorrow with cold weather and possibly even more of the rain which was prevalent over the entire western section today.

It had been expected the rain would reach Pennsylvania last night and that pleasant weather would be present for Sunday. The rainfall was slow in passing over the mountains from the Mississippi section, the bureau said.

Arthur Mometer

Auto Accidents Are Reported

Number Of Mishaps Come To Attention Of City Police

INJURED BOY IS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Numerous accidents were reported to the police Friday evening and today. Two persons were hit and injured, while considerable damage was done in other instances.

J. W. Hopper, R. D. The boy was rushed to the Shenango Valley hospital where it was found that he had escaped serious injury, sustaining a laceration of the face and numerous bruises of the body. His condition is not serious.

Myron Bollard of 604 Sumner avenue, reported to the police last night that he was driving west on East Washington street in front of the New Castle Dry Goods company store, when Stanley Pattrick, 520 Croton avenue, who was crossing from the west to the east side of Washington street, was struck and knocked to the pavement by his machine. Mr. Pattrick got up himself. Mr. Bollard took him to the office of a physician and then to the Shenango Valley hospital, where it was found that he had not been seriously injured, sustaining a cut on the right side of the forehead in which several stitches were taken. He was taken home as soon as his injuries were attended to.

Cars of Mrs. S. A. Thompson, 512 East Moody avenue and Mrs. E. C. Durbin of 1302 Highland avenue, came together Friday, according to the report made to the police, at East Moody avenue and Delaware avenue. returns and the St. Lawrence waterway, $13,000,000 the first year and $50,000,000 the second for the new navy, from $24,000,000 to $41,000,000 to meet reduced postal rates, from $68,000,000 to $90,000,000 for increases in federal salaries.

The Boulder dam project was not included in this last because its funds probably will be raised by the issuance of bonds. All appropriations, even if made, would be repaid immediately through bond issues, under terms of the bill. A similar provision was written into the $250,000,000 farm relief bill but as finally enacted this measure may call for outright federal appropriations. If it does, it would add $250,000,000 to the new appropriations in 1929 and triple the potential deficit if the remainder of the program were enacted.

Under these circumstances, it was said, the country can expect President Coolidge to use his veto power frequently between now and the adjournment of congress, should congress enact its program. Thus far, the president has approved the Boulder dam bill, relieving it from the veto threat.

He approved a new public buildings bill and its appropriations for 1929 were included in the treasury estimates.

The executive, however, has indicated his opposition to both the flood control bill, in its present form, and to the farm relief bill, as pending. He has not yet indicated his attitude toward the salary increase for federal employes, the postal rate reduction, the Columbia river project nor the St. Lawrence waterway bills. All may get the axe.

Court Jurists Propose Drastic Law Changes For Combatting Crime

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—Pennsylvania's criminal court jurists Friday at their first session of a two-day conference here recommended five drastic changes in legal procedure to help in combatting crime.

The recommendations are:

1. Permit the introduction of criminal records of a defendant at the discretion of the trial judge.
2. Amend the law to permit a district attorney to comment on the failure of a defendant to take the witness stand in his own behalf.
3. Allow a trial judge to decide whether defendants jointly indicted shall be tried jointly or separately.
4. Give trial judges the right to exclusively examine prospective jurors in murder cases the prosecution and defense submitting to him any questions they may desire to ask the jurors.
5. Reduce the time of appeals in criminal cases from 45 days to three weeks.

House Is Burned Near Seventh Ward

Six Roomed Unoccupied House Is Destroyed On Friday Night

A six-roomed frame property and out buildings, located in the seventh ward on what is known as the West Clayton street extension, was completely destroyed by a fire between 8 and 9 o'clock last night, the cause of which is not known. The property belongs to the Smith heirs estate. Its value is not known but would probably be worth several thousand dollars. It is not known whether or not there was any insurance.

The house has been unoccupied for some time, the last family residing there being the Findley family. It is considered possible that the fire might have been caused by men staying there without leave or by a grass fire that originated in the vicinity and had been burning all day.

As far as can be learned no effort was made to secure the services of the fire department in subduing the fire.

REVERENT TRIBUTE GIVEN TO DEPEW BY SILENT THRONG

his home on West Fifty-seventh street the milling and surging in the streets ceased, and over the great throng that had congregated there came a silence that spoke eloquently of the feelings that were in the hearts of the people.

At the church, just around the corner, the funeral service had the quality of a national tribute. In the church were men and women who had known the great American patriarch intimately. Nation, state, city were represented in the several hundred persons in the church—statesmen, bankers, industrialists, or just plain citizens.

Aisle Banked with Flowers

The aisle down which the coffin was conveyed was banked high with flowers, and about the altar great billows of floral tributes all but concealed the carriage upon which the bier was rested. In spite of his constant plea for simplicity in his services, the thousands of his friends all over the nation that had grown into his lifetime flooded St. Thomas' specious auditorium with their mementoes.

The family entered the church on the 43rd Street side, taking place about the catafalque. At 10:07 o'clock the casket borne by six professional pall-bearers appeared at the door of the church and Bishops Ernest Stires and Wm. T. Manning and the Rev. Roelif T. Brooks, rector of St. Thomas' proceeded down the aisle to meet it.

Lead by the three divines, the procession moved slowly up the flower-banked aisle, the bier second in line and the thirty honorary pall-bearers following. As soon as the funeral party had passed the portals, the doors were closed, the church having been filled since a few minutes after 9:30 o'clock when the doors were first opened.

Funeral services were conducted by Bishop Ernest M. Stires, Bishop William T. Manning and the Rev. Roelif H. Brooks, rector of St. Thomas'. The simplest of the Episcopal burial services was used, requiring but a short time for final consecration of the remains before the bier again was carried into the street.

During the service the offices of the New York Central Railroad, whose destiny Mr. Depew directed for years, were closed. Flags were at half mast throughout the day on all public buildings in the state.

From the church the body was taken by automobile to Peekskill, where it was to be placed in the family mausoleum in the Hillside cemetery, a short walk from the spot where he was born a fortnight less than ninety-four years ago. The commitment service, to be read by the Rev. Dr. Brooks, was to be of stark simplicity, with those freinds of his Peekskill days paying a final, reverent tribute.

When Trevor became involved in bad check charges his friend, H. B. Warner, the film star, swore out an insanity complaint against him.

Said to be destitute, Trevor is under the delusion that he has unlimited means, according to the complaint, and has been making extravagant purchases and lavishing gifts upon friends.

The actor is alleged to have presented $145 worth of flowers to a woman who is a comparative stranger to him.

FATHER AND SON BURN TO DEATH IN BUNKHOUSE

feet wide and 28 feet long. It was divided into two compartments, one of which was occupied by Mr. Johns and his son, and the other by George Mayberry and James Hilton, miners, both of this city.

Mr. Johns and his son had worked yesterday, but owing to an accident to one of the cars Mayberry and Hilton had not worked. Yesterday morning they went into Ellwood City and going to Mr. Wardman's were paid the wages due them. They spent the day in Ellwood City and along about 4:30 in the afternoon returned to the bunkhouse.

Together at Place

Mr. Funkhouser said that Mayberry, Hilton and the Johns were good friends and that he had seen them together and heard them talking in the bunkhouse. About 5:30 Mr. Funkhouser saw Mr. Mayberry outside the shanty and heard Hilton talking to Johns inside.

Shortly after 10 o'clock last night Larry Yoho came home from Ellwood City. He was putting his car in his garage, a short distance from the bunkhouse, when the latter burst into flames. He ran down to see what he could do toward putting out the fire. In a few minutes George Funkhouser, William Latimer and Carl Latimer and others were on the scene. By this time the fire, which had apparently started in the end of the house occupied by Hilton and Mayberry, was well under way and nothing could be done toward saving it.

Origin Mystery

Hilton was at the fire, but Mayberry did not get there until the place was nearly burned down. It seems that he had returned to Ellwood City, about two miles distant, some time during the evening, and was on his way back to the bunkhouse when the fire started. He arrived on the scene before the house was burned down. After the fire both men started for home.

Officials questioned a number of persons, but have so far been unable to get any clue as to the origin of the fire. The investigation is still under way. From all accounts there had been no fire in the house, either during the afternoon or evening.

From the position of the bodies of Mr. Johns and his son, found after the fire, it was evident that they both had been in bed when the fire started and that they had made no effort to get out. The bunkhouse had a partition running through the center. There was no door or other opening in this partition. Occupants of each side entered by separate doors. The fire started in the end occupied by Hilton and Mayberry. Both of them lost some clothing in the blaze.

Mr. Johns and his son had been working in the mine for several months. Mr. Johns is survived by his wife and the following children: Clarence, Zury, Robert, Sherman and Helen.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Linemen's Life Is Saved By Comrades

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 7.—Knowledge of artificial respiration methods, gained through classes conducted by the West Penn Power company, saved the life of Willis D. Coffey, 25, of Youngwood, a lineman, when he came in contact with a 6,900 volt wire, while changing poles of a high tension line a few miles from here. His comrades worked over him for an hour and a half to restore normal breathing after which he was removed to the Connellsville hospital.

Coffey was rendered unconscious when his climber slipped from the pole and the safety belt threw him against the wire. He had severe burns on the face and leg. Comrades lowered the body to the ground and while awaiting an ambulance and physician, used their own knowledge of resuscitation methods.

His condition is not serious.

FACE PROSPECT COOLIDGE MAY WIELD VETO AXE

returns and the St. Lawrence waterway, $13,000,000 the first year and $50,000,000 the second for the new navy, from $24,000,000 to $41,000,000 to meet reduced postal rates, from $68,000,000 to $90,000,000 for increases in federal salaries.

The Boulder dam project was not included in this last because its funds probably will be raised by the issuance of bonds. All appropriations, even if made, would be repaid immediately through bond issues, under terms of the bill. A similar provision was written into the $250,000,000 farm relief bill but as finally enacted this measure may call for outright federal appropriations. If it does, it would add $250,000,000 to the new appropriations in 1929 and triple the potential deficit if the remainder of the program were enacted.

Under these circumstances, it was said, the country can expect President Coolidge to use his veto power frequently between now and the adjournment of congress, should congress enact its program. Thus far the president has approved the Boulder dam bill, relieving it from the veto threat.

He approved a new public buildings bill and its appropriations for 1929 were included in the treasury estimates.

The executive, however, has indicated his opposition to both the flood control bill, in its present form, and to the farm relief bill, as pending. He has not yet indicated his attitude toward the salary increase for federal employes, the postal rate reduction, the Columbia river project nor the St. Lawrence waterway bills. All may get the axe.

Court Jurists Propose Drastic Law Changes For Combatting Crime

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—Pennsylvania's criminal court jurists Friday at their first session of a two-day conference here recommended five drastic changes in legal procedure to help in combatting crime.

The recommendations are:

1. Permit the introduction of criminal records of a defendant at the discretion of the trial judge.
2. Amend the law to permit a district attorney to comment on the failure of a defendant to take the witness stand in his own behalf.
3. Allow a trial judge to decide whether defendants jointly indicted shall be tried jointly or separately.
4. Give trial judges the right to exclusively examine prospective jurors in murder cases the prosecution and defense submitting to him any questions they may desire to ask the jurors.
5. Reduce the time of appeals in criminal cases from 45 days to three weeks.

House Is Burned Near Seventh Ward

Six Roomed Unoccupied House Is Destroyed On Friday Night

A six-roomed frame property and out buildings, located in the seventh ward on what is known as the West Clayton street extension, was completely destroyed by a fire between 8 and 9 o'clock last night, the cause of which is not known. The property belongs to the Smith heirs estate. Its value is not known but would probably be worth several thousand dollars. It is not known whether or not there was any insurance.

The house has been unoccupied for some time, the last family residing there being the Findley family. It is considered possible that the fire might have been caused by men staying there without leave or by a grass fire that originated in the vicinity and had been burning all day.

As far as can be learned no effort was made to secure the services of the fire department in subduing the fire.

REVERENT TRIBUTE GIVEN TO DEPEW BY SILENT THRONG

his home on West Fifty-seventh street the milling and surging in the streets ceased, and over the great throng that had congregated there came a silence that spoke eloquently of the feelings that were in the hearts of the people.

At the church, just around the corner, the funeral service had the quality of a national tribute. In the church were men and women who had known the great American patriarch intimately. Nation, state, city were represented in the several hundred persons in the church—statesmen, bankers, industrialists, or just plain citizens.

Aisle Banked with Flowers

The aisle down which the coffin was conveyed was banked high with flowers, and about the altar great billows of floral tributes all but concealed the carriage upon which the bier was rested. In spite of his constant plea for simplicity in his services, the thousands of his friends all over the nation that had grown into his lifetime flooded St. Thomas' specious auditorium with their mementoes.

The family entered the church on the 43rd Street side, taking place about the catafalque. At 10:07 o'clock the casket borne by six professional pall-bearers appeared at the door of the church and Bishops Ernest Stires and Wm. T. Manning and the Rev. Roelif T. Brooks, rector of St. Thomas' proceeded down the aisle to meet it.

Lead by the three divines, the procession moved slowly up the flower-banked aisle, the bier second in line and the thirty honorary pall-bearers following. As soon as the funeral party had passed the portals, the doors were closed, the church having been filled since a few minutes after 9:30 o'clock when the doors were first opened.

Funeral services were conducted by Bishop Ernest M. Stires, Bishop William T. Manning and the Rev. Roelif H. Brooks, rector of St. Thomas'. The simplest of the Episcopal burial services was used, requiring but a short time for final consecration of the remains before the bier again was carried into the street.

During the service the offices of the New York Central Railroad, whose destiny Mr. Depew directed for years, were closed. Flags were at half mast throughout the day on all public buildings in the state.

From the church the body was taken by automobile to Peekskill, where it was to be placed in the family mausoleum in the Hillside cemetery, a short walk from the spot where he was born a fortnight less than ninety-four years ago. The commitment service, to be read by the Rev. Dr. Brooks, was to be of stark simplicity, with those freinds of his Peekskill days paying a final, reverent tribute.

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—Norman Trevor, veteran screen actor, will face a strange audience next Monday when he is arraigned before the lunacy commission.

When Trevor became involved in bad check charges his friend, H. B. Warner, the film star, swore out an insanity complaint against him.

The actor is alleged to have presented $145 worth of flowers to a woman who is a comparative stranger to him.

Last evening at the Hoover Heights Tabernacle, Rev. Geo. B. Scripture spoke on "The Sinner's History." His remarks were based on the 32nd Psalm. He showed the subtility of sin and the awful results of sin. To be free from it and its penalty requires confession and forsaking of sin.

Mrs. G. Scripture sang "Eternity."

There will be another baptismal service at the evening service tomorrow evening. The afternoon service at 2:30 is open to the general public.

FATHER AND SON BURN TO DEATH IN BUNKHOUSE

feet wide and 28 feet long. It was divided into two compartments, one of which was occupied by Mr. Johns and his son, and the other by George Mayberry and James Hilton, miners, both of this city.

Mr. Johns and his son had worked yesterday, but owing to an accident to one of the cars Mayberry and Hilton had not worked. Yesterday morning they went into Ellwood City and going to Mr. Wardman's were paid the wages due them. They spent the day in Ellwood City and along about 4:30 in the afternoon returned to the bunkhouse.

Together at Place

Mr. Funkhouser said that Mayberry, Hilton and the Johns were good friends and that he had seen them together and heard them talking in the bunkhouse. About 5:30 Mr. Funkhouser saw Mr. Mayberry outside the shanty and heard Hilton talking to Johns inside.

Shortly after 10 o'clock last night Larry Yoho came home from Ellwood City. He was putting his car in his garage, a short distance from the bunkhouse, when the latter burst into flames. He ran down to see what he could do toward putting out the fire. In a few minutes George Funkhouser, William Latimer and Carl Latimer and others were on the scene. By this time the fire, which had apparently started in the end of the house occupied by Hilton and Mayberry, was well under way and nothing could be done toward saving it.

Origin Mystery

Hilton was at the fire, but Mayberry did not get there until the place was nearly burned down. It seems that he had returned to Ellwood City, about two miles distant, some time during the evening, and was on his way back to the bunkhouse when the fire started. He arrived on the scene before the house was burned down. After the fire both men started for home.

Officials questioned a number of persons, but have so far been unable to get any clue as to the origin of the fire. The investigation is still under way. From all accounts there had been no fire in the house, either during the afternoon or evening.

From the position of the bodies of Mr. Johns and his son, found after the fire, it was evident that they both had been in bed when the fire started and that they had made no effort to get out. The bunkhouse had a partition running through the center. There was no door or other opening in this partition. Occupants of each side entered by separate doors. The fire started in the end occupied by Hilton and Mayberry. Both of them lost some clothing in the blaze.

Mr. Johns and his son had been working in the mine for several months. Mr. Johns is survived by his wife and the following children: Clarence, Zury, Robert, Sherman and Helen.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Linemen's Life Is Saved By Comrades

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 7.—Knowledge of artificial respiration methods, gained through classes conducted by the West Penn Power company, saved the life of Willis D. Coffey, 25, of Youngwood, a lineman, when he came in contact with a 6,900 volt wire, while changing poles of a high tension line a few miles from here. His comrades worked over him for an hour and a half to restore normal breathing after which he was removed to the Connellsville hospital.

Coffey was rendered unconscious when his climber slipped from the pole and the safety belt threw him against the wire. He had severe burns on the face and leg. Comrades lowered the body to the ground and while awaiting an ambulance and physician, used their own knowledge of resuscitation methods.

Fellow Rotarian:

Many centuries ago a certain family in Damascus made swords flexible enough to bend the point back to the hilt and hard enough to take a razor edge. Legend said these swords were tempered in human blood. When the last member of the family died the secret art was buried with him. But Dr. Carnes, our speaker for Monday has discovered a steel that has all the properties of the old Damascus blades.

Dr. Carnes will demonstrate by cutting glass, shaving dry hair, cutting off spikes, and driving a small knife blade through a steel spike.

This is a most interesting program and if you care to bring a guest, do so, but please notify the secretary.

THE NEWS, ONE YEAR, BY MAIL, $5.00

(POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT)

In Regard to Taxes, Harry M. Long Says:

"Except for Federal Taxes the tendency everywhere at present is in the direction of higher taxes. Cities, counties and states, either by increasing the rate of the levy or the amount of the assessment or by special imposts, are increasing the burden of taxation yearly.

A member of the legislature has no direct voice in the taxation imposed in counties and cities. But he has a lot to say about state taxes. And if the state sets an extravagant example cities and counties will naturally follow the same course.

Certain states adjoining Pennsylvania have cheaper auto license rates and gasoline taxes than Pennsylvania, in some cases no gasoline tax. Do we have better roads and government than these states? If not, something is wrong.

I have been paying all the various kinds of taxes since before the time I became twenty-one years of age. In my business I look after many other peoples' property.

If nominated and elected to the legislature I will do all in my power to keep taxation down to the minimum required for the proper maintenance of the state government and state property."

Fellow Rotarian:

Many centuries ago a certain family in Damascus made swords flexible enough to bend the point back to the hilt and hard enough to take a razor edge. Legend said these swords were tempered in human blood. When the last member of the family died the secret art was buried with him. But Dr. Carnes, our speaker for Monday has discovered a steel that has all the properties of the old Damascus blades.

Dr. Carnes will demonstrate by cutting glass, shaving dry hair, cutting off spikes, and driving a small knife blade through a steel spike.

This is a most interesting program and if you care to bring a guest, do so, but please notify the secretary.

(POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT)

In Regard to Taxes, Harry M. Long Says:

"Except for Federal Taxes the tendency everywhere at present is in the direction of higher taxes. Cities, counties and states, either by increasing the rate of the levy or the amount of the assessment or by special imposts, are increasing the burden of taxation yearly.

A member of the legislature has no direct voice in the taxation imposed in counties and cities. But he has a lot to say about state taxes. And if the state sets an extravagant example cities and counties will naturally follow the same course.

Certain states adjoining Pennsylvania have cheaper auto license rates and gasoline taxes than Pennsylvania, in some cases no gasoline tax. Do we have better roads and government than these states? If not, something is wrong.

I have been paying all the various kinds of taxes since before the time I became twenty-one years of age. In my business I look after many other peoples' property.

If nominated and elected to the legislature I will do all in my power to keep taxation down to the minimum required for the proper maintenance of the state government and state property."

NEVER did the world need the essential meaning and the spiritual stimulus of Easter more than in this year of grace. On every hand are those whom the state of the world disheartens. We are told, if we listen to their lamentation, that religion has failed, that the plain, homely virtues of faith and loving kindness and mercy as between men and their fellows are dead or inoperative, and in this vale of tears the mourners are the most sensible of mortals, since there is no reason to rejoice in anything we hear or see.

To such an attitude of mind Easter comes as a shining and a beautiful refutation, as an angel seen by those who are in sorrow round a tomb.

Easter is not to be observed merely as the commemoration of a triumph over the grave, a victory over death, nineteen centuries ago. It stands for the glory and the power of a resurrection here and now—of a rebirth day, of the springing of new life in this glad hour for "a confident tomorrow."

The meaning of the festival is not to be confined with the ceremony of any sect or any ritual. It cannot all be told in music or in flowers or in the wings and fire of the most eloquent of sermons. It is not all in the glow of the hour of prayer and praise and song. It goes far deeper than words can utter; it reaches the deepest of the truths we know, at the very heart of our human lives, in their need of that which is higher than ourselves, and in their aspiration toward that which is true eternally.

It is each man's resurrection and not that of Christ alone on which this day insists forever. It is in your power and mine to cast off what is of the earth earthy, that holds us down to the mundane and the material.

Easter is the freedom and light, the upspringing joy of the emancipation of the soul of man. Least of all the festivals is it a time for selfish introspection, for the backward look and the unprofitable resemblance of failure and disaster, the sin besetting and the shame disfiguring the pattern of our human lives. It is, instead, the time for the looking and thinking and acting beyond and away from ourselves.

As in the solemn and beautiful jubilee we consider the lilies, and hear the music, and feel the inspiration of the sermon and enter into the radiance and the rapture of the morning, let us take thought how we may impart to other lives and bring to other hearts the joy we feel, knowing that as we are ministered unto it is our duty to minister and to spread abroad the message of the Eastertide to a world that needs all the cheer that any has to give.

WORTH THE MONEY

Statistics show that the average automobile tax is almost 300 per cent greater now than it was in 1919. We all resent increase in taxes, no matter how much more we get for our money or how greatly life is enriched. Automobiles are vastly more comfortable, more luxurious, and more durable than they were in 1919 and we ought to appreciate that fact. It is hard to eradicate the human tendency to get something for nothing. Even in taxes there is often to be found some justice.

PREPARATION

Distinguished medical men in conference in Chicago discuss the kind of preparation doctors ought to have. Sir Norman Hall, eminent Scotch physician from Edenburg, advocates the most thorough training. He urges the firm basis of general education. An American, dean of a medical college, believes that two years in college and three years in the medical school are enough preparation for a degree. Will not most of us vote with the Scotchman? And we would vote with him if he were talking about law, journalism or the ministry. There are too many half trained, half baked professional men. We are too eager to get our boys into careers before they are ready. To be sure, life is short. And it's too short to waste in being only half-way there. Better get under way late—and know where you are going and what it's about.

REASON AND FEAR

A child was afraid of a rabbit. A rabbit was put in a cage and the cage was set on a table. The child was then asked to eat his dinner at the other end. In fear he refused. Finally he got hungry enough to eat, in spite of the rabbit. At the next meal the rabbit was moved a little closer to the child. Soon the child was eating his dinner with the rabbit's cage right in front of him. Fear had been overcome by a definite effort. The only way to beat fear is to face it and conquer it by a definite act of the will, at whatever cost. Few of us have the advantage of having had the fears of childhood eradicated, as in the case of the child and the rabbit. It's a harder problem when we are no longer young.

THE WAY

It is estimated that the sun is losing 360,000 tons of material daily. But at that rate it will last a million years yet. An mankind on the earth will probably last as long as the sun. The time that man has lived on the earth is not more than three days in comparison with the time he is likely to live. But even at that it is logical to suppose that the sun will burn out some day and the life of man on earth be made impossible. That means that we are on the way but not necessarily on the way out. The universe is apparently limitless or at least so large as to be practically unlimited. The end of life on the earth may not mean the end of life in the universe. All we need is more vision and a greater conception of a Creative Being.

"AND YET IT IS A GREAT TALE"

Human life as Joseph Conrad had seen and experienced it since childhood was for most people a quiet desperation. The history of men on this earth, he remarked, might be written on a cigaret paper "in one phrase of infinite poignancy: 'They were born, they suffered, and they died. . . . And yet it is a great tale.'"—Wilbur Cross in the Yale Review.

The fact may not interest you, but "Sinclair" is pronounced with the accent on the first syllable now.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:31. Sun rises tomorrow 5:34.

Smile.

Your nose is your own but it is some one else's business where you stick it.

Once upon a time a man started out on his vacation to take a rest and he had it. Yes, that's a fairy tale.

Two doctors in New Castle are to celebrate their fiftieth anniversaries as practicing physicians in New Castle on April 11. They are Dr. R. A. Wallace and Dr. D. R. Harris. It has been our pleasure to have known these two gentlemen most of that fifty years and we know they not only have been good doctors, but have done their part as citizens to make New Castle the great city it is. We are glad we know them.

The only way some men could ever produce anything in this life is to become a movie director. And then the chances are they wouldn't.

Out in the hills in Southern California, if you were out there on Easter morning you would see thousands of people at sunrise worshiping. They hold their Easter services out in the open and it is a wonderful inspiring sight. A service of that kind could be held in this vicinity and we have an idea it would be wonderful.

Money may get you a seat on the stock exchange or in the Senate, but it takes the old brawn to get one in a street car.

A married man does not doll up much when he starts on a business trip to New York. He waits until he gets there.

A man in New York state got sixty days in jail for holding the hand of his six year old son on a hot stove as punishment for playing with matches. Perhaps some day that bird will be in a place where they have plenty of fire without the need of matches. You sabe?

We call a coward a fellow who does the same thing we would do under the circumstances.

The first thing to do with a grass plot in the spring, some are called lawns, is to get some good grass seed and put it on the bare spots and then give the whole thing a good rolling with a heavy roller. This makes fine grass later on to mow.

The father of twins tells the Hints and Dints man that they are a source of great comfort. We imagined they were twice that.

Suppose for the sake of argument a man does take a cold bath every morning, of what possible interest can it be to those to whom he insists on lying about it?

A reward of fifty thousand dollars is offered for the return of a $250,000 necklace stolen in New York. If it is genuine we will give sixty thousand if it is returned to us. We don't want any phony stuff however.

We are told that moving picture films are now being sent by telephone. Personally we can wait until they arrive by airplane or freight if necessary.

We give up when we see some dudes rolling their socks. Well, they will have to keep their feet clean if they expect to get anywhere with socks rolled as low as they roll 'em.

When you can get home-grown rhubarb it's getting pretty well along towards spring.

TODAY'S STORYETTE

Prominent banker concluding his little chat with the ship news reporters, "And as for the foreign debt situation, I believe that Secretary Mellon has handled the matter in a masterful fashion. If you don't agree with me, I should be glad to answer any questions you may have in mind."

Tabloid reporter: "Is it true that your wife is contemplating a divorce?"

Perhaps some day we will hear of some patriot who will announce that he is going to marry some wild girl to reform her. The girls have been trying that with men for ages, but with not much success.

Most people can still get about all the carrots they want for a nickle.

OUR SHORT STORY

Father was feeling kinda critical toward his son. "Boy," said he, "why don't you get out and find a job? When I was your age I was working fifteen hours a day for three bucks a week and at the end of five years I owned the store. Let that stand as an example to you, son!"

The son reflected some and then replied, "Yer can't do that nowadays, Dad, they all got cash registers!"

Proverbial Stuff—"There's always excursion rates for anyone wanting to go to the dogs."

Thankful I was born a girl.

Just Carried On.—"To what do you attribute your longevity?" inquired the young man.

"To the fact," replied the old man, conclusively, "that I never died."

And There He Was.—"Poor old Miss Mayden came near getting herself into trouble last night. She started, according to her usual habit, to look under her bed—"

"Well?"

"Well, her bed at the time happened to be an upper berth in a sleeping-car."

Bright Messenger.—"Willie," said his mother, "I wish you would run across the street and see how old Mrs. Brown is this morning."

A few minutes later Willie returned and reported:

"Mrs. Brown says it's none of your business how old she is."

Patent Silencer.—"Pa," said Clarence, "what is an optimist?"

"He's a man, son," replied his dad, "who thinks if he tells the back-seat driver to shut up, she'll keep mum for the rest of the trip.

We know a couple of chaps, friends of ours, who started North from St. Petersburg, Fla., wearing straw hats. When they got into the snow district they noticed people grinning at them, and finally fell to the straw hat stuff and went bareheaded the rest of the way home. If you want to attract attention, just wear a straw hat a few minutes—or a few miles—out of season.

Al Smith is going South, and the people down there are planning to give him a rousing welcome. He will get it there, all right.

President Coolidge is said to be taking a great interest in the activities of the Republican leaders at present. He can look on cooly when he knows he could have about everything the leaders have to give. No man ever stood out in American politics like our Prersident. It shows what can be done by not talking and acting to suit the people. We are going to try that ourselves some time.

Telephone service to moving airplanes is the next thing promised. Say, we are surely on our way, but we do not know where we are going.

The rumor that Mr. Trotzky of Russia was shot is vehemently denied. He has been run out of Russian activities and is now in exile. This shows that no matter how much a man wants to save his country there are always enough objectors to put him on the bum. We are surprised the report is untrue.

A man told us yesterday that the reason he was a paperhanger was because it was a business at which he had to work only part of the year. We would like to get into a business like that, but we do not want to hang paper.

There are birds who are not bachelors or widowers from choice—at least not their choice, but the choice of the women.

A most colorful subject is ladies' hosiery.

A former mayor of a city in Georgia disappeared 16 years ago and has just returned to his home city, and refuses to tell where he has been during the 16 years. Most ex-mayors stay right at home and face the music after they get through serving their terms.

The farmers are expected to look out for the corn borer again this spring. The farmers always have a lot of things to look out for or they don't eat. We are for the farmer a thousand ways, and if it was in our power the farmers would have a better time than a winning golf player. We had some experience in farming in our youth and during the war.

It will be just simply terrible when the day comes when humans can see each other over the telephone and radio. It's bad enough just to hear them talk now.

Someone asked us when it was a good time to start planting a garden. Well, as soon as one can get into the ground, that is, when it is not too wet, onions and lettuce can be put in, as also can beets and peas. One has to wait until danger of frost is past before putting in tomatoes or beans.

As to the chameleon, I wouldn't even speak to one. They're too changeable for me.

If the leaders of success were made of rope those who reach the top would know they'd been some place.

The fellow who in the spring declares that his bride is all the world to him soon discovers what a small place it is, after all.

Depew, Wise Man.
Another Special Baby.
Dangerous Arbitrators.
One Big Payroll.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

Chauncey M. Depew, dead in his 94th year, older than the Republican party, which he served long and faithfully, said: "I have lived long because I could laugh at anything."

Of Napoleon, it was said that in his youth "no one ever saw him laugh." He didn't live 93 years, but he did live more in one day than amiable Mr. Depew in all his 94 years.

Chauncey Depew attended 8,000 banquets and never let boredom drive him into eating to much. That's wisdom.

He campaigned for Lincoln, got $1.75 for his first legal services, lived under 24 Presidents, from Andrew Jackson to Calvin Coolidge, and knew 13 of them personally. How many can name the 24 from Jackson on?

Milton wrote, "Hail, Wedded Love, Mysterious Law, True Sourse of Human Offspring." Miss Sylvia Pankhurst doesn't agree with that.

A photograph shows her holding a child, called by reporters "A Love Baby," as though that were a special breed.

Miss Pankhurst, who is unmarried and declines to name the child's father, is mistaken in the idea that her demonstration of a stronger mind "will contribute to woman's freedom."

If the idea spread too far it would contribute to woman's misery.

It has taken men one million years to climb up from a "pithecanthropoid state to semi-decency in married life, and it ought not to go back.

Uncle Sam and Holland claimed a little island called Las Palmas, between the Dutch East Indies and the Philippines. Max Huber, Swiss statesman, named arbitrator, gives Holland the island.

Holland would also have got Pike's Peak had that mountain been included in the arbitration.

We're not complaining, of course, but let's hope nothing really important will ever be submitted by this nation to a foreign world court.

Good news from Detroit and prosperity generally is the employing of more men by the Ford Motor Company. Ford's working total is now 97,563 men, only 12,435 below the peak figures of 1926. A pay roll of more than $600,000 a day, about $180,000,000 a year is not so bad.

The stock market quit Thursday for a three days' rest. For the first time on record the brokers stop work on Saturday following Good Friday. Nothing to do now until Monday.

Anything can happen between Friday and Monday and fear of the unknown usually sends stocks down. Thursday confidence in the unknown sent stocks up.

New York merchants report business excellent, in women's apparel. They buy more of it and less of it, more garments, less material in them. Paper underwear for ladies makes its appearance in several stores.

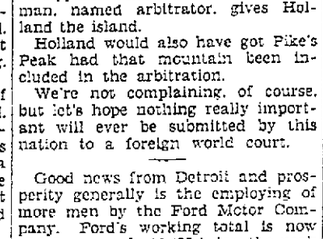
Silk of wood, underwear of paper—not pleasant news for cotton growers.

Good from evil. Senator Borah wanted $160,000 to pay back monies given by Mr. Sinclair to the Republican party. The idea was to make the old Republican lady an honest girl. Enthusiasm died out after $17,000 had been contributed and that money will go to striking miners with hungry children. That's 17,000 times better than giving it to Mr. Sinclair.

At Cannes, on the blue Mediterranean, where no prohibition weighs you down, a Chicago gentleman, aged 52, and feeling generous, threw 40,000 francs from a hotel balcony to enjoy the sight of screaming men and women scrambling for the money.

That sort of thing explains certain European ideas about Americans.

On April 17, friends of Gov. Smith will formally announce his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination. They might quite safely announce simultaneously, that he will get the nomination.



April showers 'll bring May flowers—which'll come handy t' say it with when our friends who never take precautions at rail crossin's, get theirs.

THE SALESMAN TYPE?

Two men were sitting opposite each other in a Tube train. Presently one of them produced a notebook and proceeded to make a sketch of the other.

After he had completed the drawing he closed the book and put it in his pocket.

The man opposite was both interested and gratified by this attention, and, leaning forward, said: "I presume you are an artist, sir?"

"No," replied the other, "I'm not exactly an artist. I'm a designer of door-knockers."—Pearson's.

Still, college professors would have as much news value as Babe Ruth and Dempsey if they were as scarce.

You're right, Mr. Borah; one rotten egg doesn't spoil the whole dozen. But it does when they're scrambled.

Sometimes politicians start a public outcry in order to hide something worse. But sometimes there couldn't be anything worse.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

EASTER

Easter is a Christian festival that utilizes the phenomenon of nature to impress upon us a moral truth.

That phenomenon is the springing into new existence of countless forms of life which have been dead for sometime. The moral truth is that we can "rise upon stepping stones of our dead selves" to new and better terms of life.

It is all a question of how you are going to utilize the past. If you construe its buffetings and failures as arguments of despair it will undo your life. If you can manage to forget the past it is possible to renew your hope and go on to better things.

The Salvation Army motto is, "A man may be down, but he is never out." And it is a common saying that it's a long lane that has no turning.

So, in spite of the past and all its disappointments, let us gird ourselves anew for the future.

The shameful death of Christ our Lord and his resurrection have become symbols of the possibilities that are in every man. Not only for the next world is there hope held out for the failure, but it is possible for us to remake our life in this world.

Renewed courage, therefore, and the determination to try again, in spite of all that has happened, is a good resolution for all of us. Arguments of despair crowd upon all of us and there are a thousand reasons for failure. We can blame others and we can blame environment or we can blame ourselves.

What is the difference what is the reason! The main thing is to begin anew!

Now when all nature is renewing its life is a good time for us to renew our own, to renew our purpose and will and to "strengthen the things that remain."

Don't give up! It is a long lane that has no turning and fortune has away of yielding at last to the determined man.

The most conspicuous successes have come out of terms of failure.

O. Henry began his short story writing in prison for an offense he claimed he never committed. John Bunyan owes his immortal work to a sentence in jail. From the blindness of Milton came that inspiring poem of Paradise Lost.

Out of the jaws of defeat can come victory for any man who will determine to go on and make the best of it.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A NATIONAL MONUMENT

The passage by the Senate of the House Bill appropriating 381,678 for the restoration and preservation of Fort McHenry, Md., will enable the Quartermaster General, who is charged with the care and maintenance of national monuments, to proceed with the plan of restoring the historic site to its original condition. The authorization of the permanent preservation of this national park and perpetual national memorial shrine as the birthplace of the "Star-Spangled Banner", written by Francis Scott Key, will serve ultimately to provide a splendid national monument commemorating the defense of the fort against the bombardment by the British fleet in 1814 and the birth of the National Anthem.

The "Star-Spangled Banner" still flies in the same spot on which Francis Scott Key viewed it from the British vessel whereon he was detained. The original staff from which the national colors flew on that memorable morning has fallen long since, but successive flag poles have been planted on the exact spot occupied by the original.

Sometimes Congress does remember.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

A HUSBAND'S COMPLAINT

Through one and twenty years of all
That tinctures married life.
The honey sweet, the bitter gall,
We've lived as man and wife.
Yet thinking of my lovely Nell,
My fate I think is queer.
The things to eat I love so well
Aren't served me once a year.

Mine is a trivial complaint,
Peculiarly male.
I am no white-embroidered saint,
I seek no Holy Grail.
But waffles and the maple sap
Are my particular dish.
Why should I be the luckless chap
Who never gets his wish?

Why should that lovely wife of mine
So stubborn be with me
And never suit my whim to dine
On waffles, jam and tea?
I bought an iron years ago,
A shiny thing and bright,
But still the syrup doesn't flow
And waffles aren't in sight.

Ah me, the fate of man is sad,
Which no one can deny.
That which would make his spirit glad,
His wife disdains to try.
I order waffles in the town,
And waffles when we roam,
But waffles, crisp and golden brown
I never get at home.

BEWARE OF THE MAN—

Who takes no pride in his own home town.
Who gives his promises too easily—he will not keep them.
Who laughs at anything that some one else holds sacred.
Who is willing to fill the mind of a child with evil.
Who believes that every other man is a hypocrite.
Who puts all his merchandise in the show window.

JUSTICE AND OTHER THINGS

Sometimes I think that we humans know less about justice, of which we talk so much, than we know about many other things. We undoubtedly know a good deal about profit and loss, for instance, and when we speak of these things with authority. But the human conception of justice is still in a very primitive state.

James Lynch Fitzstephen, mayor of Galway, Ireland, in 1493, had a son who was brought before him for trial on a charge of homicide. The young man had undoubtedly killed his rival in a love affair.

Mayor Fitzstephen was possessed of a strong sense of responsibility. He realized the importance and the dignity of his office. He believed himself to possess an abounding sense of justice.

He found his son guilty, sentenced him to death, and then hanged the young man out of the window with his own hands.

HAROLD SPEAKMAN, in his excellent travel book, "Here's Ireland," tells us that there is in Galway at this day an ancient wall on which is carved in bas-relief a skull, with crossbones. Beneath the figure is an inscription celebrating the "stern and unbending justice" of Mayor Fitzstephen.

Well, let posterity say what it will of James Lynch Fitzstephen. I say he was a senseless old brute. I say he confussed his own egotism with a sense of justice. That still happens occasionally, both with parents and with judges.

Jim Fitzstephen murdered his son for his own glorification. He wanted his townspeople, his neighbors, his biographers and his God to glorify him as a great man whose sense of justice outweighed his love for his own flesh and blood. He wanted his constituents to say, "Well, the old man is certainly a good mayor! Nobody gets away with anything; not even his own son."

Jim Fitzstephen wanted everybody in town to fear and respect him, so he hanged his son with his own hands.

What do you think of that kind of father; of that kind of mayor? I think he was a fake, a scoundrel, a criminal. I do not know much about justice. Neither do you; neither does your circuit judge. But I know about the love of a father for his child, and I hope you do too. Jim Fitzstephen in 1493 sacrificed a holy love for an unholy pride which he called justice. And they let that monument stand!

NEVER did the world need the essential meaning and the spiritual stimulus of Easter more than in this year of grace. On every hand are those whom the state of the world disheartens. We are told, if we listen to their lamentation, that religion has failed, that the plain, homely virtues of faith and loving kindness and mercy as between men and their fellows are dead or inoperative, and in this vale of tears the mourners are the most sensible of mortals, since there is no reason to rejoice in anything we hear or see.

To such an attitude of mind Easter comes as a shining and a beautiful refutation, as an angel seen by those who are in sorrow round a tomb.

Easter is not to be observed merely as the commemoration of a triumph over the grave, a victory over death, nineteen centuries ago. It stands for the glory and the power of a resurrection here and now—of a rebirth day, of the springing of new life in this glad hour for "a confident tomorrow."

The meaning of the festival is not to be confined with the ceremony of any sect or any ritual. It cannot all be told in music or in flowers or in the wings and fire of the most eloquent of sermons. It is not all in the glow of the hour of prayer and praise and song. It goes far deeper than words can utter; it reaches the deepest of the truths we know, at the very heart of our human lives, in their need of that which is higher than ourselves, and in their aspiration toward that which is true eternally.

It is each man's resurrection and not that of Christ alone on which this day insists forever. It is in your power and mine to cast off what is of the earth earthy, that holds us down to the mundane and the material.

Easter is the freedom and light, the upspringing joy of the emancipation of the soul of man. Least of all the festivals is it a time for selfish introspection, for the backward look and the unprofitable resemblance of failure and disaster, the sin besetting and the shame disfiguring the pattern of our human lives. It is, instead, the time for the looking and thinking and acting beyond and away from ourselves.

As in the solemn and beautiful jubilee we consider the lilies, and hear the music, and feel the inspiration of the sermon and enter into the radiance and the rapture of the morning, let us take thought how we may impart to other lives and bring to other hearts the joy we feel, knowing that as we are ministered unto it is our duty to minister and to spread abroad the message of the Eastertide to a world that needs all the cheer that any has to give.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:31. Sun rises tomorrow 5:34.

Smile.

Your nose is your own but it is some one else's business where you stick it.

Once upon a time a man started out on his vacation to take a rest and he had it. Yes, that's a fairy tale.

Two doctors in New Castle are to celebrate their fiftieth anniversaries as practicing physicians in New Castle on April 11. They are Dr. R. A. Wallace and Dr. D. R. Harris. It has been our pleasure to have known these two gentlemen most of that fifty years and we know they not only have been good doctors, but have done their part as citizens to make New Castle the great city it is. We are glad we know them.

The only way some men could ever produce anything in this life is to become a movie director. And then the chances are they wouldn't.

Out in the hills in Southern California, if you were out there on Easter morning you would see thousands of people at sunrise worshiping. They hold their Easter services out in the open and it is a wonderful inspiring sight. A service of that kind could be held in this vicinity and we have an idea it would be wonderful.

Money may get you a seat on the stock exchange or in the Senate, but it takes the old brawn to get one in a street car.

A married man does not doll up much when he starts on a business trip to New York. He waits until he gets there.

A man in New York state got sixty days in jail for holding the hand of his six year old son on a hot stove as punishment for playing with matches. Perhaps some day that bird will be in a place where they have plenty of fire without the need of matches. You sabe?

The first thing to do with a grass plot in the spring, some are called lawns, is to get some good grass seed and put it on the bare spots and then give the whole thing a good rolling with a heavy roller. This makes fine grass later on to mow.

Suppose for the sake of argument a man does take a cold bath every morning, of what possible interest can it be to those to whom he insists on lying about it?

A reward of fifty thousand dollars is offered for the return of a $250,000 necklace stolen in New York. If it is genuine we will give sixty thousand if it is returned to us. We don't want any phony stuff however.

We are told that moving picture films are now being sent by telephone. Personally we can wait until they arrive by airplane or freight if necessary.

We give up when we see some dudes rolling their socks. Well, they will have to keep their feet clean if they expect to get anywhere with socks rolled as low as they roll 'em.

Perhaps some day we will hear of some patriot who will announce that he is going to marry some wild girl to reform her. The girls have been trying that with men for ages, but with not much success.

OUR SHORT STORY

Father was feeling kinda critical toward his son. "Boy," said he, "why don't you get out and find a job? When I was your age I was working fifteen hours a day for three bucks a week and at the end of five years I owned the store. Let that stand as an example to you, son!"

The son reflected some and then replied, "Yer can't do that nowadays, Dad, they all got cash registers!"

With your big-legged pantaloons,
And your jazzy whistled tunes,

As we pass, my lips I curl,
Thankful I was born a girl.

Just Carried On.—"To what do you attribute your longevity?" inquired the young man.

"To the fact," replied the old man, conclusively, "that I never died."

And There He Was.—"Poor old Miss Mayden came near getting herself into trouble last night. She started, according to her usual habit, to look under her bed—"

"Well?"

"Well, her bed at the time happened to be an upper berth in a sleeping-car."

Bright Messenger.—"Willie," said his mother, "I wish you would run across the street and see how old Mrs. Brown is this morning."

A few minutes later Willie returned and reported:

"Mrs. Brown says it's none of your business how old she is."

"He's a man, son," replied his dad, "who thinks if he tells the back-seat driver to shut up, she'll keep mum for the rest of the trip.

We know a couple of chaps, friends of ours, who started North from St. Petersburg, Fla., wearing straw hats. When they got into the snow district they noticed people grinning at them, and finally fell to the straw hat stuff and went bareheaded the rest of the way home. If you want to attract attention, just wear a straw hat a few minutes—or a few miles—out of season.

President Coolidge is said to be taking a great interest in the activities of the Republican leaders at present. He can look on cooly when he knows he could have about everything the leaders have to give. No man ever stood out in American politics like our Prersident. It shows what can be done by not talking and acting to suit the people. We are going to try that ourselves some time.

The rumor that Mr. Trotzky of Russia was shot is vehemently denied. He has been run out of Russian activities and is now in exile. This shows that no matter how much a man wants to save his country there are always enough objectors to put him on the bum. We are surprised the report is untrue.

A man told us yesterday that the reason he was a paperhanger was because it was a business at which he had to work only part of the year. We would like to get into a business like that, but we do not want to hang paper.

It will be just simply terrible when the day comes when humans can see each other over the telephone and radio. It's bad enough just to hear them talk now.

Someone asked us when it was a good time to start planting a garden. Well, as soon as one can get into the ground, that is, when it is not too wet, onions and lettuce can be put in, as also can beets and peas. One has to wait until danger of frost is past before putting in tomatoes or beans.

Depew, Wise Man.
Another Special Baby.
Dangerous Arbitrators.
One Big Payroll.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

Chauncey M. Depew, dead in his 94th year, older than the Republican party, which he served long and faithfully, said: "I have lived long because I could laugh at anything."

Of Napoleon, it was said that in his youth "no one ever saw him laugh." He didn't live 93 years, but he did live more in one day than amiable Mr. Depew in all his 94 years.

Chauncey Depew attended 8,000 banquets and never let boredom drive him into eating to much. That's wisdom.

He campaigned for Lincoln, got $1.75 for his first legal services, lived under 24 Presidents, from Andrew Jackson to Calvin Coolidge, and knew 13 of them personally. How many can name the 24 from Jackson on?

Milton wrote, "Hail, Wedded Love, Mysterious Law, True Sourse of Human Offspring." Miss Sylvia Pankhurst doesn't agree with that.

A photograph shows her holding a child, called by reporters "A Love Baby," as though that were a special breed.

Miss Pankhurst, who is unmarried and declines to name the child's father, is mistaken in the idea that her demonstration of a stronger mind "will contribute to woman's freedom."

If the idea spread too far it would contribute to woman's misery.

It has taken men one million years to climb up from a "pithecanthropoid state to semi-decency in married life, and it ought not to go back.

Uncle Sam and Holland claimed a little island called Las Palmas, between the Dutch East Indies and the Philippines. Max Huber, Swiss statesman, named arbitrator, gives Holland the island.

Holland would also have got Pike's Peak had that mountain been included in the arbitration.

We're not complaining, of course, but let's hope nothing really important will ever be submitted by this nation to a foreign world court.

Good news from Detroit and prosperity generally is the employing of more men by the Ford Motor Company. Ford's working total is now 97,563 men, only 12,435 below the peak figures of 1926. A pay roll of more than $600,000 a day, about $180,000,000 a year is not so bad.

The stock market quit Thursday for a three days' rest. For the first time on record the brokers stop work on Saturday following Good Friday. Nothing to do now until Monday.

Anything can happen between Friday and Monday and fear of the unknown usually sends stocks down. Thursday confidence in the unknown sent stocks up.

New York merchants report business excellent, in women's apparel. They buy more of it and less of it, more garments, less material in them. Paper underwear for ladies makes its appearance in several stores.

Silk of wood, underwear of paper—not pleasant news for cotton growers.

Good from evil. Senator Borah wanted $160,000 to pay back monies given by Mr. Sinclair to the Republican party. The idea was to make the old Republican lady an honest girl. Enthusiasm died out after $17,000 had been contributed and that money will go to striking miners with hungry children. That's 17,000 times better than giving it to Mr. Sinclair.

At Cannes, on the blue Mediterranean, where no prohibition weighs you down, a Chicago gentleman, aged 52, and feeling generous, threw 40,000 francs from a hotel balcony to enjoy the sight of screaming men and women scrambling for the money.

That sort of thing explains certain European ideas about Americans.

On April 17, friends of Gov. Smith will formally announce his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination. They might quite safely announce simultaneously, that he will get the nomination.

April showers 'll bring May flowers—which'll come handy t' say it with when our friends who never take precautions at rail crossin's, get theirs.

THE SALESMAN TYPE?

Two men were sitting opposite each other in a Tube train. Presently one of them produced a notebook and proceeded to make a sketch of the other.

After he had completed the drawing he closed the book and put it in his pocket.

The man opposite was both interested and gratified by this attention, and, leaning forward, said: "I presume you are an artist, sir?"

"No," replied the other, "I'm not exactly an artist. I'm a designer of door-knockers."—Pearson's.

Still, college professors would have as much news value as Babe Ruth and Dempsey if they were as scarce.

You're right, Mr. Borah; one rotten egg doesn't spoil the whole dozen. But it does when they're scrambled.

EASTER

Easter is a Christian festival that utilizes the phenomenon of nature to impress upon us a moral truth.

That phenomenon is the springing into new existence of countless forms of life which have been dead for sometime. The moral truth is that we can "rise upon stepping stones of our dead selves" to new and better terms of life.

It is all a question of how you are going to utilize the past. If you construe its buffetings and failures as arguments of despair it will undo your life. If you can manage to forget the past it is possible to renew your hope and go on to better things.

The Salvation Army motto is, "A man may be down, but he is never out." And it is a common saying that it's a long lane that has no turning.

So, in spite of the past and all its disappointments, let us gird ourselves anew for the future.

The shameful death of Christ our Lord and his resurrection have become symbols of the possibilities that are in every man. Not only for the next world is there hope held out for the failure, but it is possible for us to remake our life in this world.

Renewed courage, therefore, and the determination to try again, in spite of all that has happened, is a good resolution for all of us. Arguments of despair crowd upon all of us and there are a thousand reasons for failure. We can blame others and we can blame environment or we can blame ourselves.

What is the difference what is the reason! The main thing is to begin anew!

Now when all nature is renewing its life is a good time for us to renew our own, to renew our purpose and will and to "strengthen the things that remain."

Don't give up! It is a long lane that has no turning and fortune has away of yielding at last to the determined man.

The most conspicuous successes have come out of terms of failure.

O. Henry began his short story writing in prison for an offense he claimed he never committed. John Bunyan owes his immortal work to a sentence in jail. From the blindness of Milton came that inspiring poem of Paradise Lost.

Out of the jaws of defeat can come victory for any man who will determine to go on and make the best of it.

A NATIONAL MONUMENT

The passage by the Senate of the House Bill appropriating $81,678 for the restoration and preservation of Fort McHenry, Md., will enable the Quartermaster General, who is charged with the care and maintenance of national monuments, to proceed with the plan of restoring the historic site to its original condition. The authorization of the permanent preservation of this national park and perpetual national memorial shrine as the birthplace of the "Star-Spangled Banner", written by Francis Scott Key, will serve ultimately to provide a splendid national monument commemorating the defense of the fort against the bombardment by the British fleet in 1814 and the birth of the National Anthem.

The "Star-Spangled Banner" still flies in the same spot on which Francis Scott Key viewed it from the British vessel whereon he was detained. The original staff from which the national colors flew on that memorable morning has fallen long since, but successive flag poles have been planted on the exact spot occupied by the original.

A HUSBAND'S COMPLAINT

Through one and twenty years of all
That tinctures married life,
The honey sweet, the bitter gall,
We've lived as man and wife.
Yet thinking of my lovely Nell,
My fate I think is queer.
The things to eat I love so well
Aren't served me once a year.

Mine is a trivial complaint,
Peculiarly male.
I am no white-embroidered saint,
I seek no Holy Grail.
But waffles and the maple sap
Are my particular dish.
Why should I be the luckless chap
Who never gets his wish?

Why should that lovely wife of mine
So stubborn be with me
And never suit my whim to dine
On waffles, jam and tea?
I bought an iron years ago,
A shiny thing and bright.
But still the syrup doesn't flow
And waffles aren't in sight.

Ah me, the fate of man is sad,
Which no one can deny.
That which would make his spirit glad,
His wife disdains to try.
I order waffles in the town,
And waffles when we roam.
But waffles, crisp and golden brown
I never get at home.

BEWARE OF THE MAN—

Who takes no pride in his own home town.
Who gives his promises too easily—he will not keep them.
Who laughs at anything that some one else holds sacred.
Who is willing to fill the mind of a child with evil.
Who believes that every other man is a hypocrite.
Who puts all his merchandise in the show window.

WORTH THE MONEY

Statistics show that the average automobile tax is almost 300 per cent greater now than it was in 1919. We all resent increase in taxes, no matter how much more we get for our money or how greatly life is enriched. Automobiles are vastly more comfortable, more luxurious, and more durable than they were in 1919 and we ought to appreciate that fact. It is hard to eradicate the human tendency to get something for nothing. Even in taxes there is often to be found some justice.

PREPARATION

Distinguished medical men in conference in Chicago discuss the kind of preparation doctors ought to have. Sir Norman Hall, eminent Scotch physician from Edenburg, advocates the most thorough training. He urges the firm basis of general education. An American, dean of a medical college, believes that two years in college and three years in the medical school are enough preparation for a degree. Will not most of us vote with the Scotchman? And we would vote with him if he were talking about law, journalism or the ministry. There are too many half trained, half baked professional men. We are too eager to get our boys into careers before they are ready. To be sure, life is short. And it's too short to waste in being only half-way there. Better get under way late—and know where you are going and what it's about.

REASON AND FEAR

A child was afraid of a rabbit. A rabbit was put in a cage and the cage was set on a table. The child was then asked to eat his dinner at the other end. In fear he refused. Finally he got hungry enough to eat, in spite of the rabbit. At the next meal the rabbit was moved a little closer to the child. Soon the child was eating his dinner with the rabbit's cage right in front of him. Fear had been overcome by a definite effort. The only way to beat fear is to face it and conquer it by a definite act of the will, at whatever cost. Few of us have the advantage of having had the fears of childhood eradicated, as in the case of the child and the rabbit. It's a harder problem when we are no longer young.

THE WAY

It is estimated that the sun is losing 360,000 tons of material daily. But at that rate it will last a million years yet. An mankind on the earth will probably last as long as the sun. The time that man has lived on the earth is not more than three days in comparison with the time he is likely to live. But even at that it is logical to suppose that the sun will burn out some day and the life of man on earth be made impossible. That means that we are on the way but not necessarily on the way out. The universe is apparently limitless or at least so large as to be practically unlimited. The end of life on the earth may not mean the end of life in the universe. All we need is more vision and a greater conception of a Creative Being.

"AND YET IT IS A GREAT TALE"

Human life as Joseph Conrad had seen and experienced it since childhood was for most people a quiet desperation. The history of men on this earth, he remarked, might be written on a cigaret paper "in one phrase of infinite poignancy: "They were born, they suffered, and they died. . . . And yet it is a great tale."—Wilbur Cross in the Yale Review.

The fact may not interest you, but "Sinclair" is pronounced with the accent on the first syllable now.

JUSTICE AND OTHER THINGS

Sometimes I think that we humans know less about justice, of which we talk so much, than we know about many other things. We undoubtedly know a good deal about profit and loss, for instance, and when we speak of these things with authority. But the human conception of justice is still in a very primitive state.

James Lynch Fitzstephen, mayor of Galway, Ireland, in 1493, had a son who was brought before him for trial on a charge of homicide. The young man had undoubtedly killed his rival in a love affair.

Mayor Fitzstephen was possessed of a strong sense of responsibility. He realized the importance and the dignity of his office. He believed himself to possess an abounding sense of justice.

He found his son guilty, sentenced him to death, and then hanged the young man out of the window with his own hands.

HAROLD SPEAKMAN, in his excellent travel book, "Here's Ireland," tells us that there is in Galway at this day an ancient wall on which is carved in bas-relief a skull, with crossbones. Beneath the figure is an inscription celebrating the "stern and unbending justice" of Mayor Zitzstephen.

Well, let posterity say what it will of James Lynch Fitzstephen. I say he was a senseless old brute. I say he confussed his own egotism with a sense of justice. That still happens occasionally, both with parents and with judges.

Jim Fitzstephen murdered his son for his own glorification. He wanted his townspeople, his neighbors, his biographers and his God to glorify him as a great man whose sense of justice outweighed his love for his own flesh and blood. He wanted his constituents to say, "Well, the old man is certainly a good mayor! Nobody gets away with anything; not even his own son."

Jim Fitzstephen wanted everybody in town to fear and respect him, so he hanged his son with his own hands.

What do you think of that kind of father; of that kind of mayor? I think he was a fake, a scoundrel, a criminal. I do not know much about justice. Neither do you; neither does your circuit judge. But I know about the love of a father for his child, and I hope you do too. Jim Fitzstephen in 1493 sacrificed a holy love for an unholy pride which he called justice. And they let that monument stand!

Late Senator Willis Did Not Leave Any Will

DELAWARE, O., April 7.—That the late U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis had a premonition that death was imminent was indicated today when it became known that he left no will.

No appraisement of the estate has been filed, it was stated.

Several Would Benefit By Bill

House Committee Reports Favorably On Bill On Pensions

By GEORGE H. MANNING,
(Washington Correspondent of The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 7.—Two widows and a dependent daughter of Civil War veterans residing in the Twenty-sixth Congressional district would be benefitted in Congress passes the bill which has just been reported to the House by the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Pensions at the rate of $30 a month would be provided for Mrs. Clara E. Campbell of Grove City, and Mrs. Frances G. Douglas of Franklin. Mrs. Campbell is the widow of John Campbell who served in Company C, 155th Regiment Pennsylvania Infantry. They were married on October 12, 1905 and the soldier dies on November 16, 1919. Mrs. Douglas is the widow of Thomas W. Douglas, late of Company G, 100th Regiment Pennsylvania Infantry. They were married on June 19, 1909 and the soldier died on November 6, 1926. Both widows are unable to support themselves because of their physical condition and have no means of support. They are not now eligible for pensions since they were married prior to June 27, 1905 and under the general law only widows who were the wives of veterans prior to that date are given pensionable status. Both are 71 years old.

Pearl E. Hennon, Wampum, is the dependent daughter of William C. Hennon, late of Company I, 67th Regiment Pennsylvania Infantry. Her mother, Catherine A. Hennon, is now receiving a pension at the rate of $30 a month and the bill provides an additional pension at the rate of $20 a month for the daughter. The latter has been an invalid since birth and the mother is also in need of constant attention. No one is legally bound to the support of either.

In the bill just reported pensions or pension increases are provided for 1,313 veterans their widows or dependents. It is estimated that it will cost the government $420,581 for the first year if the bill is passed.

Bunco Men Get $1,000 From Bachelor

Standing in front of the Olympic theater, he was engaged in conversation by two men who quickly learned that he had $1,000 savings on deposit in a local bank. They persuaded him that his savings could be doubled in a short while and he withdrew and rejoined his newly-found "friends."

They started for a motor ride and, a short distance from town, one of the men complained of illness and sent the Monessen man back to a store to get a bottle of soft drink, persuading him to leave his money in the car "so that we can be sure you will return." Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Passing the banks of the city this morning, one might have imagined that they were giving away souvenirs. Long lines of customers waiting to get to the deposit windows, many of them mill men, with checks to be cashed.

Most of the bank lobbies needed traffic officers to direct the crowd. It was the Easter payday crowd and that money that came out with the men and women, boded business for the merchants.

New suits and pretty frocks, hats and hose and jewelry, corsage boquets and cut flowers, potted plants and candies for the youngsters, rabbits and chickens and ducks and bales of that fluffy green paper they use.

The bank clerks will be tired tonight and probably the good of the Good Friday holiday will be forgotten. But their physical weariness can be forgotten when it is remembered that the crowds they handled this morning will be putting a lot of that money into the channels of commerce and trade.

One really should be neighborly with our Ohio cousins, and yet, honestly, the cars with Ohio licenses do violate not only traffic ordinances in New Castle, but the dictates of good driving sense.

Saw an accident this morning that was the fault of an Ohio driver. He was crossing the East Washington street bridge and was headed up the hill. Instead of taking the outside lane of traffic which is the through traffic lane, he insisted on creeping up on the inside or Croton turn lane. At the corner he got himself wedged a little later he pulled out of the line and got caught on the street car track with a car coming against him. Up at Court street he again pulled out and a traffic jam ahead stopped traffic. The Ohio man had to get back in line to avoid a collision and he did the expected thing rammed a car ahead of him and did some damage.

The car damaged was a taxi. Now perhaps you may have thought that taxi drivers are apt to be reckless, but in this case, the driver was absolutely blameless. The owner of that taxi line might be inclined to criticize his driver, but in justice to the driver, it should be said that he was in no wise responsible for the accident.

New Castle is always glad to welcome cars from other states, and the police here are most lenient in dealing with strangers, but the stranger should expect to be as courteous as he is treated.

That rain of this morning looked like an unfriendly gesture on the part of the weather man. Gloom, thick and heavy and dank settled on the faces of many of the fair young things who were prepared to give the folks a treat tomorrow morning when the Easter parade moves out.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

The county commissioners were planning for two new bridges in Little Beaver township, at a cost of $3,000.00.

The New Castle Athletics organized a baseball team with George Dennis as manager and John McDonald as secretary. (Do you remember some of that team, folks! Asberry, Keenan, Kliendenst and the rest of the stars?)

NEURITIS PAINS VANISHED SINCE HE GOT KONJOLA

New Castle Man Tells How The New Medicine Restored His Health.

"By the score we see cases of neuritis the pains are piercing—just like hot knives cutting into the nerves", said the Konjola Man, yesterday, at the Love & Megown drug store, 204 East Washington St., New Castle, where he is personally introducing the new medical product, Konjola, to the people of this vicinity.

"Many authorities have stated that the agony of neuritis is likened unto an electrical shock. The shooting pains may effect the sufferer at frequent intervals. Some call the affliction neuralgia, while others say it is like rheumatism, but in either event, it is a terrible affliction and one of the most agonizing diseases mankind is heir to", continued the Konjola Man.

It is surprising what this new medical preparation, Konjola will accomplish in so many cases of neuritis sufferins. By invigorating the inner organs and cleansing the system of poisons, this Konjola brings amazing relief to the neuritis sufferer. For instance, just the other day, Mr. James McCart, McClelland Ave., New Castle, made the following statement:

"I had neuritis for a long time", said Mr. McCart, "The pains centered in my arms and shoulders. At times I would feel numb from the tips of my fingers to my elbows, but most of the time, my shoulders would be a solid mass of aches and pains. Many times I would have have to be helped out of bed in the mornings and I never could do my work the way I should. Finally it seemed like my entire back was affected with this terrible disease. My kidneys were very weak and I would have to rise several times during the night. But these were not my only ailments as I was troubled with my stomach. After every meal I would suffer from indigestion pains. With all these miseries to bother me I was very discouraged and was wondering if I would ever be well again.

"I decided to give this Konjola a trial after it had helped my wife so much. It seemed to go to the very source of my trouble. In just a few days the pains were easing and I kept right on taking this medicine. Now I am in the best of health and no one would never know that I had a sick day in my life. All the neuritis pains are gone and I can do my work without suffering like I did before. My kidneys and stomach are normal and I can hardly realize I ever suffered with these organs. In every way I feel like a different person and I have a lot of faith in Konjola, so I am endorsing it to others so that they may benefit as I have."

The Konjola Man is at the Love & Megown drug store, 204 East Washington St., New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

Mrs. Campbell is the widow of John Campbell who served in Company C, 155th Regiment Pennsylvania Infantry. They were married on October 12, 1905 and the soldier dies on November 16, 1919. Mrs. Douglas is the widow of Thomas W. Douglas, late of Company G, 100th Regiment Pennsylvania Infantry. They were married on June 19, 1909 and the soldier died on November 6, 1926. Both widows are unable to support themselves because of their physical condition and have no means of support. They are not now eligible for pensions since they were married prior to June 27, 1905 and under the general law only widows who were the wives of veterans prior to that date are given pensionable status. Both are 71 years old.

NEURITIS PAINS VANISHED SINCE HE GOT KONJOLA

New Castle Man Tells How The New Medicine Restored His Health.

"In the more severe cases of neuritis the pains are piercing—just like hot knives cutting into the nerves", said the Konjola Man, yesterday, at the Love & Megown drug store, 204 East Washington St., New Castle, where he is personally introducing the new medical product, Konjola, to the people of this vicinity.

"Many authorities have stated that the agony of neuritis is likened unto an electrical shock, the shooting pains may effect the sufferer at frequent intervals. Some call the affliction neuralgia, while others say it is like rheumatism, but in either event, it is a terrible affliction and one of the most agonizing diseases mankind is heir to", continued the Konjola Man.

It is surprising what this new medical preparation, Konjola will accomplish in so many cases of neuritis suffering. By invigorating the inner organs and cleansing the system of poisons, this Konjola brings amazing relief to the neuritis sufferer. For instance, just the other day, Mr. James McCart, McClelland Ave., New Castle, made the following statement:

"I had neuritis for a long time", said Mr. McCart, "The pains centered in my arms and shoulders. At times I would feel numb from the tips of my fingers to my elbows, but most of the time, my shoulders would be a solid mass of aches and pains. Many times I would have have to be helped out of bed in the mornings and I never could do my work the way I should. Finally it seemed like my entire back was effected with this terrible disease. My kidneys were very weak and I would have to rise several times during the night. But these were not my only ailments as I was troubled with my stomach. After every meal I would suffer from indigestion pains. With all these miseries to bother me I was very discouraged and was wondering if I would ever be well again.

"I decided to give this Konjola a trial after it had helped my wife so much. It seemed to go to the very source of my trouble. In just a few days the pains were easing up and I kept right on taking this medicine. Now I am in the best of health and no one would never know that I had a sick day in my life. All the neuritis pains are gone and I can do my work without suffering like I did before. My kidneys and stomach are normal and I can hardly realize I ever suffered with these organs. In every way I feel like a different person and I have a lot of faith in Konjola, so I am indorsing it to others so that they may benefit as I have."

The Konjola Man is at the Love & Megown drug store, 204 East Washington St., New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

Churches Ready For Easter Day

Services On Sunday Will Draw Thousands In New Castle

SPECIAL MUSIC WILL FEATURE

Many Of Congregations To Receive Large Numbers Of New Members

By REV. R. L. McCONNELL
(Of News' Staff)

Easter Sunday, the anniversary of the resurrection of Christ Jesus from the dead, has become the greatest day next to Christmas if not the greatest day in the church year of most of the churches of the world.

It commemorates the greatest victory of the world when death was overcome by the Son of God. It is a joyful event and in this part of the world happens in the springtime when nature is coming to life again after the deadness of winter. The season is symbolic of the great event of Christian history.

Easter is the climax of Good Friday as the Resurrection was the complement of the sacrifice of God in the Crucifixion. Many of the churches of the city have been making special efforts during the past week and Sunday will be the climax of their efforts.

At the morning services of many of the churches of the city the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed and the reception of new members is being held as an ingathering of special evangelistic efforts of the past few weeks.

Special Easter music will be the feature of all services on Sunday and many of the evening services in various churches are being devoted entirely to the gospel of music. The choirs of several churches are giving Easter cantatas in which the resurrection story will be presented in the service of song.

Jeanne Eagels Given Suspension

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Apr. 7—Jeanne Eagles stage star, was suspended Friday by the Actor's Equity Association until September 1, 1929, and was fined two weeks salary.

The suspension was the result of her failure to appear in St. Louis for a schedule run of "Her Cardboard Lover," causing the play to close and throwing other members of the cast out of work.

Prior to the scheduled week in St. Louis, she had failed to appear for shows in Milwaukee, Boston, Brooklyn, her managers complained.

The action was brought by A. H. Woods and Gilbert Miller, producers of "Her Cardboard Lover."

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The United States Chamber of Commerce will begin its fight for a $400,000,000 tax reduction before the Senate finance committee in open hearings Monday, Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman, announced today.

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotion

Prepared by Rev. Jay T. Stocking, D.D., for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

Topic for Holy Week:
"RELIGION AND HOPE"

Saturday:
"The Living Christ"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "Because I live, ye shall live also" (John 14:19).

Read: John 14: 12-24.

MEDITATION: Yesterday we thought of the dying Christ. But it is in the living Christ that we have our hope. He died on Calvary nineteen hundred years ago and that He might live everywhere today. Nothing has so moved men and strengthened them as His living spirit. It has inspired the greatest deeds of men. "Not I live, but Christ that liveth in me," said St. Paul. In the sense of His presence men have done the impossible. What means the gradual conquest of suffering, ignorance, and hatred but that Christ is living in the world and carrying on His saving healing and redeeming work? Because He lives, we are full of hope for the future.

PRAYER: O God, give us sight to behold our unseen Lord. And may we have such fellowship with Him in sorrow and in victory that we may know the secret of His strength and peace and see even in our darkest and most difficult hour the shining of the eternal Light. Amen.

The solemnity of Easter in the Catholic church will be shown at its best Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock Mass at St. Mary's church. Churches Ready For Easter Day

Services On Sunday Will Draw Thousands In New Castle

SPECIAL MUSIC WILL FEATURE

By REV. R. I. McCONNELL
(Of News' Staff)

Easter Sunday, the anniversary of the resurrection of Christ Jesus from the dead, has become the greatest day next to Christmas if not the greatest day in the church year of most of the churches of the world.

It commemorates the greatest victory of the world when death was overcome by the Son of God. It is a joyful event and in this part of the world happens in the springtime when nature is coming to life again after the deadness of winter. The season is symbolic of the great event of Christian history.

Easter is the climax of Good Friday as the Resurrection was the complement of the sacrifice of God in the Crucifixion. Many of the churches of the city have been making special efforts during the past week and Sunday will be the climax of their efforts.

At the morning services of many of the churches of the city the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed and the reception of new members is being held as an ingathering of special evangelistic efforts of the past few weeks.

Special Easter music will be the feature of all services on Sunday and many of the evening services in various churches are being devoted entirely to the gospel of music. The choirs of several churches are giving Easter cantatas in which the resurrection story will be presented in the service of song.

NEW YORK, Apr. 7—Jeanne Eagles stage star, was suspended Friday by the Actor's Equity Association until September 1, 1929, and was fined two weeks salary.

The suspension was the result of her failure to appear in St. Louis for a schedule run of "Her Cardboard Lover," causing the play to close and throwing other members of the cast out of work.

Prior to the scheduled week in St. Louis, she had failed to appear for shows in Milwaukee, Boston, Brooklyn, her managers complained.

Daily Lenten Devotion

Prepared by Rev. Jay T. Stocking, D.D., for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

Topic for Holy Week:
"RELIGION AND HOPE"

Saturday:
"The Living Christ"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "Because I live, ye shall live also" (John 14:19).

Read: John 14: 12-24.

MEDITATION: Yesterday we thought of the dying Christ. But it is in the living Christ that we have our hope. He died on Calvary nineteen hundred years ago and that He might live everywhere today. Nothing has so moved men and strengthened them as His living spirit. It has inspired the greatest deeds of men. "Not I live, but Christ that liveth in me," said St. Paul. In the sense of His presence men have done the impossible. What means the gradual conquest of suffering, ignorance, and hatred but that Christ is living in the world and carrying on His saving healing and redeeming work? Because He lives, we are full of hope for the future.

PRAYER: O God, give us sight to behold our unseen Lord. And may we have such fellowship with Him in sorrow and in victory that we may know the secret of His strength and peace and see even in our darkest and most difficult hour the shining of the eternal Light. Amen.

Plan Active Warfare On Lake Rum Runners

(International News Service)

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 7. — The most drastic attempt yet to stem the flow of liquor into this country from Canada by way of Lake Erie, is about to be inaugurated, according to announcement made today by the Coast Guard here.

Radio stations, amphibian planes, and sufficient rum chasers to patrol the lake at intervals of every two miles, are among the means to be used in the drive which it is hoped will drive the bootleggers from Lake Erie.

The spring drive against rum-runners, began in earnest, with the capture, Wednesday, of a large quantity of liquor on Grand Island.

There will be three radio stations established, according to St. Martin W. Rasmussen, district coast guard commander. One will be at Buffalo, one at Erie, Pa., and the other at Cleveland. Operations of the rum runners have been most active in the territory between here and Cleveland.

The amphibian planes will patrol the coast and lake, while 86 rum chasers will be stationed at points two miles apart, on the lake, in forming a formidable net against all contraband liquor.

Theatre Bombing Plot Unearthed

Confessions Reveal Plot And Subsequent Bombing Of Hammond Theatre

(International News Service)

CROWN POINT, Ind., April 7.—Two thousand dollars was the price paid for the destruction of the State Theater, Hammond's million dollar movie palace, according to the confessions made by the three leading conspirators to Prosecuting Attorney Oliver Starr, Sheriff Ben Strong and Deputy Fire Marshal Elmer Vrooman. These officials today took steps for the speedy trial of the bombers.

All confessions state that William Kleihege, Sr., the lessee of the State Theatre whose ownership of the Parthenon, Orpheum and De Luxe Theatres in the Calumet region made the lease a losing proposition, was responsible for the bombing. It was by faithfully following this theory as to motive and the failure of one of the plotters "to be paid even a thin dime" for his work that the six month old mystery was finally solved.

The first break in the dynamiter's ring occurred following the arrest of Marwood Williams, trustee of the Hammond Hod Carriers' and Common Laborers Union, who failed to receive any part of the money promised him. He was arrested in the latter part of March and gave two previous confessions admitting participation in other bombings before he told the authorities the full story of the State Theatre plot.

In it Williams claims he was "drawn in" on the conspiracy when Harry Ames, business agent of the hod carriers; Dean Malloy, former bartender and Chicago gunman, and James Tutes, Ames' bodyguard drove up in front of the Hammond Labor Temple and asked him to come with them, that they had "a job." He accused Ames and Tutes of planting the dynamite.

After telling his story Williams was taken to the county jail where he confronted Ames in the presence of the state officials. Ames up to this time had denied any connection with the bombing. Finally after a conference with Vrooman to whom he made his first admissions Ames decided to "come clean" and laughingly boasted that the State Theatre bombing was "mighty fine racketeer's job and he was proud of it."

Joe Million, movie operator went before the official group and told how he became the payoff man between Kleihege on State street in Hammond when the theatre owner said he wished the State Theatre was down.

Million then tells how Kleihege met him on State street on November first, one week before the theatre was blown up, and gave him $2,000 wrapped up in rubber bands. He confirms Ames' confession stating he gave him $1,000 in bills of small denomination in the basement of the Labor Temple at which time the final details of the plot was arranged.

Million states he had not talked with Kleihege about the bombing since it occurred but that he told him he had hired Ames to do the job on the day the money changed hands. He also claims to have instructed Ames to use dynamite and that it was not their intention to so completely destroy the building.

Theatre Bombing Plot Unearthed

Confessions Reveal Plot And Subsequent Bombing Of Hammond Theatre

(International News Service)

CROWN POINT, Ind., April 7.—Two thousand dollars was the price paid for the destruction of the State Theater, Hammond's million dollar movie palace, according to the confessions made by the three leading conspirators to Prosecuting Attorney Oliver Starr, Sheriff Ben Strong and Deputy Fire Marshal Elmer Vrooman. These officials today took steps for the speedy trial of the bombers.

All confessions state that William Kleihege, Sr., the lessee of the State Theatre whose ownership of the Parthenon, Orpheum and De Luxe Theatres in the Calumet region made the lease a losing proposition, was responsible for the bombing. It was by faithfully following this theory as to motive and the failure of one of the plotters "to be paid even a thin dime" for his work that the six month old mystery was finally solved.

The first break in the dynamiter's ring occurred following the arrest of Marwood Williams, trustee of the Hammond Hod Carriers' and Common Laborers Union, who failed to receive any part of the money promised him. He was arrested in the latter part of March and gave two previous confessions admitting participation in other bombings before he told the authorities the full story of the State Theatre plot.

In it Williams claims he was "drawn in" on the conspiracy when Harry Ames, business agent of the hod carriers; Dean Malloy, former bartender and Chicago gunman, and James Tutes, Ames' bodyguard drove up in front of the Hammond Labor Temple and asked him to come with them, that they had "a job." He accused Ames and Tutes of planting the dynamite.

After telling his story Williams was taken to the county jail where he confronted Ames in the presence of the state officials. Ames up to this time had denied any connection with the bombing. Finally after a conference with Vrooman to whom he made his first admissions Ames decided to "come clean" and laughingly boasted that the State Theatre bombing was "mighty fine racketeer's job and he was proud of it."

Joe Million, movie operator went before the official group and told how he became the payoff man between Kleihege on State street in Hammond when the theatre owner said he wished the State Theatre was down.

Million then tells how Kleihege met him on State street on November first, one week before the theatre was blown up, and gave him $2,000 wrapped up in rubber bands. He confirms Ames' confession stating he gave him $1,000 in bills of small denomination in the basement of the Labor Temple at which time the final details of the plot was arranged.

Million states he had not talked with Kleihege about the bombing since it occurred but that he told him he had hired Ames to do the job on the day the money changed hands. He also claims to have instructed Ames to use dynamite and that it was not their intention to so completely destroy the building.

Special Services At New Bedford

Evangelistic meetings at New Bedford M. E. church are progressing nicely; interest steadily growing night after night. There have been different speakers each evening and a number of seekers at the altar. The Holy Bible is being expounded in its purity and folks are coming from far and near to hear the old fashioned gospel preached.

Miss McClain plays at each service on her violin, bells and banjo-guitar.

There will be three meetings on Easter Day, the usual morning service at 10:30, at 2:30 in the afternoon there will be a praise service and music and singing, and then the evangelistic service in the evening again at 7:30. G. E. Shaffer is in charge of these meetings.

Grange Play At Westfield Hall

Members of the Liberty grange will present their play "Go Slow Mary" at the Westfield grange hall on Wednesday evening, April 11, at 8:15.

This is the fifth of a series of plays at Westfield hall held under the auspices of the grange of which James Kelso is master.

Don't scorn the man who boasts of his blood. Usually it is all the poor chap has to be proud of.

RECORD VOICE OVER TELEPHONE

Successful telephonic recording of a phonograph, accomplished when Delores Del Rio, movie star, sang from her home in Hollywood, Cal., to laboratories in New York City (3,000 miles away), may revolutionize the entire manner of making records in the future. This is the first test of its kind ever made, the only means of recording being a long distance telephone wire from the star's home to the laboratories. Experts pronounce the master disc made of her voice almost perfect in its reproduction value. Photo shows Miss Del Rio preparing to record by phone.

Bandit Killed In Gun Battle

Detectives And Deputies Shoot Down Member Of Bandit Gang

(International News Service)

MT. VERNON, O., April 7. — One bandit thought to be Ward W. Johnson, 22, Pittsfield, (Warren county) was killed here early today in a gun battle with railroad detectives and sheriffs' deputies, and his companion who registered as Ed. Ward, 19, Pittsfield, was shot through the hip and arrested. A third man escaped. Identification of Johnson was made by means of an auto registration card, issued at Warren county, March 1.

The gun fight resulted when the men fled from Columbus where they had been foiled in an attempt to hold up a restaurant proprietor, who saw them board a freight train. When the train pulled into Mt. Vernon, authorities, searched the train and found the men on a coal gondola.

The officers reported they fired into the ground to frighten the men as they attempted to run. Johnson, according to the report, fired upon the detectives and deputies, who killed him in the return fire.

Authorities at Mt. Vernon hospital reported that the man, who registered as Ed. Ward, has been identified as Ralph Rickarson, 22, of Pittsfield, Pa.

Nearly 50,000 Books Of Fiction Taken Out During Year

It must be true that philosophy bakes no bread, for of all books written in the English language, those dealing with problems philosophical had the least circulation in the New Castle Public Library during the year 1927, according to the librarian's report, which has just been made public. Only 621 books under this heading were drawn during the year.

The greatest number of books to be withdrawn, of course, are headed under the general class fiction. Over 47,000 books of fiction were withdrawn and perhaps read by citizens of New Castle during the past year. Over 2,000 books classed as literature were withdrawn, and 1,326 of the "useful arts." Biography had over 1,000 readers, as did sociology.

The total circulation for the year, as set down in the report, was 115,623, which makes a daily average of 377.

Klan Founder In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 7.—Col. William Joseph Simmons, founder of the Ku Klux Klan, was reported to be in the Pittsburgh vicinity today, he will attend the Klan hearing against five "banished" members who are defendants in a $100,000 damage suit brought by the Klan.

Simmons had not been expected here until Monday, when he will testify in the suit, but reports were that he was in Pittsburgh last night and attended a secret meeting at which "banished" Klansmen were said to have pledged their faith in him. He will remain outside the city until the hearing begins, it was said.

Simmons's affidavit, containing 44 pages, was to be filed today in the office of the United States District Court and will supplement that of D. C. Stephenson, taken two weeks ago in Indiana State prison where Stephenson is serving a life term for the murder of a young woman.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

THE CUSTOM OF THE CLAN

The sight of all those little helpless bodies hanging on the thorns made Peter angrier than he had ever been before in all his life.

"You w-wicked old b-bird, you!" spluttered he. "What did those poor things ever do to you that you should murder them in cold blood?"

Shrike's eyes began to glitter, and he opened and closed his hooked bill. But when he spoke it was in a soft voice enough tone, although what he said was none too pleasant.

"Now see here, Two-Legs, you have no right to talk to me like that. In the first place, nobody asked you to visit me; you came of your own accord, and if you do not like the way I live, you can go away again.

"Why is my butcher shop a worse place than the ones that you humans have?

"What is the difference, I should like to know, between me and a Two-Leg's butcher, and you yourself who eat the meat that he kills?"

Every word that Shrike said was true and Peter had to admit it.

"I wish now that I hadn't lost my temper, Butcher Bird. I didn't have any right to, for after all what you do the humans do, too—only I never thought about it before. Somehow coming so suddenly upon the bodies of my poor little friends made what you did seem so horrible. I knew a Titmouse once and he was such a sweet-tempered little chap. Only please do tell me why you kill so many little creatures and hang them about like that? Surely you can't eat all of them at one meal?"

"Oh dear me no, Boy," Shrike was amused. "I shouldn't try to. But it is a matter of pride with us Shrikes to see how much game we can catch. You see, every catch proves our keenness of eye, our swiftness of wing or our skill as a mocker. Sometimes we mount high in the sky, float along as softly as a cloud and drop down upon the back of our victim, crushing his skull with one blow of our bill. That is where we show our Hawk traits. Sometimes we hide in the bushes and lure our prey by luring them to us through imitating their tribal call. I don't care much about doing the last—it is rather a sneaky trick, I think.

"Just why we hang the prey on the thorns I do not know. Perhaps it is to let our neighbors know what powerful birds we are—perhaps it is because we don't know what else to do with it. At any rate this has been the custom of our clan for generations and I dare say as long as there is a Butcher Bird in the world he will keep right on doing the same thing."

Chamberlin Will Arrive Thursday During Afternoon

Workmen today have virtually completed the blasting of stumps from the Harlansburg road airport, in preparation for making a run way to be used when Clarence D. Chamberlin, New York to Germany flier, comes to New Castle Thursday, April 12, where he is scheduled to speak before three gatherings of the citizens.

Chamberlin, who is touring the country in a flivver plane in interest of aviation, will arrive in New Castle shortly before two o'clock on Thursday, and will make his first appearance in the Scottish Rite cathedral auditorium at 3:30, when he will speak to a group of school children. At 6:30, he will be guest of honor at a community banquet, and at eight o'clock he will deliver his last lecture in the cathedral auditorium.

Preliminary ticket sales indicate that a record crowd of citizens will hear Chamberlin at all three of these events.

Bandit Killed In Gun Battle

(International News Service)

MT. VERNON, O., April 7. — One bandit thought to be Ward W. Johnson, 22, Pittsfield, (Warren county) was killed here early today in a gun battle with railroad detectives and sheriffs' deputies, and his companion who registered as Ed. Ward, 19, Pittsfield, was shot through the hip and arrested. A third man escaped. Identification of Johnson was made by means of an auto registration card, issued at Warren county, March 1.

The gun fight resulted when the men fled from Columbus where they had been foiled in an attempt to hold up a restaurant proprietor, who saw them board a freight train. When the train pulled into Mt. Vernon, authorities, searched the train and found the men on a coal gondola.

The officers reported they fired into the ground to frighten the men as they attempted to run. Johnson, according to the report, fired upon the detectives and deputies, who killed him in the return fire.

Authorities at Mt. Vernon hospital reported that the man, who registered as Ed. Ward, has been identified as Ralph Rickarson, 22, of Pittsfield, Pa.

Nearly 50,000 Books Of Fiction Taken Out During Year

It must be true that philosophy bakes no bread, for of all books written in the English language, those dealing with problems philosophical had the least circulation in the New Castle Public Library during the year 1927, according to the librarian's report, which has just been made public Only 621 books under this heading were drawn during the year.

The greatest number of books to be withdrawn, of course, are headed under the general class fiction. Over 47,000 books of fiction were withdrawn and perhaps read by citizens of New Castle during the past year. Over 2,000 books classed as literature were withdrawn, and 1,326 of the "useful arts." Biography had over 1,000 readers, as did sociology.

The total circulation for the year, as set down in the report, was 115,623, which makes a daily average of 377.

Klan Founder In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 7.—Col. William Joseph Simmons, founder of the Ku Klux Klan, was reported to be in the Pittsburgh vicinity today, he will attend the Klan hearing against five "banished" members who are defendants in a $100,000 damage suit brought by the Klan.

Simmons had not been expected here until Monday, when he will testify in the suit, but reports were that he was in Pittsburgh last night and attended a secret meeting at which "banished" Klansmen were said to have pledged their faith in him. He will remain outside the city until the hearing begins, it was said.

Simmons's affidavit, containing 44 pages, was to be filed today in the office of the United States District Court and will supplement that of D. C. Stephenson, taken two weeks ago in Indiana State prison where Stephenson is serving a life term for the murder of a young woman.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

THE CUSTOM OF THE CLAN

The sight of all those little helpless bodies hanging on the thorns made Peter angrier than he had ever been before in all his life.

"You w-wicked old b-bird, you!" spluttered he. "What did those poor things ever do to you that you should murder them in cold blood?"

Shrike's eyes began to glitter, and he opened and closed his hooked bill. But when he spoke it was in a soft voice enough tone, although what he said was none too pleasant.

"Now see here, Two-Legs, you have no right to talk to me like that. In the first place, nobody asked you to visit me; you came of your own accord, and if you do not like the way I live, you can go away again.

"Why is my butcher shop a worse place than the ones that you humans have?

"What is the difference, I should like to know, between me and a Two-Leg's butcher, and you yourself who eat the meat that he kills?"

Every word that Shrike said was true and Peter had to admit it.

"I wish now that I hadn't lost my temper, Butcher Bird. I didn't have any right to, for after all what you do the humans do, too—only I never thought about it before. Somehow coming so suddenly upon the bodies of my poor little friends made what you did seem so horrible. I knew a Titmouse once and he was such a sweet-tempered little chap. Only please do tell me why you kill so many little creatures and hang them about like that? Surely you can't eat all of them at one meal?"

"NOBODY ASKED YOU TO VISIT ME" SHRIKE WAS GROWING CROSS

"Oh dear me no, Boy." Shrike was amused. "I shouldn't try to. But it is a matter of pride with us Shrikes to see how much game we can catch. You see, every catch proves our keenness of eye, our swiftness of wing or our skill as a mocker. Sometimes we mount high in the sky, float along as softly as a cloud and drop down upon the back of our victim, crushing his skull with one blow of our bill. That is where we show our Hawk traits. Sometimes we hide in the bushes and lure our prey by luring them to us through imitating their tribal call. I don't care much about doing the last—it is rather a sneaky trick, I think.

"Just why we hang the prey on the thorns I do not know. Perhaps it is to let our neighbors know what powerful birds we are—perhaps it is because we don't know what else to do with it. At any rate this has been the custom of our clan for generations and I dare say as long as there is a Butcher Bird in the world he will keep right on doing the same thing."

Chamberlin Will Arrive Thursday During Afternoon

Workmen today have virtually completed the blasting of stumps from the Harlansburg road airport, in preparation for making a run way to be used when Clarence D. Chamberlin, New York to Germany flier, comes to New Castle Thursday, April 12, where he is scheduled to speak before three gatherings of the citizens.

Chamberlin, who is touring the country in a flivver plane in interest of aviation, will arrive in New Castle shortly before two o'clock on Thursday, and will make his first appearance in the Scottish Rite cathedral auditorium at 3:30, when he will speak to a group of school children. Many Messages Of Condolence

Funeral Ceremonies For Late Chauncey M. Depew Occur Today

BURIAL WILL TAKE PLACE AT PEEKSKILL

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 7.—Leaders in finance, politics and industry were to attend the funeral today of Chauncey M. Depew, chairman of the Board of the New York Central, at St. Thomas' Episcopal church, where for many years he was a communicant.

The last rites are to be simple and the regular Episcopal burial service is to be conducted by Bishop Ernest M. Stires, Bishop William T. Manning and the Rev. Roelif H. Brooks, rector of the church.

Immediately afterwards the body of Mr. Depew is to be taken by automobile to Peekskill, his birthplace, and placed in the family mausoleum in Hillside cemetery. Brief services are to be held there by the Rev. Dr. Brooks.

The office buildings of the New York Central Lines, which centre about Grand Central Station, are closed today out of respect to Mr. Depew.

Messages of condolence continued to come to Mrs. Depew. A telegram from Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador at Washington, indicated the concern of the Prince of Wales. It was:

"I have received a cable from the Prince of Wales saying His Royal Highness is deeply distressed to hear of the death of Mr. Depew, and desiring that his sincere sympathy be conveyed to you and his family."

From Charles Evans Hughes came a telegram containing the following:

"Permit me to express my deep sympathy. The closing of a life of such extraordinary usefulness and distinction seems to mark the end of a period of which Mr. Depew was one of the most illustrious figures."

Charge Attempt To Poison Wife

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 7. — Vaul Karnak, 48, was under arrest here today charged with attempting to poison his wife after police investigated a "love potion" alleged to have come from a fortune teller and found it to be strychnine. He was held without bail.

Shortly after a quarrel with her husband, the wife, Mary Karnak, received a letter supposed to have been sent by a fortune teller saying that if she would mix an enclosed powder with whiskey, drink half herself and give the other half to her husband, peace would be restored in their home.

The letter insisted that she drink her half first, however, and Mrs. Karnak became suspicious. She called police who discovered that the powder was strychnine and placed her husband under arrest.

CHARGE PUPIL THREATENED TO DYNAMITE SCHOOL

S. Clifford, it has been developed into one of the finest choirs, not only in this city, but in the Diocese of Pittsburgh. Those who on Sunday morning are so fortunate as to hear that choir in action, with its wonderful group of boy soprano voices, will have reason to be glad that they were able to attend Easter services in St. Mary's church.

Bunny Will Miss White House Now

Mrs. Coolidge Not There To Greet Easter Rabbit; Egg Rolling Due Monday

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Easter rabbit will find the White House a quiet place Sunday.

There may be festivities in other American homes—where the dear old bunny visits little children—but at the executive mansion the day will be just another Sabbath.

The Coolidges always have the simplest of holiday observances.

This season's will be ever more so, because the first lady of the land is not here to add the feminine touch. She is still in Northampton, Mass., at the bedside of her mother.

Her absence will take away much of the public interest attached to the presidential church going on Easter morning. Mrs. Coolidge is wont to stage unconsciously a little Easter parade all her own.

The president undoubtedly will be accompanied by Frank W. Stearns and his wife of Boston, who are White House guests.

Washington children will not be disappointed in their egg rollings because of Mrs. Coolidge's absence. This annual event is scheduled for the Monday after Easter. The private south grounds of the White House will be thrown open to children and their attendants.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

NEW YORK, April 7.—One does not get a true perspective of the piles of stone and steel that bear the name New York, until one has seen them from the air. From the Woolworth tower, a human is as insignificant as a fly. From a plane 5,000 feet up, moving 125 miles an hour, the same tower is as unimpressive as City hall in Lexington, Kentucky. From the air the city's enchantment is enhanced, and one discovers beauties hidden to the wanderer in the skyscraper canyons.

The Daily Worker, published by the Communist party, recently attacked New York dramatic critics because they made fun of "Hoboken Blues," written by a Communist and supposed to be a serious revolutionary play. The Worker explained to its readers that of course the critics were vindictive in their reports because they were hirelings of capitalism. "The Interests" would not allow such a play to survive.

Possibly the Worker didn't know that "Hoboken Blues" was produced with money generously advanced by Otto H. Kahn, head of one of the greatest banking houses in the world, and renowned patron of the arts. Kahn is the "angel," or financial banker of numerous "art" theatrical ventures.

Pity the poor millionaire who lives in the country! Roads are so congested with auto traffic that his limousine has to move at a snail's pace going to and from the city. Some wealthy residents of Long Island are avoiding this by commuting in fast motor boats. Harrison Williams, New York banker, is building a 90-mile-an-hour hydroplane, to bring him to his Manhattan office from his Glen Cove, L. I., estate. Another Long Islander makes frequent trips to and from his estate in a seaplane.

In New York the most popular name for girl babies this season appears to be Patricia. Last year it was Barbara, and the year before, Gloria.

The circus isn't what it used to be. While the glittering wagons of the "world's greatest show" were being pulled by hired horses into Madison Square Garden for the final rehearsals before opening the season, the biggest circus man of them all, John Ringling, was up at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, buying Greek antiques for his home, in Sarasota, Florida.

The horses that pulled the wagons were not prancing Belgians, Percherons and Clydesdales, sleek and dreadnaugh-footed, but ill-assorted, bony, unkempt equines such as circus agents were able to find here and there in the city. The circus is going to be here a month, and the efficiency expert of the organization figured it'd be cheaper to hire horses than to feed the regulars here for four weeks.

Whenever the Harlem society arranges a ball, they try to keep it secret in order to avoid being pushed off their own floor by white visitors. The other evening, at the long awaited South Sea Isle Night in the great Savoy ballroom, at Lenox avenue and 141st street, there were almost as many white as black dancers.

In describing it, use of the term riot of color is certainly appropriate. The grotesque costume creations and bizarre atmosphere made it seem like an "Arabian Nights" fantasy. With 3,000 in the crowd, there was no trouble. This seemed to me to be extraordinary, considering the fact that a lot of the whites, many of them notables, seemed looking for trouble.

Many Messages Of Condolence

BURIAL WILL TAKE PLACE AT PEEKSKILL

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 7.—Leaders in finance, politics and industry were to attend the funeral today of Chauncey M. Depew, chairman of the Board of the New York Central, at St. Thomas' Episcopal church, where for many years he was a communicant.

The last rites are to be simple and the regular Episcopal burial service is to be conducted by Bishop Ernest M. Stires, Bishop William T. Manning and the Rev. Roelif H. Brooks, rector of the church.

Immediately afterwards the body of Mr. Depew is to be taken by automobile to Peekskill, his birthplace, and placed in the family mausoleum in Hillside cemetery. Brief services are to be held there by the Rev. Dr. Brooks.

The office buildings of the New York Central Lines, which centre about Grand Central Station, are closed today out of respect to Mr. Depew.

Messages of condolence continued to come to Mrs. Depew. A telegram from Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador at Washington, indicated the concern of the Prince of Wales. It was:

"I have received a cable from the Prince of Wales saying His Royal Highness is deeply distressed to hear of the death of Mr. Depew, and desiring that his sincere sympathy be conveyed to you and his family."

From Charles Evans Hughes came a telegram containing the following: "Permit me to express my deep sympathy. The closing of a life of such extraordinary usefulness and distinction seems to mark the end of a period of which Mr. Depew was one of the most illustrious figures."

Charge Attempt To Poison Wife

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 7. — Vaul Karnak, 48, was under arrest here today charged with attempting to poison his wife after police investigated a "love potion" alleged to have come from a fortune teller and found it to be strychnine. He was held without bail.

Shortly after a quarrel with her husband, the wife, Mary Karnak, received a letter supposed to have been sent by a fortune teller saying that if she would mix an enclosed powder with whiskey, drink half herself and give the other half to her husband, peace would be restored in their home.

The letter insisted that she drink her half first, however, and Mrs. Karnak became suspicious. She called police who discovered that the powder was strychnine and placed her husband under arrest.

CHARGE PUPIL THREATENED TO DYNAMITE SCHOOL

(International News Service)

MEYERSDALE, Pa., April 7.—Said by police to have threatened to dynamite the high school building, Edward Herwig, 18, expelled student, was under arrest here today. When arrested he was found in bed with ten sticks of dynamite under the covers, officers said. Although officers were unable to account for a blast which shook several houses Thursday they asserted that Herwig was not involved.

Leo Peters, telephoto supervisor, is explaining the workings of the machine to her.

Those who on Sunday morning are so fortunate as to hear that choir in action, with its wonderful group of boy soprano voices, will have reason to be glad that they were able to attend Easter services in St. Mary's church.

Bunny Will Miss White House Now

Mrs. Coolidge Not There To Greet Easter Rabbit; Egg Rolling Due Monday

WASHINGTON, April 7—The Easter rabbit will find the White House a quiet place Sunday.

There may be festivities in other American homes—where the dear old bunny visits little children—but at the executive mansion the day will be just another Sabbath.

The Coolidges always have the simplest of holiday observances.

This season's will be even more so, because the first lady of the land is not here to add the feminine touch. She is still in Northampton, Mass., at the bedside of her mother.

Her absence will take away much of the public interest attached to the presidential church going on Easter morning. Mrs. Coolidge is wont to stage unconsciously a little Easter parade all her own.

The president undoubtedly will be accompanied by Frank W. Stearns and his wife of Boston, who are White House guests.

Washington children will not be disappointed in their egg rollings because of Mrs. Coolidge's absence. This annual event is scheduled for the Monday after Easter. The private south grounds of the White House will be thrown open to children and their attendants.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

NEW YORK, April 7.—One does not get a true perspective of the piles of stone and steel that bear the name New York, until one has seen them from the air. From the Woolworth tower, a human is as insignificant as a fly, from a plane 5,000 feet up, moving 125 miles an hour, the same tower is as unimpressive as City hall in Lexington, Kentucky. From the air the city's enchantment is enhanced, and one discovers beauties hidden to the wanderer in the skyscraper canyons.

The Daily Worker, published by the Communist party, recently attacked New York dramatic critics because they made fun of "Hoboken Blues," written by a Communist and supposed to be a serious revolutionary play. The Worker explained to its readers that of course the critics were vindictive in their reports because they were hirelings of capitalism. "The Interests" would not allow such a play to survive.

Possibly the Worker didn't know that "Hoboken Blues" was produced with money generously advanced by Otto H. Kahn, head of one of the greatest banking houses in the world, and renowned patron of the arts. Kahn is the "angel," or financial banker of numerous "art" theatrical ventures.

Pity the poor millionaire who lives in the country! Roads are so congested with auto traffic that his limousine has to move at a snail's pace going to and from the city. Some wealthy residents of Long Island are avoiding this by commuting in fast motor boats. Harrison Williams, New York banker, is building a 90-mile-an-hour hydroplane, to bring him to his Manhattan office from his Glen Cove, L. I., estate. Another Long Islander makes frequent trips to and from his estate in a seaplane.

In New York the most popular name for girl babies this season appears to be Patricia. Last year it was Barbara, and the year before, Gloria.

The circus isn't what it used to be. While the glittering wagons of the "world's greatest show" were being pulled by hired horses into Madison Square Garden for the final rehearsals before opening the season, the biggest circus man of them all, John Ringling, was up at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, buying Greek antiques for his home, in Sarasota, Florida.

The horses that pulled the wagons were not prancing Belgians, Percherons and Clydesdales, sleek and dreadnaugh-footed, but ill-assorted, bony, unkempt equines such as circus agents were able to find here and there in the city. The circus is going to be here a month, and the efficiency expert of the organization figured it'd be cheaper to hire horses than to feed the regulars here for four weeks.

Whenever the Harlem society arranges a ball, they try to keep it secret in order to avoid being pushed off their own floor by white visitors. The other evening, at the long awaited South Sea Isle Night in the great Savoy ballroom, at Lenox avenue and 141st street, there were almost as many white as black dancers.

In describing it, use of the term riot of color is certainly appropriate. The grotesque costume creations and bizarre atmosphere made it seem like an "Arabian Nights" fantasy. With 3,000 in the crowd, there was no trouble. This seemed to me to be extraordinary, considering the fact that a lot of the whites, many of them notables, seemed looking for trouble.

Hoover's Opponents Start New Attack

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Herbert Hoover's political opponents opened up a new line of attack upon his presidential candidacy today. They asserted that if nominated he cannot defeat Gov. Al Smith.

Assuming that Smith will be the Democratic nominee, Rep. L. J. Dickinson, (R) of Iowa, leader of the farm bloc in the house, came out with a bold forecast analysis of Smith's strength against Hoover and Smith's strength against Lowden in the electoral college. Dickinson is supporting Lowden.

His conclusion was that Smith would carry New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Mexico against either Hoover or Lowden—a remarkable concession for any regular Republican to make, even in the heat of a pre-convention struggle.

Another of Dickinson's conclusions was scarcely less remarkable. He predicted that against Hoover in November, Smith may well carry Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, Oklahoma and South Dakota, but that Lowden could carry all these states against Smith.

Summing up, the Iowan declared that a Smith-Hoover contest would send the New York Governor into the White House with a 327-204 victory in the electoral college, but that a Smith-Lowden contest would virtually be the reverse, Lowden winning in the college by a vote of 322 to 209.

BATTLE FOR JERSEY NOMINATION

Mid-May primaries in New Jersey will mark the end of one of the hottest fights the state has known for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator. The winner opposes the state's present Democratic senator, Edward I. Edwards, right, below, a candidate for re-election. The only woman in the race is Mrs. Lillian Feickert, left, above, who is backed by the state W. C. T. U. Hamilton F. Kean, a millionaire, above, right, E. C. Stokes, former governor of the state, and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former senator, who lost to Edwards six years ago, are others seeking the nomination.

URGES BONDS FOR NEW JAIL

Investigator Of State Says Only Strong Can Survive

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., April 7.—Recommending that no prisoner should be detained more than two months in the underground cells of the present building, the division of charities of the state department of public welfare urged that electors be asked to vote next fall on a proposed $6,000 bond issue for the erection of a new county jail at Lisbon. Voters have three times turned down jail proposals, but in each instance the issue was in a larger sum than the present recommendation.

Both walls and cells of the present building, repeatedly reported in good condition by grand juries, need attention, the investigator reported.

The report, which points out that the walls and foundation of the old building could be used in erecting a new structure, says "only the strong can survive in a dark underground jail with damp, foul air."

Hoover's Opponents Start New Attack

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Herbert Hoover's political opponents opened up a new line of attack upon his presidential candidacy today. They asserted that if nominated he cannot defeat Gov. Al Smith.

Assuming that Smith will be the Democratic nominee, Rep. L. J. Dickinson, (R) of Iowa, leader of the farm bloc in the house, came out with a bold forecast anaylsis of Smith's strength against Hoover and Smith's strength against Lowden in the electoral college. Dickinson is supporting Lowden.

His conclusion was that Smith would carry New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Mexico against either Hoover or Lowden—a remarkable concession for any regular Republican to make, even in the heat of a pre-convention struggle.

Another of Dickinson's conclusions was scarcely less remarkable. He predicted that against Hoover in November, Smith may well carry Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, Oklahoma and South Dakota, but that Lowden could carry all these states against Smith.

Summing up, the Iowan declared that a Smith-Hoover contest would send the New York Governor into the White House with a 327-204 victory in the electoral college, but that a Smith-Lowden contest would virtually be the reverse, Lowden winning in the college by a vote of 322 to 209.

URGES BONDS FOR NEW JAIL

Investigator Of State Says Only Strong Can Survive

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., April 7.—Recommending that no prisoner should be detained more than two months in the underground cells of the present building, the division of charities of the state department of public welfare urged that electors be asked to vote next fall on a proposed $6,000 bond issue for the erection of a new county jail at Lisbon. Voters have three times turned down jail proposals, but in each instance the issue was in a larger sum than the present recommendation.

Both walls and cells of the present building, repeatedly reported in good condition by grand juries, need attention, the investigator reported.

The report, which points out that the walls and foundation of the old building could be used in erecting a new structure, says "only the strong can survive in a dark underground jail with damp, foul air."

Brunettes Are Just As Popular Declares America's Venus

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—Dorothy Knapp, known as "America's Venus", who is resting here from her labors with the Follies and the Vanities in New York, discoursed on blondes and brunettes, proposals and dressing according to one's feeling.

Brunettes are just as popular as blondes, she declared, asserting it was merely a matter of personal preference.

It wasn't the fault of the male sex that she escaped from Broadway unmarried. There were all sorts of proposals, even from the hinterland, she averred.

Miss Knapp says matrimony doesn't interest her—yet. However, this being leap year, she can do her own picking if she wishes.

As for dressing:

"I wear red when I feel inspired and good. When my feelings are in the medium class I wear blue. When they are a little inclined to the adverse I don black and white."

Make Camp For Night At McBride, Baby Boy Is Born

BUTLER, Pa., April 7.—Eleven automobiles loaded with gypsies and their paraphernalia, which spent the night in camp at McBride station, south of Butler, were on their way today toward eastern Pennsylvania, where the nomadic klans are gathering to elect a new king, according to a member of the party.

A feature of the stay in Butler county last night was the birth of a baby in the camp at McBride, a boy. Prior to the advent of the baby the gypsy camp had been disturbed by three constables from Butler, who visited the camp with the idea of preventing fortune telling or other unlawful practices.

The officers found that several automobiles of the caravan had license from one state in the front and from another state in the rear. Four of the men in the camp were brought to Butler and after a hearing, were fined $10 and costs each, with the alternative of 30 days in jail by Alderman George R. Kearns. The men paid and were permitted to return to the camp.

Four of the men in the camp were brought to Butler and after a hearing, were fined $10 and costs each, with the alternative of 30 days in jail by Alderman George R. Kearns. STATE REGENT OF NEW JERSEY ANSWERS WHITE

(International News Service)

ORANGE, N. J., April 7.—Mrs. William A. Becker, state regent of the D. A. R. today answered the charges made by William Allen White that the D. A. R. "blacklist" was partly inspired by the Ku Klux Klan.

Mrs. Becker denied that the D. A. R. is the "Ku Klux Klan in sheep's clothing" and she insisted that the D. A. R. has published no "blacklist."

She says the organization has no objections to any speaker, no matter what creed or color, so long as he is loyal to the constitution of the United States.

"Don't think for a minute that the government is not awake to subversive influences in the country. It is constantly guarding against those who preach destruction of the home, the school, the church, and the state. What better things can a daughter do to learn to help her government?" Mrs. Becker was quoted as saying.

PLANS FLIGHT 'ROUND WORLD

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 7.—Bert Hall, of Bowling Green, Ky., world war flying ace, today planned to hop off within a few weeks on an attempted flight around the world.

The flight across the Pacific will cover 4,700 miles. Seattle and the Imperial Japanese Aviation Society have offered $27,500 in prizes for a spanning of the Pacific.

Former Chief Is Only Survivor Of Piankeshaw Tribe

(International News Service)

MIAMI, Okla., April 7.—Only one full-blood member of the Piankeshaw Indian tribe remains alive today. Only a few generations ago the tribe consisted of several thousand members, who dwelt south of the Great Lakes.

The lone survivor is Chief Te-Wah-Quah-Ke-Non-Gah, who, among his pale-face friends is plain George Finley. He is 72 years old.

Under a treaty signed in 1832, the Piankeshaws, together with the Peorias and the Wees, were placed in what is now northeastern Oklahoma. Intermarriage between the three tribes and the whites since their removal has been so pronounced that once flourishing tribes of Piankeshaws is now virtually extinct.

Chief Te-Wah-Quah-Ke-Non-Gah is a member of several Masonic bodies here and in Shriners' parades he alternates between the red fez of the Shrine and the red chief's war bonnet, with full regalia and paint.

Seize Munitions Believed Bound For Nicaragua

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 7.—Sixteen thousand rounds of ammunition of American manufacture, presumably for use by General Sandino's troops in Nicaragua, was seized aboard a steamer bound for Honduras Friday following the arrest of the second engineer.

Custom officers traced the consignment aboard the Atlantic Navigation Company banana boat, Lemptra, which sailed from Pier 23 East river for Puerto Cortes, Honduras. It was found in the stateroom of Second Engineer P. Traetvik, 35, a Norwegian with his first American citizenship papers.

The arrest was made as the result of a diligent surveillance by custom officers and naval authorities, following a report that Sandino was receiving American-made ammunition through shipments to Honduras.

Woman Discovers Man's Dual Role; Causes Arrest

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 7.—Held in jail for investigation, William Hoffman, alias William R. Werner, readily admitted today that he unwittingly swindled Rev. Father Joseph Janacek, a Detroit Catholic priest, of $4,000 in 1924, but declared he was the innocent victim of another man in a real estate deal.

"Hoffman has successfully hidden his identity as a floor walker in one of the largest department stores here, and his arrest came only by chance when Mrs. Bernice Dostal, niece of the Rev. Janacek, recognized him in the store.

Assuming a detective role, Mrs. Dostal followed Hoffman to his hotel, then called detectives. Mrs. Dostal said a warrant was enroute here from Detroit for Hoffman's arrest.

Henry Ford Lands In England, Friday

(International News Service)

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., April 7.—Henry Ford, American automobile manufacturer, who arrived here Friday, upon the liner Majestic, refused to discuss the rubber situation. He declared that his visit to Europe is "partly for business and partly for pleasure."

It was reported in London that Ford's visit might result in large purchases of crude rubber from British and Dutch interests now that the price has been forced down by Premier Baldwin's announcement that government restrictions upon the production of rubber in Malaya and Ceylon will be removed on Nov. 1. Belief was expressed that the sharp decline in the price of rubber might induce Ford to abandon his project to establish large rubber plantations in Brazil.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Seven days, April 7 to 13, is expected to average the coolest period of the month and will probably bring a cold wave to central and northern latitudes centering on 11; cold wave of this period will not be expected to travel farther south than would be normally expected at this time; probably as far south as latitude 35 in eastern Great Central valleys and a little farther south in western Great Central valleys and just east of Rockies. A storm wave of moderately severe intensity will be expected to cross continent during week centering on 9 and a storm wave of severe intensity of force centering on 14. Both of these storm centers will move well down into southern states and each will be followed by northern cold waves and southern cool waves. Most precipitation of April will occur near 15, 18 and 21, heaviest near 15. Killing frosts will be expected in central latitudes near 11 and 19, probably reaching a little farther south than usual in western plains and western Great Central valleys. Where plants are not advanced beyond their normal condition at this time, no great damage will result from these frosts and cold waves, as frosts and cold waves of April will stay close to normal in time and location. First half of April will average above normal storm force and precipitation and below normal temperatures; last half of month will average about normal storm force and precipitation and a little above normal temperatures. Greatest precipitation will occur near and east of meridian 90, least just east of Rockies. Highest temperatures, relative to local normals, will occur in north central and northwestern Great Central valleys; lowest temperatures in northeast, sections 2 and 4.

Radio Transmission

The theory now advanced, that the Earth's radio roof, supposedly a layer of gases that does not permit radio waves to pass thru, but reflects them back to Earth, moves up and down, causing the greatest of present day radio troubles, fading, can only be right in part. That the outer layers of the Earth's envelope rise and fall, that at a given point the Earth's envelope is thicker at times, is beyond doubt. Each planetary position has a relative effect upon the Earth's envelope, compressing it at some points, expanding it at others. This contraction and expansion would not co-incide with centers of high and low barometric pressure at the Earth's surface, but there would be such a relation between the two as is known to exist between moon and tides. I believe that fading in radio may be forecasted with certainty but that it will not be overcome soon, if ever. It seems impossible to me that fading could possibly be caused by the rising and falling of the radio roof; that they were both effects from a common cause would be more reasonable. Fading is caused by the variation of strength and movement of natural forces within the Earth's envelope.

LIGHT and POWER PROGRESS

IN a half century of existence the electric public utility industry has reached the point where it is now serving 21,700,000 customers, generating 75,100,000,000 kw.-hr., and supplying 16,000,000 horsepower for factories for a gross revenue of $1,783,000,000.

The growth in the last 25 years has been remarkable, developing from three million electric horsepower in 1902 to thirty-three million electric horsepower in 1927, now representing a total investment in the industry of nearly $9,000,000,000.

These figures give some idea of the immensity of this industry which provides for cities, homes, and manufactories services and conveniences which only electricity can render.

Any motor car today must step. 60 miles is easy for most of them. 72, 80 and even 90 are claimed by some.
Old-fashioned oil will no more lubricate these high speed, high compression motors properly, than old-fashioned gasoline will propel them. SUNOCO, the Heavier Bodied Motor Oil which resists heat and will not break down, will give these motors the safe, cool lubrication which they should have.

The phenomenal acceptance of BLUE Sunoco has prompted Sun Oil Co. to offer SUNOCO, the Heavier Bodied OIL—another product of highest quality at no extra cost.
Some motorists feel that it is necessary to pay 30 to 35 cents a quart for good lubrication. Scientific and efficient production methods enable us to sell the heavier bodied Sunoco Motor Oil for 25 cents a quart—considerably less than its high quality justifies.

STATE REGENT OF NEW JERSEY ANSWERS WHITE

(International News Service)

ORANGE, N. J., April 7.—Mrs. William A. Becker, state regent of the D. A. R. today answered the charges made by William Allen White that the D. A. R. "blacklist" was partly inspired by the Ku Klux Klan.

Mrs. Becker denied that the D. A. R. is the "Ku Klux Klan in sheep's clothing" and she insisted that the D. A. R. has published no "blacklist."

She says the organization has no objections to any speaker, no matter what creed or color, so long as he is loyal to the constitution of the United States.

"Don't think for a minute that the government is not awake to subversive influences in the country. It is constantly guarding against those who preach destruction of the home, the school, the church, and the state. What better things can a daughter do to learn to help her government?" Mrs. Becker was quoted as saying.

PLANS FLIGHT 'ROUND WORLD

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 7.—Bert Hall, of Bowling Green, Ky., world war flying ace, today planned to hop off within a few weeks on an attempted flight around the world.

Hall plans to take off from here for Seattle in the last week of April. From Seattle, he will attempt a nonstop flight across the Pacific to Tokio. Further plans call for hop across Siberia and Russia to London and then on across the Atlantic back to America.

Hall intends to fly alone. Details of the monoplane which is said to be nearing completion for him were unrevealed. It is reported to have a cruising range of 5,500 miles.

The flight across the Pacific will cover 4,700 miles. Seattle and the Imperial Japanese Aviation Society have offered $27,500 in prizes for a spanning of the Pacific.

Former Chief Is Only Survivor Of Piankeshaw Tribe

(International News Service)

MIAMI, Okla., April 7.—Only one full-blood member of the Piankeshaw Indian tribe remains alive today. Only a few generations ago the tribe consisted of several thousand members, who dwelt south of the Great Lakes.

The lone survivor is Chief Te-Wah-Quah-Ke-Non-Gah, who, among his pale-face friends is plain George Finley. He is 72 years old.

Under a treaty signed in 1832, the Piankeshaws, together with the Peorias and the Wees, were placed in what is now northeastern Oklahoma. Intermarriage between the three tribes and the whites since their removal has been so pronounced that once flourishing tribes of Piankeshaws is now virtually extinct.

Chief Te-Wah-Quah-Ke-Non-Gah is a member of several Masonic bodies here and in Shriners' parades he alternates between the red fez of the Shrine and the red chief's war bonnet, with full regalia and paint.

POSTAL RECEIPTS GAIN OVER YEAR AGO

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Postal receipts at 50 industrial cities showed an increase of 2.73 per cent in March over those in March a year ago, the total being $3,670,135.71 and $3,572,432.89 respectively, the post office department announced today.

The leading cities in percentage of gain was Wilmington, Del., 29.22 per cent.

Seize Munitions Believed Bound For Nicaragua

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 7.—Sixteen thousand rounds of ammunition of American manufacture, presumably for use by General Sandino's troops in Nicaragua, was seized aboard a steamer bound for Honduras Friday following the arrest of the second engineer.

Custom officers traced the consignment aboard the Atlantic Navigation Company banana boat, Lempira, which sailed from Pier 23 East river for Puerto Certes, Honduras. It was found in the stateroom of Second Engineer P. Traetvik, 35, a Norwegian with his first American citizenship papers.

The arrest was made as the result of a diligent surveillance by custom officers and naval authorities, following a report that Sandino was receiving American-made ammunition through shipments to Honduras.

Woman Discovers Man's Dual Role; Causes Arrest

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 7.—Held in jail for investigation, William Hoffman, alias William R. Werner, readily admitted today that he unwittingly swindled Rev. Father Joseph Janacek, a Detroit Catholic priest, of $4,000 in 1924, but declared he was the innocent victim of another man in a real estate deal.

Hoffman has successfully hidden his identity as a floor walker in one of the largest department stores here, and his arrest came only by chance when Mrs. Bernice Dostal, niece of the Rev. Janacek, recognized him in the store.

Assuming a detective role, Mrs. Dostal followed Hoffman to his hotel, then called detectives. Mrs. Dostal said a warrant was enroute here from Detroit for Hoffman's arrest.

Henry Ford Lands In England, Friday

(International News Service)

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., April 7.—Henry Ford, American automobile manufacturer, who arrived here Friday, upon the liner Majestic, refused to discuss the rubber situation. He declared that his visit to Europe is "partly for business and partly for pleasure."

It was reported in London that Ford's visit might result in large purchases of crude rubber from British and Dutch interests now that the price has been forced down by Premier Baldwin's announcement that government restrictions upon the production of rubber in Malaya and Ceylon will be removed on Nov. 1. Belief was expressed that the sharp decline in the price of rubber might induce Ford to abandon his project to establish large rubber plantations in Brazil.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Seven days, April 7 to 13, is expected to average the coolest period of the month and will probably bring a cold wave to central and northern latitudes centering on 11; cold wave of this period will not be expected to travel farther south than would be normally expected at this time; probably as far south as latitude 35 in eastern Great Central valleys and a little farther south in western Great Central valleys and just east of Rockies. A storm wave of moderately severe intensity will be expected to cross continent during week centering on 9 and a storm wave of severe intensity of force centering on 14. Both of these storm centers will move well down into southern states and each will be followed by northern cold waves and southern cool waves. Most precipitation of April will occur near 15, 18 and 21, heaviest near 15. Killing frosts will be expected in central latitudes near 11 and 19, probably reaching a little farther south than usual in western plains and western Great Central valleys. Where plants are not advanced beyond their normal condition at this time, no great damage will result from these frosts and cold waves, as frosts and cold waves of April will stay close to normal in time and location. First half of April will average above normal storm force and precipitation and below normal temperatures; last half of month will average about normal storm force and precipitation and a little above normal temperatures. Greatest precipitation will occur near and east of meridian 90, least just east of Rockies. Highest temperatures, relative to local normals, will occur in north central and northwestern Great Central valleys; lowest temperatures in northeast, sections 2 and 4.

Radio Transmission

The theory now advanced, that the Earth's radio roof, supposedly a layer of gases that does not permit radio waves to pass thru, but reflects them back to Earth, moves up and down, causing the greatest of present day radio troubles, fading, can only be right in part. That the outer layers of the Earth's envelope rise and fall, that at a given point the Earth's envelope is thicker at times, is beyond doubt. Each planetary position has a relative effect upon the Earth's envelope, compressing it at some points, expanding it at others. This contraction and expansion would not co-incide with centers of high and low barometric pressure at the Earth's surface, but there would be such a relation between the two as is known to exist between moon and tides. I believe that fading in radio may be forecasted with certainty but that it will not be overcome soon, if ever. Holsinger Joins Frew Company

Former New Castle Man To Head Carpet Department Of Store

In line with the expansion program recently announced by the Frew Company, H. E. Holsinger, a former New Castle man, has been engaged to take charge of the carpet department.

Mr. Holsinger comes to the company with 12 years practical experience obtained in large city stores. For several years he was with Boggs & Buhl of Pittsburgh, but comes to New Castle from the McKelvey Company of Youngstown.

The securing of Mr. Holsinger as an expert in carpets and floor covering is but one of the steps taken by the Frew Company in inaugurating their new merchandise policy. Delivery service will be extended for a radius of 75 miles from the city of New Castle.

It is felt that this new policy will meet with great popular favor, particularly when the same merchandise can be sold in New Castle 20 to 25 per cent cheaper than in the larger cities, due to the great difference in overhead expense.

F. Baker, principal of the school, today. He declared the action was decided upon last night by the school board of Snowden township at a meeting of the members.

The action of the school board came after Dr. John R. Conover, Allegheny county medical director, rescinded an order authorizing the school board to place its own watchman to supervise the quarantine, Prof. Baker declared.

The rescinding action came after the school board complained to Dr. Conover that the company's coal and iron police refused to permit their watchman to enter the camp, according to Baker. The school principal said Dr. Conover advised he would have the state establish a closer surveillance over the camp, but nothing has been done about it, and the camp is still in charge of company police.

RAILWAY TO RED SEA NOW BEING PLANNED TO REVIVE OLD PORT

(International News Service)

JERUSALEM, April 7.—Construction of a railway line between Maan and Akaba, the Red Sea port, is being considered by an "important company," according to the official organ of the Tranjordan Government.

Akaba is the ancient Israelitish port called "Ezion Gaber" in Testament times. The railway connecting this port with Transjordan may revive the ancient port, giving Transjordan an outlet to the sea.

Any line laid between Maan and Akaba would be a continuation of the Hedjaz railway carrying Moslem pilgrims to Mecca and Medina, reopened by the Palestine Railways more than six years ago.

The revival of Akaba, a port filled in the old days with commerce, has long been the wish of Zionists. Akaba has been taken by the British from the Hedjaz much against the will of Ibn Saud, the Wahabi king, and included officially in Transjordan which is becoming more and more independent of the Holy Land.

Concrete Buildings In Race Toward Sky

Nearly 650 Lift Skylines Above Ten Story Level

CHICAGO, Ill., April 7.—A distinct trend toward the use of reinforced concrete for high buildings is revealed in a survey of this type throughout North America, recently completed by the Portland Cement Association.

South America is the most sensational adapter of the concrete building idea, the Hotel Palacio Salvo at Montevideo, Uruguay, being the highest building of its type in the world. It rises to a height of 28 stories, with its peak 338 feet above the sidewalk level. The Palacio was finished in 1926.

The tallest concrete building in the United States is the recently completed Master Printers Building, New York City, which has 20 stories and an over-all height of 310 feet.

While the first concrete building above ten stories in America, the Ingalls Office Building at Cincinnati, Ohio, finished in 1903, stands 16 stories high; the average number of stories for the 647 reinforced concrete buildings in this country, ten or more stories high, is 11.9, the survey shows.

Illinois is the leader among states in construction of tall concrete buildings with a total of 110; California is second with 67; Texas is third with 57 and New York fourth with 47. The remainder of 366 buildings included in the survey is scattered over 33 states.

"CANNED" HOWLS FARMERS' HOPE

MONTREAL, April 7. — Wolves which have killed hundreds of Canadian sheep this year may be lured to death by phonograph records of their own howls if the Ontario government adopts the suggestion of Manitoulin Island farmers.

Hard hit by the depredation of roving wolf packs, these farmers say the wolves could be exterminated if records of their howls were played in the bush. When the animals, which are noted for their curiosity, approach the decoy, they could be killed by concealed hunters, the farmers say.

The farmers also propose that the bounty on wolf pelts, now $15, be doubled.

Close Public School Because Of Smallpox

County And State Officials Are Censured By School Board

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 7.—Censuring county and state officials for alleged laxness in enforcement of the smallpox quarantine in the Pittsburgh Coal Company mining camp at Library, the Stewart public school there will be closed indefinitely, it was announced by Prof. A. F. Baker, principal of the school, today. He declared the action was decided upon last night by the school board of Snowden township at a meeting of the members.

The action of the school board came after Dr. John R. Conover, Allegheny county medical director, rescinded an order authorizing the school board to place its own watchman to supervise the quarantine, Prof. Baker declared.

The rescinding action came after the school board complained to Dr. Conover that the company's coal and iron police refused to permit their watchman to enter the camp, according to Baker. The school principal said Dr. Conover advised he would have the state establish a closer surveillance over the camp, but nothing has been done about it, and the camp is still in charge of company police.

RAILWAY TO RED SEA NOW BEING PLANNED TO REVIVE OLD PORT

(International News Service)

JERUSALEM, April 7.—Construction of a railway line between Maan and Akaba, the Red Sea port, is being considered by an "important company," according to the official organ of the Tranjordan Government.

Akaba is the ancient Israelitish port called "Ezion Gaber" in Testament times. The railway connecting this port with Transjordan may revive the ancient port, giving Transjordan an outlet to the sea.

Any line laid between Maan and Akaba would be a continuation of the Hedjaz railway carrying Moslem pilgrims to Mecca and Medina, reopened by the Palestine Railways more than six years ago.

The revival of Akaba, a port filled in the old days with commerce, has long been the wish of Zionists. Akaba has been taken by the British from the Hedjaz much against the will of Ibn Saud, the Wahabi king, and included officially in Transjordan which is becoming more and more independent of the Holy Land.

Concrete Buildings In Race Toward Sky

Nearly 650 Lift Skylines Above Ten Story Level

CHICAGO, Ill., April 7.—A distinct trend toward the use of reinforced concrete for high buildings is revealed in a survey of this type throughout North America, recently completed by the Portland Cement Association.

South America i s the most sensational adapter of the concrete building idea, the Hotel Palacio Salvo at Montevideo, Uruguay, being the highest building of its type in the world. It rises to a height of 28 stories, with its peak 338 feet above the sidewalk level. The Palacio was finished in 1926.

The tallest concrete building in the United States is the recently completed Master Printers Building, New York City, which has 20 stories and an over-all height of 310 feet.

While the first concrete building above ten stories in America, the Ingalls Office Building at Cincinnati, Ohio, finished in 1903, stands 16 stories high, the average number of stories for the 647 reinforced concrete buildings in this country, ten or more stories high, is 11.9, the survey shows.

Illinois is the leader among states in construction of tall concrete buildings with a total of 110; California is second with 67; Texas is third with 57 and New York fourth with 47. The remainder of 366 buildings included in the survey is scattered over 33 states.

"CANNED" HOWLS FARMERS' HOPE

MONTREAL, April 7. — Wolves which have killed hundreds of Canadian sheep this year may be lured to death by phonograph records of their own howls if the Ontario government adopts the suggestion of Manitoulin Island farmers.

Hard hit by the depredation of roving wolf packs, these farmers say the wolves could be exterminated if records of their howls were played in the bush. When the animals, which are noted for their curiosity, approach the decoy, they could be killed by concealed hunters, the farmers say.

The farmers also propose that the bounty on wolf pelts, now $15, be doubled.

Davis Walsh Selects Yankees To Repeat In American League Race

International News Sport Editor Thinks Yankees Still Great Ball Club

Picks Athletics And Detroit To Finish Second And Third Respectively

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, April 7.—Having arrived at the age of discretion, by forced marches and in the face of congenial restraints, the writer today is rating the American League strictly according to early April prospects, as he sees them, four days in advance of the Major League openings. He will not take the usual flier in early October values, which constitute a declaration of how the clubs, if they wish to avoid one's instinctive displeasure, must finish six months hence. On request, however, he will gladly tell you just when the day after tomorrow will become the day before yesterday.

In brief, he is not dealing in futures but only in "paper strength" of the present moment when the clubs are rated as follows:

1—New York Yankees.
2—Philadelphia Athletics.
3—Detroit Tigers.
4—Washington Senators.
5—Chicago White Sox.
6—Cleveland Indians.
7—St. Louis Browns.
8—Boston Red Sox.

The writer, of course, thinks the Yanks can win again or he wouldn't have them at the top. Their present speed is somewhat less than nothing flat, meaning that they have been going approximately nowhere at a terrible rate. From the standpoint of psychology, I think this will prove to be all for the best.

Yankees Due For Slump

The Yanks were due for a slump after their great record through the 1927 race and their four straight victories in the world series. No one can deny the fact that they are lucky to get the reaction now when it can't be used against them. And, if they were over-confident at the outset, they must be duly chastened after losing at random to all the ball clubs in the south, even unto the class A outfits.

I have confined my comment to the Yanks so far, because, obviously, they are the key team of the situation. The others may come forward a bit but the Yanks will have to go back a lot to finish outside first money. It isn't good horse sense to figure that they will. The only real question they must answer is pitching and I think they will get just enough to ride on through.

Hoyt and Pennock should win thirty-five games between them. If they do—and the betting is 1-2, even and out that they will—the club will need only an average of seven victories each from Moore, Pipgras, Coveleskie, Johnson, Thomas, Marty, Sheeley and Campbell to be reasonably certain of winning the pennant. The chances are that many of those mentioned will exceed the conservative estimate imposed against their names.

The Athletics lack too much in defense to be rated higher than second at this early juncture and it may be that the Tigers, finding their stride at last, will come along to take the play away from them. Both clubs have the old punch but they probably will have their troubles stopping the other fellow from scoring, too.

Senators Mystery Club

Washington is the mystery ball club of the proceedings. Not even Harris himself can say definitely what his team will do, since young players in critical positions like shortstop and centerfield just can't help tinging the future with uncertainty. I somehow look for the Senators to lose some of their hitting, too. If this statement is borne out, they will have to place too much strain on their pitchers to be rated now at better than even fourth place.

It is difficult to see where the Chicago White Sox, the Cleveland Indians, the St. Louis Browns, and the Boston Red Sox have improved themselves greatly between seasons. The Red Sox, for example, were many games back of seventh place at the pay off last fall and they have undergone almost no major changes. The club was coming along some at the finish and undoubtedly figures to make a better showing in 1928. But, unless something very radical happens in the immediate future, the assumption must be that the Sox still are a last place club.

Browns Dismantled

The Browns, on the contrary, tore themselves right up between seasons, leaving only a one-year veteran as a 1928 regular. They don't expect to get anywhere and their present strength indicates that they won't be disappointed in the slightest. Their juvenile second base pair may come through, at that, but the Browns can't be a ball club until they get a few pitchers.

Cleveland and Chicago are almost a standoff. The former has the superior punch, the latter being pitching and general defense. It is for that reason that I think they look to be the better bet at this stage of the proceedings, although that Indian staff might suddenly decide to return to its 1926 form, in which case all bets are off. The Indians, however, aren't much of a ball club at this writing, the Sox having considerably more balance.

Anyway, what difference does it make? A punch on the nose sounds the same in any language and a sock in the slats knows no nationalities.

Davis Cup Team Wins In Mexico

(International News Service)

MEXICO CITY, April 7.—With two single matches already in the bag, the United States Davis Cup team is expected to clinch its series with Mexico's respesentatives today when "Big Bill" Tilden and Arnold J. Jones meet Robert Kinsey and Alfonso Unda in the doubles.

Tilden flashed his old-time form yesterday in defeating Kinsey, the former American star, who is now a resident of Mexico, in straight sets. His dazzling service kept the former California star at bay throughout the match. The score was 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

In the first match, John Hennessey, of Indianapolis, disposed of Ricardo Tapia, the 18-year-old Mexicon star, by a score on 6-2, 9-7, 6-1. Tapia, playing his first International match, gave Augame performance but could not match Hennessey's drives.

If the Americans win today, Mexico will be eliminated from Davis Cup play, but exhibition matches will be played tomorrow.

Big League Game In New York Today

(International News Service)

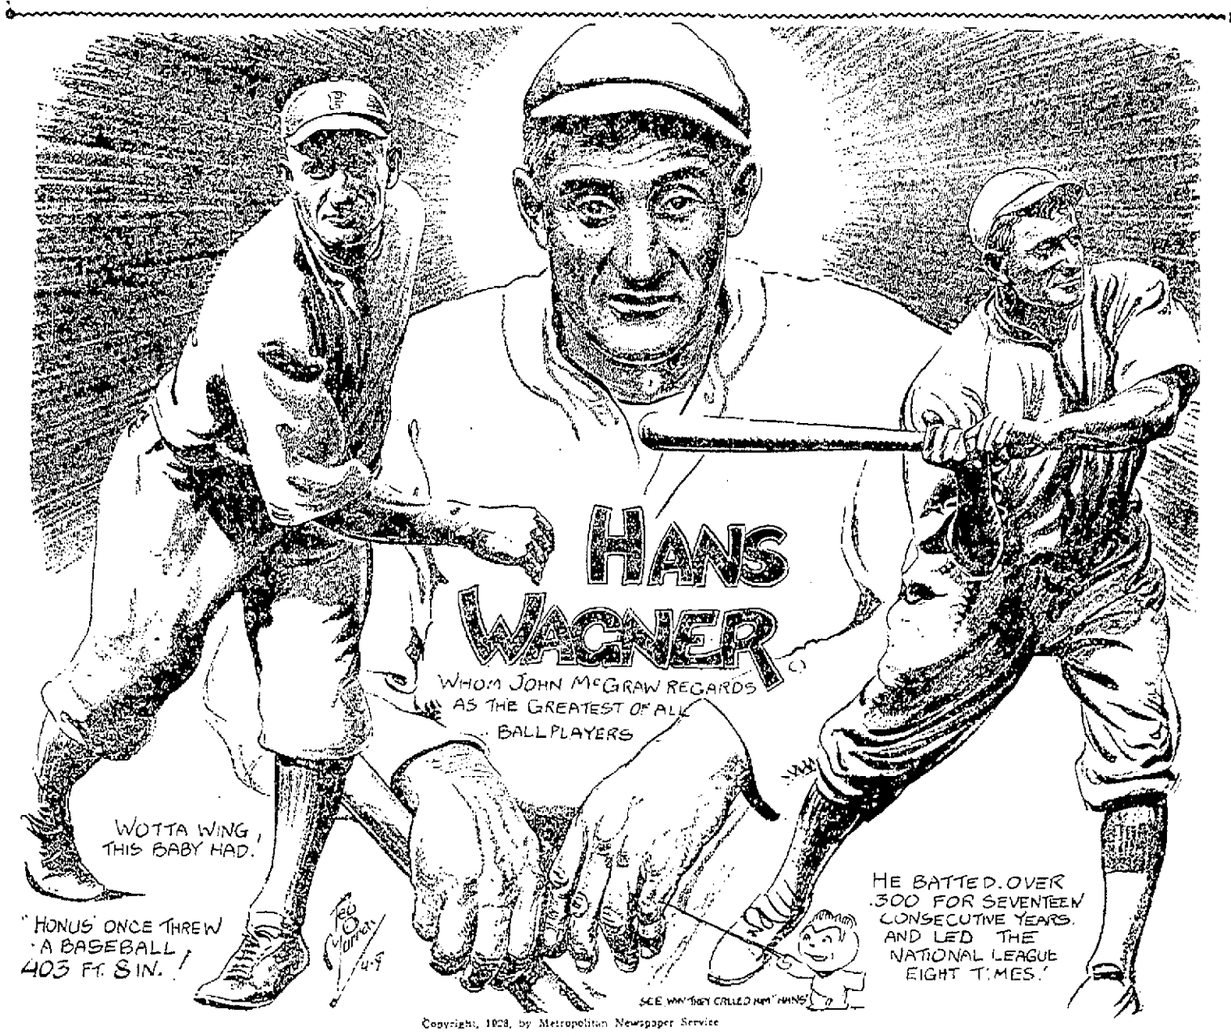
NEW YORK, April 7.— Thousands of baseball-hungry fans turned out today to witness the first big league game of the season here. The attraction was the world's champion New York Yankees, vs. the Brooklyn Robins, in the first of four exhibition games to be played in New York and Brooklyn.

The home run twins, Babe Ruth and Buster Gehrig, finally had to come to life. Each hit two homers down in North Carolina yesterday against Charlotte. Gehrig's homers were his first of the year. The Yanks won the game, 28 to 10.

The Brooklyns, who made a good record against big and minor league teams in the south, were confident of beating the champions. Yesterday they swamped the Raleigh, N. C., team, by a score of 12 to 0.

Tony Lazzeri, New York's injured second baseman, will be in shape for the opening game against the Athletics on Wednesday, according to his physician.

"THE FLYING DUTCHMAN" BY FEG MURRAY



Copyright, 1928, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

John McGraw, in his "My Thirty Years in Baseball," gives the palm to Hans Wagner for being "the greatest ball player who ever lived." "Not one of them," goes on the famous manager of the Giants, referring to Cobb, Hornsby, Sisler, Speaker, and Keeler, "can show the combination of many qualities possessed by Wagner." Though it is true that Ty Cobb has broken practically all of the Flying Dutchman's records, it is also true that Cobb would probably not be playing today if he had been a shortstop, as Hans was for the greater part of his career. The wear and tear is much greater at short than it is in the outfield, and, anyway, Wagner broke in as an outfielder and proved as great as Cobb at that position before he was permanently moved to the infield in Pittsburgh.

Whether it was in batting, fielding, or base-running, old Tans Wagner "had everything." Bow-legged, awkward, and ungainly, he could hit any and all kinds of pitching with equal ease and knocked the ball over every National League fence within 300 feet of the plate. What he would have done with the lively ball is nobody's business! From 1897 to 1910 he had a batting average of .348. In 1900 he beat out Flick and Keeler by hitting .380. In his twenty-one seasons with Louisville and Pittsburgh he made 3,430 hits, scored 1,740 runs, and went to bat 10,427 times in 2,785 games. These figures all represent National League records.

As a fielder, Wagner's "scoop-shovel" hands gobbled up everything hit between second and third, and his steel-muscled arm shot the ball over to first base like a rifle bullet. He had no equal in starting double plays, and in his twenty-one years made the fine fielding average of .944.

Old Honus used to steal bases under the very nose of the pitcher. He swiped 720 sacks altogether (61 in 1907), and he averaged more than 50 pilfered stations a season for eight consecutive years (1901-1908).

John Peter Wagner was born in Mansfield, Pa., now Carnegie, on February 24, 1874, and broke in with Paterson of the Atlantic League. He was sold to Barney Dreyfuss, then owner of the Louisville Nationals, for $2,100 in 1897, and moved to Pittsburgh three years later when Dreyfuss purchased the Pirate franchise.

Feg Murray Says—

According to Hick Duemer, the w. k. cartoonist: Lloyd Hahn's reply to any and all questions as to whether or not he is worried over the Finns in the coming Olympics is: "Don't a-Nurmi!"

Four Teams Have Chance To Lead

Walsh Says Picking Out Top Liner In National League Is Job

PITTSBURGH AGAIN RIGHT AMONG 'EM

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, April 7.—If you must have something easy, why not start swallowing a megaphone from its nether or suburban end? Anyhow, today's trick will be an attempt to call the National League's pre-season situation by its given name and, by comparison, everything else looks simple and I might mean silly, at that.

"Handicapped from the standpoint of current prospects, which is all any man can do and still retain his gravity, it appears that any one of four clubs might be rated at the pace without writing a letter of explanation to your family physician. The Pirates, for example, may be figured at this time to be no worse than they were in 1927 and, if they weren't too good then, all the rest of the league can say is that the official statisticians must have been entirely too flippant.

The Giants, regardless of Hornsby's absence, look the part of a one-two shot. The Cardinals have too much stuff to be rated any worse than the best and the Cubs, lacking balance though they may, have enough class in various departments to rate a real pennant chance.

There isn't sufficient difference in the pre-race prospects of the first three named to award any of them a definite advantage. The National League's April form sheet, therefore, might be written off as follows:

1. Pittsburgh Pirates.
2. New York Giants.
3. St. Louis Cardinals.
4. Chicago Cubs.
5. Cincinnati Reds.
6. Brooklyn Dodgers.
7. Boston Braves.
8. Phillies.

The writer is studiously avoiding any attempt to declare himself on the probable order of the finish in October, and, in consequence, is passing the N. O. buck in coupling the first three in the betting. The fact is simply that this trio seems to be of almost equal strength at this time, with any favor being indicated only in the order in which they are named above.

There is so much balance to the league as a whole, however, that it is possible some outfit outside the first three will break through. The Cubs would seem to have the best chance of doing this, but if you judge them on current prospects it must be admitted that any club with uncertain infielders at second and third bases can't be a standout at this early stage of the proceedings. Time only can tell whether these positions will develop acceptably and until then the Cubs must be left just a stride off the pace, regardless of their spring exhibition record.

The same factor rates the Dodgers well down in the second division. They have some remarkable pitching and unquestionably more punch than the 1927 club, but the right side of the infield is distinctly juvenile. Naturally, no one would be justified in committing himself on an entry like that until further notice.

The Pirates, with a ball player at second base for the first time in several years, can't have lost much between seasons, if the Waners don't quite repeat their sensational performances, as many have hastened to predict. The Pirate pitching may not be quite as good and, then again, with Grimes available, it might be even better. All in all, I think I'll very graciously allow somebody else to read the Pirates altogether out of top ranking.

The Giants suddenly have taken on the aspect of a far better club than the one that finished third in 1927. Roush seems ready for quite a year, the entire outfield situation is in for better protection and McGraw appears due to get his best pitching since his last championship year in 1924. The catching seems to be in better hands, too. Cohen, successor to Hornsby, has answered most of the questions about his defensive ability at second base. They say he may not hit. But what of it? I have a hunch that the rest of the batting order can carry a light hitter, if necessary.

The quality of pitching that they figure to get is enough alone to keep the Cardinals within a hoarse whisper of the leaders. Third base is the only uncertain factor, but with Thevenow and Blades cured of their 1927 ailments the team as a whole is strengthened, even if third base experiments are not entirely satisfactory.

Grove City High Starts Grid Work

Almost 55 men Report For First Spring Training Sessions This Week

GROVE CITY, Pa., April 7.—Football spring training was started in earnest by Coaches Joe Hartman and Art McBride, at the local High school this week. Three practice sessions from 4 p. m., to 6 p. m., were held this week, beginning Tuesday evening. About fifty-five men have reported and have been issued equipment.

Hartman has only four letter men on the squad from last year around which to build a team. These four are J. Dunn, a half; Beatty, tackle; and Briggs and Catlin, ends. Beatty has not reported for practice on account of a bad knee. The week has been devoted to instruction in the fundamentals of the game. No practice sessions will be held Friday or Saturday, on account of the Easter vacation but the work will resume Tuesday.

The British Empire may break up over this guy Tom Heeney. He changes nationalities faster than Lon Chaney swaps faces.

Tom came to America from New Zealand, called himself a Britisher with an Australian accent and acted like an Irishman on a rampage in Constantinople on Bastile Day.

At first the boys thought Heeney had no more pugilistic brains than a boxing kangaroo, but when he started his private and personal war against all pugs in public he was as popular as a male movie star at an old maids' coffee social.

Now this shining son of the British Empire is claimed by England, Australia, Ireland, New Zealand, Bermuda and Hogan's Alley. It's all the same to Tom as long as the payoff is in good, old American cush (or mazuma).

With two more days of training all of the fistic gladiators who are to appear Tuesday night should be in the pink of condition for gruelling battles at the Old Armory. According to Promoter William Joly, there will be several four and three six-round bouts. Frankie Rio of Cleveland and Young Stewart, Akron puncher, will clash in the main bout, and with two good boys in the climax of the evening's pugilistic venture the fans should see plenty of action. Elmo's return against Jack Fink has set the fans on edge and many of the old faces will be seen peering through the ropes.

The United States began its drive in the quest to regain the Davis cup when it scored two victories over Mexico in the first round of the American zone play. The matches were played at Deportivo Club, Mexico City, and John Hennessey of Indianapolis won his singles match from Ricardo Tapia, 6-2, 9-7, 6-1, and William T. Tilden II, captain and veteran of the team, won from Robert G. Kensey, formerly of California, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Johnny Rini, who has never appeared in a local ring here, although he has been prominent in other cities, will battle Young McManos of Pittsburgh, of whom Pittsburgh fans speak highly. Rini is a rough, tough kid, likewise Manos, and there should be some tall punching. The fans like to hear the thud of the horsehide and see the battlers drop, and a knockout in this battle at the Old Armory would not be surprising. "Lulu" George, the heavy muscled chap, will take on Mickie George, and Eddie Conrad has placed himself on record as saying he will try to knock out Johnny Hanlon, alias Frankie Florenze, for the beating the latter gave Jimmie Kirkpatrick.

With Earl Dilks back running as strong as ever, the boys of New Castle and the tri-state vicinity are watching the railroader and firmly believe that he will be up among the leaders when the bunion derbyists reach the Mid-West. The runners will have hard going through the state of Texas. Monday night the Dilks boosters organization will meet at the Elks Club to hear late reports from the Southwest.

Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, the defending champion, and Gus Copulos of Detroit won their matches yesterday and went into a tie for fourth place in the national three-cushion billiard championship. Each has won two and lost one match. Layton won three games, while Allen Hall and Willie Hoppe were tied for second and third with victories in the only games they have played. Reiselt won from Charles Weston, 50 to 35, in 53 innings; Copulos defeated Earl Lookabaugh, 50 to 30, in 40 innings. Lookabaugh and Art Thurnblad, who lost their three games, are considered out of the race.

Moguls of the O. & P. League will meet Sunday at Canton to formally adopt the schedule that has been drawn up, and it is probable that some trades will be made. George Textor, manager of the New Castle team, has his finger in the baseball pie and is lining up a good team for this city. Textor has never bungled the job of managing a team, and as he has full swing the fans can expect some good ball games here this summer. Most of the players who cavorted as Agathons last year will be in the line-up, and the other diamond stars will be players who have had trials with the bigger league teams this season.

Davis Walsh Selects Yankees To Repeat In American League Race

Picks Athletics And Detroit To Finish Second And Third Respectively

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, April 7.—Having arrived at the age of discretion, by forced marches and in the face of congenial restraints, the writer today is rating the American League strictly according to early April prospects, as he sees them, four days in advance of the Major League openings. He will not take the usual flier in early October values, which constitute a declaration of how the clubs, if they wish to avoid one's instinctive displeasure, must finish six months hence. On request, however, he will gladly tell you just when the day after tomorrow will become the day before yesterday.

In brief, he is not dealing in futures but only in "paper strength" of the present moment when the clubs are rated as follows:

1—New York Yankees.
2—Philadelphia Athletics.
3—Detroit Tigers.
4—Washington Senators.
5—Chicago White Sox.
6—Cleveland Indians.
7—St. Louis Browns.
8—Boston Red Sox.

The writer, of course, thinks the Yanks can win again or he wouldn't have them at the top. Their present speed is somewhat less than nothing flat, meaning that they have been going approximately nowhere at a terrible rate. From the standpoint of psychology, I think this will prove to be all for the best.

Yankees Due For Slump

The Yanks were due for a slump after their great record through the 1927 race and their four straight victories in the world series. No one can deny the fact that they are lucky to get the reaction now when it can't be used against them. And, if they were over-confident at the outset, they must be duly chastened after losing at random to all the ball clubs in the south, even unto the class A outfits.

I have confined my comment to the Yanks so far, because, obviously, they are the key team of the situation The others may come forward a bit but the Yanks will have to go back a lot to finish outside first money. It isn't good horse sense to figure that they will. The only real question they must answer is pitching and I think they will get just enough to ride on through.

Hoyt and Pennock should win thirty-five games between them. If they do—and the betting is 1-2, even and out that they will—the club will need only an average of seven victories each from Moore, Pipgras, Coveleskie, Johnson, Thomas, Marty, Sheeley and Campbell to be reasonably certain of winning the pennant. The chances are that many of those mentioned will exceed the conservative estimate imposed against their names.

The Athletics lack too much in defense to be rated higher than second at this early juncture and it may be that the Tigers, finding their stride at last, will come along to take the play away from them. Both clubs have the old punch but they probably will have their troubles stopping the other fellow from scoring, too.

Senators Mystery Club

Washington is the mystery ball club of the proceedings. Not even Harris himself can say definitely what his team will do, since young players in critical positions like shortstop and centerfield just can't help tinging the future with uncertainty. I somehow look for the Senators to lose some of their hitting, too. If this statement is borne out, they will have to place too much strain on their pitchers to be rated now at better than even fourth place.

It is difficult to see where the Chicago White Sox, the Cleveland Indians, the St. Louis Browns, and the Boston Red Sox have improved themselves greatly between seasons. The Red Sox, for example, were many games back of seventh place at the pay off last fall and they have undergone almost no major changes. The club was coming along some at the finish and undoubtedly figures to make a better showing in 1928. But, unless something very radical happens in the immediate future, the assumption must be that the Sox still are a last place club.

Browns Dismantled

The Browns, on the contrary, tore themselves right up between seasons, leaving only a one-year veteran as a 1928 regular. They don't expect to get anywhere and their present strength indicates that they won't be disappointed in the slightest. Their juvenile second base pair may come through, at that, but the Browns can't be a ball club until they get a few pitchers.

Cleveland and Chicago are almost a standoff. The former has the superior punch, the latter being pitching and general defense. It is for that reason that I think they look to be the better bet at this stage of the proceedings, although that Indian staff might suddenly decide to return to its 1926 form, in which case all bets are off. The Indians, however, aren't much of a ball club at this writing, the Sox having considerably more balance.

Anyway, what difference does it make? A punch on the nose sounds the same in any language and a sock in the slats knows no nationalities.

Davis Cup Team Wins In Mexico

(International News Service)

MEXICO CITY, April 7.—With two single matches already in the bag, the United States Davis Cup team is expected to clinch its series with Mexico's respesentatives today when "Big Bill" Tilden and Arnold J. Jones meet Robert Kinsey and Alfonso Unda in the doubles.

Tilden flashed his old-time form yesterday in defeating Kinsey, the former American star, who is now a resident of Mexico, in straight sets. His dazzling service kept the former California star at bay throughout the match. The score was 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

In the first match, John Hennessey, of Indianapolis, disposed of Ricardo Tapia, the 18-year-old Mexicon star, by a score on 6-2, 9-7, 6-1. Tapia, playing his first International match, gave Augame performance but could not match Hennessey's drives.

If the Americans win today, Mexico will be eliminated from Davis Cup play, but exhibition matches will be played tomorrow.

Big League Game In New York Today

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 7.— Thousands of baseball-hungry fans turned out today to witness the first big league game of the season here. The attraction was the world's champion New York Yankees, vs. the Brooklyn Robins, in the first of four exhibition games to be played in New York and Brooklyn.

The home run twins, Babe Ruth and Buster Gehrig, finally had to come to life. Each hit two homers down in North Carolina yesterday against Charlotte. Gehrig's homers were his first of the year. The Yanks won the game, 28 to 10.

The Brooklyns, who made a good record against big and minor league teams in the south, were confident of beating the champions. Yesterday they swamped the Raleigh, N. C., team, by a score of 12 to 0.

Tony Lazzeri, New York's injured second baseman, will be in shape for the opening game against the Athletics on Wednesday, according to his physician.

Training Camps

(International News Service)

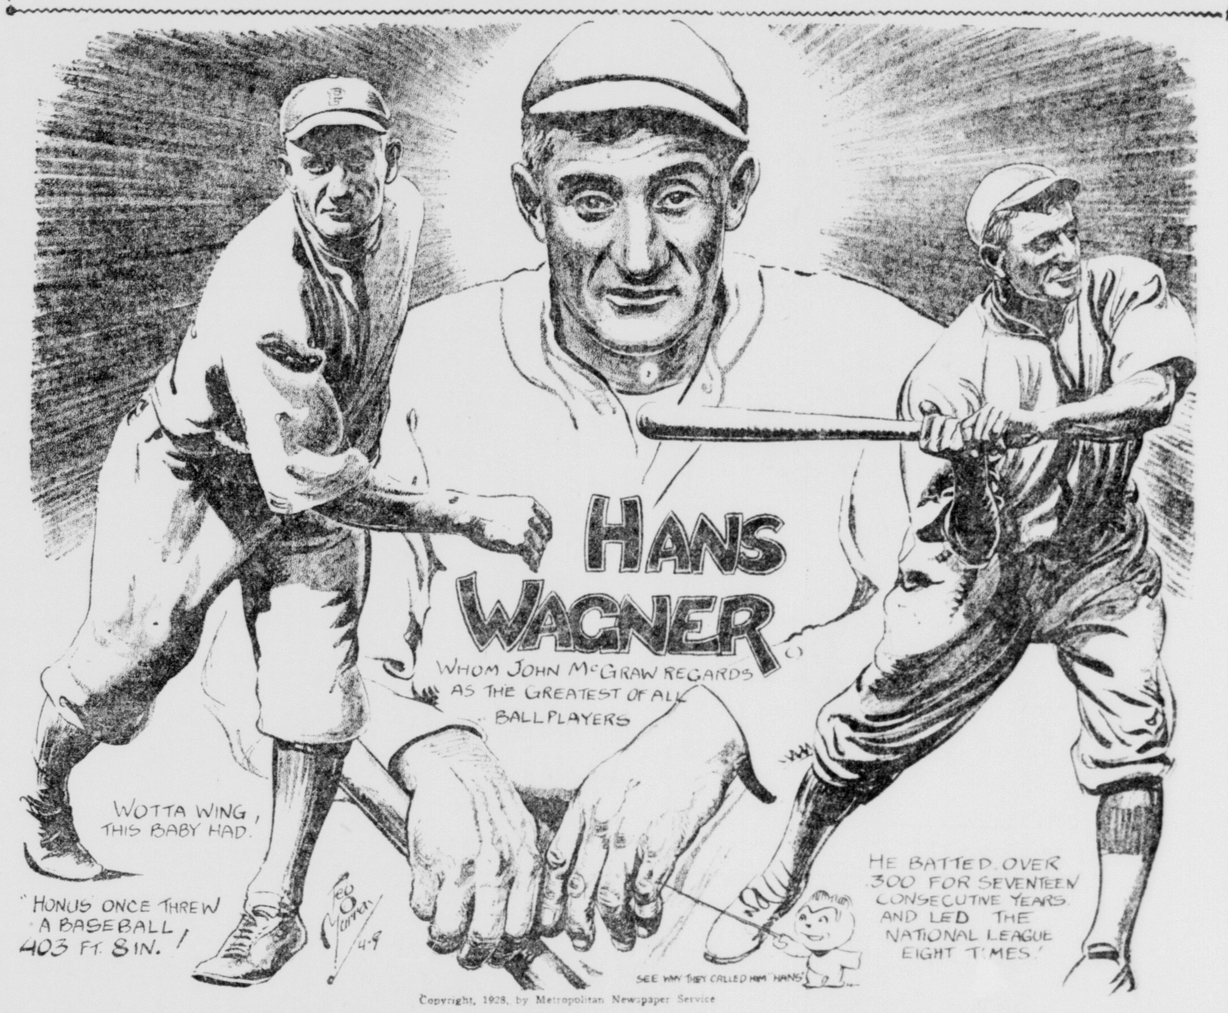
KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 7.—The Cubs were still winter-bound here today. Their series opener with the local Blues has now been postponed twice and has excellent prospects of being carried over for a third time.

PHILADELPHIA, April 7. — The Athletics today will attempt to defeat the Phillies again in their struggle to annex the city championship. The American club won yesterday, 6-5, in an 11-inning game before 15,000 fans, giving them three victories to one for the local National League club.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 7. — The Pittsburgh Pirates play the Memphis club of the Southern Association here today. Yesterday at Dallas, Tex., they lost to Detroit, 6-3. Harry Heilmann, Tiger gardener, secured four hits, including a homer, out of four times at bat.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 7. — The White Sox belated winning streak has carried on into Hoosierdom. They scored a shutout over the Indians of the American Association here yesterday, the score being 4 to 9 Ted Lyons was the winning pitcher.

"THE FLYING DUTCHMAN" BY FEG MURRAY



Copyright, 1928, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

John McGraw, in his "My Thirty Years in Baseball," gives the palm to Hans Wagner for being "the greatest ball player who ever lived." "Not one of them," goes on the famous manager of the Giants, referring to Cobb, Hornsby, Sisler, Speaker, and Keeler, "can show the combination of many qualities possessed by Wagner." Though it is true that Ty Cobb has broken practically all of the Flying Dutchman's records, it is also true that Cobb would probably not be playing today if he had been a shortstop, as Hans was for the greater part of his career. The wear and tear is much greater at short than it is in the outfield, and, anyway, Wagner broke in as an outfielder and proved as great as Cobb at that position before he was permanently moved to the infield in Pittsburgh.

Whether it was in batting, fielding, or base-running, old Tans Wagner "had everything." Bow-legged, awkward, and ungainly, he could hit any and all kinds of pitching with equal ease and knocked the ball over every National League fence within 300 feet of the plate. What he would have done with the lively ball is nobody's business! From 1897 to 1910 he had a batting average of .348. In 1900 he beat out Flick and Keeler by hitting .380. In his twenty-one seasons with Louisville and Pittsburgh he made 3,430 hits, scored 1,740 runs, and went to bat 10,427 times in 2,785 games. These figures all represent National League records.

As a fielder, Wagner's "scoop-shovel" hands gobbled up everything hit between second and third, and his steel-muscled arm shot the ball over to first base like a rifle bullet. He had no equal in starting double plays, and in his twenty-one years made the fine fielding average of .944.

Old Honus used to steal bases under the very nose of the pitcher. He swiped 720 sacks altogether (61 in 1907), and he averaged more than 50 pilfered stations a season for eight consecutive years (1901-1908).

John Peter Wagner was born in Mansfield, Pa., now Carnegie, on February 24, 1874, and broke in with Patterson of the Atlantic League. He was sold to Barney Dreyfuss, then owner of the Louisville Nationals, for $2,100 in 1897, and moved to Pittsburgh three years later when Dreyfuss purchased the Pirate franchise.

Feg Murray Says—

According to Hick Duemer, the w. k. cartoonist; Lloyd Hahn's reply to any and all questions as to whether or not he is worried over the Finns in the coming Olympics is: "Don't a-Nurmi!"

Four Teams Have Chance To Lead

PITTSBURGH AGAIN RIGHT AMONG 'EM

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, April 7.—If you must have something easy, why not start swallowing a megaphone from its nether or suburban end? Anyhow, today's trick will be an attempt to call the National League's pre-season situation by its given name and, by comparison, everything else looks simple and I might mean silly, at that.

"Handicapped from the standpoint of current prospects, which is all any man can do and still retain his gravity, it appears that any one of four clubs might be rated at the pace without writing a letter of explanation to your family physician. The Pirates, for example, may be figured at this time to be no worse than they were in 1927 and, if they weren't too good then, all the rest of the league can say is that the official statisticians must have been entirely too flippant.

The Giants, regardless of Hornsby's absence, look the part of a one-two shot. The Cardinals have too much stuff to be rated any worse than the best and the Cubs, lacking balance though they may, have enough class in various departments to rate a real pennant chance.

There isn't sufficient difference in the pre-race prospects of the first three named to award any of them a definite advantage. The National League's April form sheet, therefore, might be written off as follows:

1. Pittsburgh Pirates.
2. New York Giants.
3. St. Louis Cardinals.
4. Chicago Cubs.
5. Cincinnati Reds.
6. Brooklyn Dodgers.
7. Boston Braves.
8. Phillies.

The writer is studiously avoiding any attempt to declare himself on the probable order of the finish in October, and, in consequence, is passing the N. O. buck in coupling the first three in the betting. The fact is simply that this trio seems to be of almost equal strength at this time, with any favor being indicated only in the order in which they are named above.

There is so much balance to the league as a whole, however, that it is possible some outfit outside the first three will break through. The Cubs would seem to have the best chance of doing this, but if you judge them on current prospects it must be admitted that any club with uncertain infielders at second and third bases can't be a standout at this early stage of the proceedings. Time only can tell whether these positions will develop acceptably and until then the Cubs must be left just a stride off the pace, regardless of their spring exhibition record.

The same factor rates the Dodgers well down in the second division. They have some remarkable pitching and unquestionably more punch than the 1927 club, but the right side of the infield is distinctly juvenile. Naturally, no one would be justified in committing himself on an entry like that until further notice.

The Pirates, with a ball player at second base for the first time in several years, can't have lost much between seasons, if the Waners don't quite repeat their sensational performances, as many have hastened to predict. The Pirate pitching may not be quite as good and, then again, with Grimes available, it might be even better. All in all, I think I'll very graciously allow somebody else to read the Pirates altogether out of top ranking.

The Giants suddenly have taken on the aspect of a far better club than the one that finished third in 1927. Roush seems ready for quite a year, the entire outfield situation is in for better protection and McGraw appears due to get his best pitching since his last championship year in 1924. The catching seems to be in better hands, too. Cohen, successor to Hornsby, has answered most of the questions about his defensive ability at second base. They say he may not hit. But what of it? I have a hunch that the rest of the batting order can carry a light hitter, if necessary.

The quality of pitching that they have played. Reiselt won from Charles Weston, 50 to 35, in 53 innings; Copulos defeated Earl Lookabaugh, 50 to 30, in 40 innings. Lookabaugh and Art Thurnblad, who lost their three games, are considered out of the race.

Grove City High Starts Grid Work

Almost 55 men Report For First Spring Training Sessions This Week

GROVE CITY, Pa., April 7.—Football spring training was started in earnest by Coaches Joe Hartman and Art McBride, at the local High school this week. Three practice sessions from 4 p. m., to 6 p. m., were held this week, beginning Tuesday evening. About fifty-five men have reported and have been issued equipment.

Hartman has only four letter men on the squad from last year around which to build a team. These four are J. Dunn, a half; Beatty, tackle; and Briggs and Catlin, ends. Beatty has not reported for practice on account of a bad knee. The week has been devoted to instruction in the fundamentals of the game. No practice sessions will be held Friday or Saturday, on account of the Easter vacation but the work will resume Tuesday.

Woman Sheriff Means Business

LEBANON, Tenn., April 7.—Lawbreakers of Wilson county had better watch their steps, for Mrs. Laura B. Mason will get them if they don't look out.

Mrs. Mason was sworn in as sheriff yesterday to succeed her husband, who recently died. She stands for law enforcement—and how?

"I just asked for the job so I might carry out my husband's strict plan of law enforcement," she said today. "I am going to do my duty and I don't want any publicity about it."

When asked whether she is afraid to arrest a desperate man, she replied:

"No, but if I have any trouble in getting him I have good deputies who will.

"I will manage the jail, take care of the prisoners and watch the office and delegate most of the outside work to my deputies.

"I don't want any pictures in the papers, or big talk, or foolishness like other women officeholders."

Woman Sheriff Means Business

LEBANON, Tenn., April 7.—Lawbreakers of Wilson county had better watch their steps, for Mrs. Laura B. Mason will get them if they don't look out.

Mrs. Mason was sworn in as sheriff yesterday to succeed her husband, who recently died. She stands for law enforcement—and how?

"I just asked for the job so I might carry out my husband's strict plan of law enforcement," she said today. "I am going to do my duty and I don't want any publicity about it."

When asked whether she is afraid to arrest a desperate man, she replied:

"No, but if I have any trouble in getting him I have good deputies who will.

"I will manage the jail, take care of the prisoners and watch the office and delegate most of the outside work to my deputies.

FRENCH SERVANT GIRLS VOTE TO DEMAND 36 NIGHTS OUT A YEAR

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 7.—At least thirty-six nights out a year, is what the French servant girl wants, according to a reduction voted at the meeting of the Hired Girls' Syndicate.

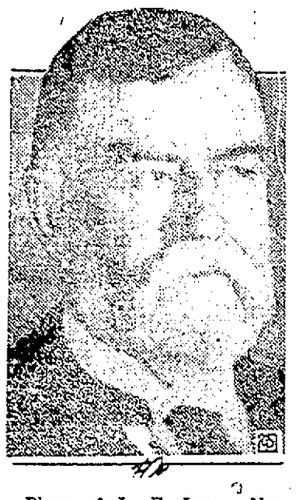
"A day off a week does not seem possible for a cook or a house maid," said the chairwoman, not charwomen, of the meeting, "so all we want is a night out every ten days. This means thirty-six nights a year.

The chairwoman was asked what she meant by a night out.

"We mean," was the reply, "from two in the afternoon until breakfast time the next day.

We can't get the morning so we have to take the night."

Rail Plan Fails



Plans of L. F. Loree, New York, veteran president of the Delaware & Hudson railroad, for a fifth trunk line railroad in the east, through a series of combinations, are believed to have been discarded because the Pennsylvania is said to have agreed with the New York Central, Nickel Plate and Baltimore & Ohio on a four-trunk merger.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF NEW YORK MARKET

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, April 7.—Both the industrial and the railroad stocks continued their upward price movement this week. In the face of a rapidly mounting volume of speculative loans, a 5½ per cent call loan market and a triple holiday in the exchanges which closed all security markets from Thursday until next week.

Though the volume of stock trading this week was considerably smaller than in the week preceding, bullish forces in Wall street stood solidly behind their favorites, and the rise in the railroad stocks was an important stimulus for the investment buying all along the line. With the release of more than $500,000,000 in interest and dividend disbursements for American investors, money literally poured into Wall street, and the preference was for the "good" stocks of well-rated corporations with favorable earnings and dividend records.

Wall street heard on good authority that the conference of railroad executives in New York this week had practically turned thumbs down on Leonor F. Loree's Eastern trunk line system. Withdrawal of Pennsylvania railroad's support left Mr. Loree without sufficient backing for his so-called fifth trunk line scheme, though his wide stockholdings of Wabash, Lehigh Valley and other strategic roads make him a factor to be dealt with in the consummation of the proposed Nickel Plate consolidation as well as the acquisition of "feeders" by the New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio, the other members of the big transportation quartette.

Under the lead of New York Central, Delaware and Hudson, Nickel Plate and a dozen or more of the better grade of railroad stocks, this section of the market gained considerable momentum in the upward direction this week. It was recognized that the rails were considerably "behind the market" on any of the ratios of market price to net earnings claimed for the industrial and motor stocks, and it required very little buying to send prices to the highest levels of the year. Nor was the rail list to be outdone in the matter of price sky-rocketing. Pittsburgh & West Virginia furnishing the pyrotechnics in this section of the market with a 30 point jump to 154, and Delaware & Hudson gaining 11 points in one session.

On the whole, the business and industrial news of the week was encouraging. Expansion of the steel, motor car, building construction, copper and other important industries was fully up to expectations, and the gains in other directions confirmed the hopeful forecasts of the leaders of American business. The big mercantile houses are showing a ten-per cent gain over gross business as compared with the same month of last year. Collapse of the crude rubber market in New York and London followed naturally the announcement of the removal of exportation restrictions from British possessions and it would not be surprising if American Rubber interests made a big effort to strengthen their hold on the world's rubber producing areas.

Bullish market activities broadened this week, to include a number of the specialties, with aeroplane stocks soaring spectacularly near the week-end. General Motors led a final move in the motor shares, and Radio recovered the bulk of its early losses. Mercantile stocks were active and strong.

CLEVELAND MAN CLAIMS DISCOVERY OF PROCESS TO TELEGRAPH PICTURES

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, April 7.—Herbert R. Palmer, electrical inventor and engineer of Cleveland claims he discovered the process of sending pictures over the wire more than 20 years ago, and which only a few years ago was hailed as a marvelous invention when put into practical use.

Palmer reluctantly exhibited time worn clippings, where back in the days of the Spanish American war, the newspapers "bannered," on the first page "the most wonderful invention of the age."

Palmer called his invention the "electrograph." The Cleveland inventor first sent wire pictures in 1901. Later the exhibited the instrument at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo. A company was organized known as the Electrograph Company of America and $1,000,000 worth of stock at $10 a share was offered. The public was not interested, Palmer said.

Mrs. Corbett's Counsel Appeals For New Trial; Asks Verdict Be Nullified

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 7.—With charges of perjury, illegal invasion of the jury room and inaudible statements by the judge at the $250,000 alienation of affection suit which she lost last month against Countess Andres Marco Giuseppe Soranzo, Mrs. Alice Bland Corbett, salesgirl, formerly of New Castle, Pa., today made a fresh bid for the quarter of a million heart balm.

Her attorneys petitioned the supreme court to set aside the verdict rendered March 22 and order a new trial. Five jurors support some of the allegations.

Mrs. Corbett, first wife of James (Pepper) Corbett, now in Sing Sing for five years on a bad check conviction, contends the Countess knowingly entered into a bigamous marriage with Corbett in 1925.

A child was born to Mrs. Alice Corbett just before the elopement to Buffalo of her husband and the then Marqueene Gwendolyn Stevenson.

The countess is the daughter of Frederick A. Stevenson, a vice president of the American Car and Foundry Company, living on Park avenue. Pictured as the victim of Corbett's duplicity, the manufacturer's daughter won an annulment of the Buffalo alliance and soon married an Italian nobleman.

B. Leo Schwartz, the first Mrs. Corbett's trial counsel, made affidavit in supreme court that Stevenson perjured himself in testifying for his daughter.

Clerk Puts Himself At Public's Disposal

ATLANTIC CITY, April 7.—Raymond Fenton, 29-year-old bachelor and bank clerk, has announced that he will be a "public servant" for the two weeks' period of his vacation. He says he will do anything from minding a month-old baby to grinding the valves of an automobile. He claims a thorough knowledge of housework and agrees to cook a meal whether it be just "ham and" or chicken and waffles. He even promises to entertain the evenings with songs and dances, having spent several years on a vaudeville circuit.

In explaining his unusual resolve, he says he is ambitious to take a college course in higher finance as well as commerce and foreign trade. For this reason he hopes to earn money rather than spend it during his vacation.

Rich Woman Objects To 'Gown In Pasture'

NEW YORK, April 7.—Mrs. Florence Brooks Aten, chairman of the Brooks-Bryce Foundation for the Promotion of International Peace, won't have to pay $4757 for a portrait which, she protested, at first depicted her in evening dress in a pasture in the day-time, then was altered carelessly.

NANCY PRICE, FAMOUS ASTRESS WORKED AS BOY ON SHIP DURING WAR

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 7.—Nancy Price, famous actress, worked on a drifter for six months during the war, disguised as a boy, it is now revealed.

Trained from girlhood to understand the sea and its ways, Miss Price is a skilled yachtswoman. When war broke out she was determined to use her experience in the service of her country.

Without telling anyone of her intentions, she cut off her hair, assumed male attire and took employment as a ship's boy on a drifter.

It is a remarkable fact that for six months she was able to carry out her job without anyone on the drifter, except the skipper, realizing she was a girl.

She took her turn at the wheel, stood her watch and did the cooking.

Reading that employment in the north is on the up-grade, the Weary Willie may conclude to tarry longer in the balmy south.—San Antonio Express.

YALE'S JUNIOR PROM MADE PROFIT OF $114

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 7.—Staging the Junior Prom at Yale this year cost just $7,260.14. The committee known as the "1929 Prom board", made a profit of only $114.15 but it has gone down as the first since 1923 to run a Prom at a profit. Last year the deficit reached $1,222.58 and there was talk of giving up the historic Yale event.

Among the items of expense this year was police and fire service costing a total of $124. The students paid $35 to have a university eight-oared shell hung up for decoration, and they paid $25 for a wooden spoon. The committee running the Prom had a private banquet costing $172, and they spent $96 having their pictures taken.

PARIS, April 7.—Direct communication between France and Algeria was established when Minister of Commerce Bokanowski in Paris talked with Governor General Bordes in Algiers over radio-telephone.

Although only a narrow strip of Mediterranean separates France from her nearest colonial possession the cost of laying a cable has always been considered too dear.

Syrians Give Up Fire Arms, French Cease Hostilities

(International News Service)

BEIRUT, April 7.—Syria is gradually being disarmed about 40,000 firearms having been collected from the people since the suppression of the rebellion in Syria and the Lebanons.

A condition of the cessation of hostilities on the part of the French troops was the voluntary surrender of all arms by the non-combatants at the time the active rebels were forced to lay down their arms. The response to the appeal was far from general and the authorities have taken to conducting searches in houses where there was as suspician of weapons being concealed.

The net spread by the authorities resulted in the confiscation of 21,755 rifles and 2,832 other firearms in Syria and of 7,200 rifles and 5,432 revolvers in the Lebanons.

PARIS RAISES RENT ON GROUND AT EIFFEL TOWER FIRST TIME SINCE BUILT

(International News Service)

PARIS, Apr. 7.—Things are always going up at Eiffel Tower but the rent there has begun to rise for the first time since 1889, the year it was constructed.

The four bases of the tower enclose 600 square yards for which the Eiffel Tower Company pays $200 a year. This amount is about the annual rental of a maid's bedroom in the adjourning apartment houses. City fathers have just discovered the assessment for Eiffel Tower has never been revised.

For three years the surface of Eiffel tower has been used for an electric automobile advertisement, so the revised assessment may set a new world record.

COURT DENIES HORSE HONOR OF PASSING NAME TO FOUNDLING

BALTIMORE, April 7.—Howard Bruce's Billy Barton, the Maryland steeplechaser which made history in the Grand National at Aintree a few days ago, has been judicially denied the privilege of having his name pass on—at least to humans.

Someone left a baby in a florist's box at the Child's hospital today, with the inscription on the package that the infant's name was "Billy B". So they began to call the mysterious bit of humanity "Billy Barton."

So Maryland's great steeplechaser had a namesake until Judge William of juvenile court stepped in and ordered that he didn't want a child named after a horse.

And they called him Theodore Franklin.

FRENCH SERVANT GIRLS VOTE TO DEMAND 36 NIGHTS OUT A YEAR

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 7.—At least thirty-six nights out a year, is what the French servant girl wants, according to a reduction voted at the meeting of the Hired Girls' Syndicate.

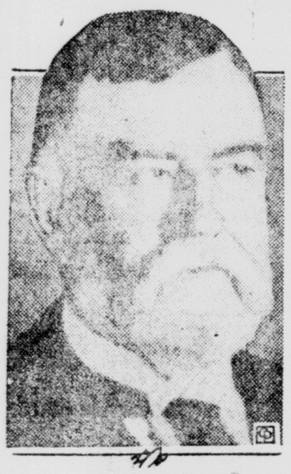
"A day off a week does not seem possible for a cook or a house maid," said the chairwoman, not charwomen, of the meeting, "so all we want is a night out every ten days. This means thirty-six nights a year.

The chairwoman was asked what she meant by a night out.

"We mean," was the reply, "from two in the afternoon until breakfast time the next day.

We can't get the morning so we have to take the night."

Rail Plan Fails



Plans of L. F. Loree, New York, veteran president of the Delaware & Hudson railroad, for a fifth trunk line railroad in the east, through a series of combinations, are believed to have been discarded because the Pennsylvania is said to have agreed with the New York Central, Nickel Plate and Baltimore & Ohio on a four-trunk merger.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF NEW YORK MARKET

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, April 7.—Both the industrial and the railroad stocks continued their upward price movement this week, in the face of a rapidly mounting volume of speculative loans, a 5½ per cent call loan market and a triple holiday in the exchanges which closed all security markets from Thursday until next week.

Though the volume of stock trading this week was considerably smaller than in the week preceding, bullish forces in Wall street stood solidly behind their favorites, and the rise in the railroad stocks was an important stimulus for the investment buying all along the line. With the release of more than $500,000,000 in interest and dividend disbursements for American investors, money literally poured into Wall street, and the preference was for the "good" stocks of well-rated corporations with favorable earnings and dividend records.

Wall street heard on good authority that the conference of railroad executives in New York this week had practically turned thumbs down on Leonor F. Loree's Eastern trunk line system. Withdrawal of Pennsylvania railroad's support left Mr. Loree without sufficient backing for his so-called fifth trunk line scheme, though his wide stockholdings of Wabash, Lehigh Valley and other strategic roads make him a factor in be dealt with in the consummation of the proposed Nickel Plate consolidation as well as the acquisition of "feeders" by the New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio, the other members of the big transportation quartette.

Under the lead of New York Central, Delaware and Hudson, Nickel Plate and a dozen or more of the better grade of railroad stocks, this section of the market gained considerable momentum in the upward direction this week. It was recognized that the rails were considerably "behind the market" on any of the ratios of market price to net earnings claimed for the industrial and motor stocks, and it required very little buying to send prices to the highest levels of the year. Nor was the rail list to be outdone in the matter of price sky-rocketing, Pittsburgh & West Virginia furnishing the pyrotechnics in this section of the market with a 30 point jump to 154, and Delaware & Hudson gaining 11 points in one session.

One the whole, the business and industrial news of the week was encouraging. Expansion of the steel, motor car, building construction, copper and other important industries was fully up to expectations, and the gains in other directions confirmed the hopeful forecasts of the leaders of American business. The big mercantile houses are showing a ten-per cent gain over gross business as compared with the same month of last year. Collapse of the crude rubber market in New York and London followed naturally the announcement of the removal of exportation restrictions from British possessions and it would not be surprising if American Rubber interests made a big effort to strengthen their hold on the world's rubber producing areas.

Bullish market activities broadened this week, to include a number of the specialties, with aeroplane stocks soaring spectacularly near the week-end. General Motors led a final move in the motor shares, and Radio recovered the bulk of its early closes. Mercantile stocks were active and strong.

CLEVELAND MAN CLAIMS DISCOVERY OF PROCESS TO TELEGRAPH PICTURES

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, April 7.—Herbert R. Palmer, electrical inventor and engineer of Cleveland claims he discovered the process of sending pictures over the wire more than 20 years ago, and which only a few years ago was hailed as a marvelous invention when put into practical use.

Palmer reluctantly exhibited time worn clippings, where back in the days of the Spanish American war, the newspapers "bannered," on the first page "the most wonderful invention of the age."

Palmer called his invention the "electrograph." The Cleveland inventor first sent wire pictures in 1901. Later the exhibited the instrument at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo. A company was organized known as the Electrograph Company of America and $1,000,000 worth of stock at $10 a share was offered. The public was not interested, Palmer said.

Mrs. Corbett's Counsel Appeals For New Trial; Asks Verdict Be Nullified

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 7—With charges of perjury, illegal invasion of the jury room and inaudible statements by the judge at the $250,000 alienation of affection suit which she lost last month against Countess Andres Marco Giuseppe Soranzo, Mrs. Alice Bland Corbett, salesgirl, formerly of New Castle, Pa., today made a fresh bid for the quarter of a million heart balm.

Her attorneys petitioned the supreme court to set aside the verdict rendered March 22 and order a new trial. Five jurors support some of the allegations.

Mrs. Corbett, first wife of James (Pepper) Corbett, now in Sing Sing for five years on a bad check conviction, contends the Countess knowingly entered into a bigamous marriage with Corbett in 1925.

A child was born to Mrs. Alice Corbett just before the elopement to Buffalo of her husband and the then Marqueene Gwendolyn Stevenson.

The countess is the daughter of Frederick A. Stevenson, a vice president of the American Car and Foundry Company, living on Park avenue. Pictured as the victim of Corbett's duplicity, the manufacturer's daughter won an annulment of the Buffalo alliance and soon married an Italian nobleman.

B. Leo Schwartz, the first Mrs. Corbett's trial counsel, made affidavit in supreme court that Stevenson perjured himself in testifying for his daughter.

Clerk Puts Himself At Public's Disposal

ATLANTIC CITY, April 7.—Raymond Fenton, 29-year-old bachelor and bank clerk, has announced that he will be a "public servant" for the two weeks' period of his vacation. He says he will do anything from minding a month-old baby to grinding the valves of an automobile. He claims a thorough knowledge of housework and agrees to cook a meal whether it be just "ham and" or chicken and waffles. He even promises to enliven the evenings with songs and dances, having spent several years on a vaudeville circuit.

In explaining his unusual resolve, he says he is ambitious to take a college course in higher finance as well as commerce and foreign trade. For this reason he hopes to earn money rather than spend it during his vacation.

Rich Woman Objects To 'Gown In Pasture'

NEW YORK, April 7.—Mrs. Florence Brooks Aten, chairman of the Brooks-Bryce Foundation for the Promotion of International Peace, won't have to pay $4757 for a portrait which, she protested, at first depicted her in evening dress in a pasture in the day-time, then was altered carelessly.

NANCY PRICE, FAMOUS ASTRESS WORKED AS BOY ON SHIP DURING WAR

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 7.—Nancy Price, famous actress, worked on a drifter for six months during the war, disguised as a boy, it is now revealed.

Trained from girlhood to understand the sea and its ways, Miss Price is a skilled yachtswoman. When war broke out she was determined to use her experience in the service of her country.

Without telling anyone of her intentions, she cut off her hair, assumed male attire and took employment as a ship's boy on a drifter.

It is a remarkable fact that for six months she was able to carry out her job without anyone on the drifter, except the skipper, realizing she was a girl.

She took her turn at the wheel, stood her watch and did the cooking.

Reading that employment in the north is on the up-grade, the Weary Willie may conclude to tarry longer in the balmy south.—San Antonio Express.

YALE'S JUNIOR PROM MADE PROFIT OF $114

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 7.—Staging the Junior Prom at Yale this year cost just $7,260.14. The committee known as the "1929 Prom board", made a profit of only $114.15 but it has gone down as the first since 1923 to run a Prom at a profit. Last year the deficit reached $1,228.58 and there was talk of giving up the historic Yale event.

Among the items of expense this year was police and fire service costing a total of $124. The students paid $35 to have a university eight-oared shell hung up for decoration, and they paid $25 for a wooden spoon. The committee running the Prom had a private banquet costing $172, and they spent $96 having their pictures taken.

PARIS, April 7.—Direct communication between France and Algeria was established when Minister of Commerce Bokanowski in Paris talked with Governor General Bordes in Algiers over radio-telephone.

Although only a narrow strip of Mediterranean separates France from her nearest colonial possession the cost of laying a cable has always been considered too dear.

Syrians Give Up Fire Arms, French Cease Hostilities

(International News Service)

BEIRUT, April 7.—Syria is gradually being disarmed about 40,000 fire-arms having been collected from the people since the suppression of the rebellion in Syria and the Lebanons.

A condition of the cessation of hostilities on the part of the French troops was the voluntary surrender of all arms by the non-combatants at the time the active rebels were forced to lay down their arms. The response to the appeal was far from general and the authorities have taken to conducting searches in houses where there was as suspician of weapons being concealed.

The net spread by the authorities resulted in the confiscation of 21,755 rifles and 2,822 other firearms in Syria and of 7,200 rifles and 5,433 revolvers in the Lebanons.

PARIS RAISES RENT ON GROUND AT EIFFEL TOWER FIRST TIME SINCE BUILT

(International News Service)

PARIS, Apr. 7—Things are always going up at Eiffel Tower but the rent there has begun to rise for the first time since 1889, the year it was constructed.

The four bases of the tower enclose 600 square yards for which the Eiffel Tower Company pays $200 a year. This amount is about the annual rental of a maid's bedroom in the adjourning apartment houses. City fathers have just discovered the assessment for Eiffel Tower has never been revised.

For three years the surface of Eiffel tower has been used for an electric automobile advertisement, so the revised assessment may set a new world record.

COURT DENIES HORSE HONOR OF PASSING NAME TO FOUNDLING

BALTIMORE, April 7.—Howard Bruce's Billy Barton, the Maryland steeplechaser which made history in the Grand National at Aintree a few days ago, has been judicially denied the privilege of having his name pass on—at least to humans.

Someone left a baby in a florist's box at the Child's hospital today, with the inscription on the package that the infant's name was "Billy B". So they began to call the mysterious bit of humanity "Billy Barton."

So Maryland's great steeplechaser had a namesake until Judge William of juvenile court stepped in and ordered that he didn't want a child named after a horse.

And they called him Theodore Franklin.

French Flight Is Conjecture

Lieut. De Troyat Makes 700-Mile Preliminary Test On Friday

RUMORS ARISE OF ATLANTIC FLIGHT

International News Service.

PARIS, April 7.—There was much conjecture here today as to whether Lieutenant Michael De Troyat's 700 mile flight yesterday was in preparation for a long distance flight or a trans-Atlantic hop, but the latter theory was given general credence.

"The Lone Falcon" made a circuitous flight which carried him south from Le Bourget Airdome to Marseilles. From there he swung northward, passing Lyons and landing at Dijon nine hours after his start.

Mystery surrounds the mechanical details of De Troyat's plane. It is said to be similar in design to the Spirit of St. Louis and capable of making 115 miles an hour.

The arrival here of Sergeant Major Antoine Paillard, a noted war pilot, in his new monoplane "Red Bird," which is powered with a 600 horsepower motor and is said to be capable of a sustained flight of 46 hours, gave rise to other trans-Atlantic rumors.

Another report was that the French navy was preparing a monoplane for a flight to New York.

ABE MARTIN On Crowds And Mobs

TH' RUSH FER SOMETHIN' FER NOTHIN'

There's good natured crowds, anxious crowds, infuriated crowds, terrified crowds, and curious crowds, but so fer as ill manners, varnish breath, nickel cigar odor, an' violet talcum combined with perspiration are concerned, a crowd's a crowd. All our home trainin', all our finer instincts, our consideration fer others, our personal pride an' bearin', are forgotten th' moment we git squeezed in a crowd o' jostlin', shovin', panic stricken savages. Little children are trampled, wrist watches are crushed, makeup smudged, wives are torn from husbands, furs are ignited by cigarettes, corns are trampled, cologne spirits breaths sicken th' delicate, traces are broken, hose are snagged, pipes are broken off close t' th' mouth, beads become tangled, ears are exposed, nose glasses are ground t' smithereens, strong met beat down th' weak an' undersized, stout round women crush ther less favored sisters, youth jostles old age, painted sirens are carried forward on th' crest, while th' frail an' ailin' fall maimed an' bleedin', an' not infrequently th' nimble pickpocket reaps a rich harvest. A crowd movin' toward some place where ther givin' somethin' away moves twice as fast an' ferocious as a crowd bent on violence. Th' ole Bryan jams 'll go down in history. Nearly ever' day I meet some one who's aunt or uncle wuz crushed t' death at a Bryan meetin'. Box office crowds are made up o' people who all expect seats on th' sixth row. Th' ole circus parade crowds wuz th' most patient of all, often assemblin' as early as 7 o'clock an' remainin' motionless till 12 noon. Th' most stubborn an' determined mobs are bargain crowds—crowds that are after somethin' fer nearly nothin'. These crowds move slow, but allus forward an' are usually five times as wide as th' door it's goin' t' enter. All th' police in th' world couldn't make a soap sale customer give up an inch once she's gained it. Some crowds are swayed an' stampeded by mounted police, or street cars, but special sale mobs know no such word as retreat. Th' howlin' mob is not allus infuriated, or bent on violence. It may only want t' jeer, or drown out some performance not t' its likin'. Then we have th' sea o' faces, th' expectant throng, th' vast assemblage, an' the' surgin' mass—all curious an' wild eyed. We often hear audiences spoken of as large an' intelligent. Nothing' could be more remote from th' truth. An audience may be large, but ther never wuz an occasion where an audience wuz both large an' intelligent. An audience may be small with a smatterin' of intelligence where th' attraction appeals strongly t' th' intelligent an' not only likely t' intrigue lesser intellects, but such cases are very rare. What's commonly known as "intellectual treats" do attract a few intelligent people, but it's not unusual fer th' great bulk o' th' patronage t' be made up of inferior, or No. 4 people who wish t' be regarded as intelligent. But th' real crowd, th' surgin', pantin', panicky, ill mannered jam, is a mob movin' toward somethin' fer nothin'.

Fontaine Fox Comes Forth To Defend Mickey McGuire; What Is Your Opinion?

Fontaine Fox, author of the Mickey McGuire cartoon has received so many complaints that Mickey licks only "setups" that he is forced to defend Mickey in the appended letter.

The author's mail is crowded with letters of which some of the writers want to see Mickey licked and others defend Mickey in his exploits, until things have come to such a pass that the author himself has to have his say, in defense of his hero.

If any of our local sports have any doubt of the prowess of Mickey let the following letter help to convince him that as yet Mickey has not as yet met his match. If you still have any doubts, tell us so. Who knows, you may be the means of causing the downfall of the champion or you may help uphold your hero.

Fox Writes

The letter from Fontaine Fox follows:

A letter has come to me complaining that Mickey (himself) McGuire licks only "setups". How on earth such an impression could have registered with anyone is very hard for me to understand.

If McGuire licks only setups what about his famous battle with the Bartlett Twins? Either of the twins is BIGGER than McGuire and furthermore either of them is capable of holding his own with almost any kid in the neighborhood. McGUIRE LICKED THEM BOTH AT ONCE! Does than sound like a setup? Not wishing to do the Bartlett Twins an injustice I must say that they are good sports as well as good fighters and the idea of "two on one" did not appeal to them but McGuire was willing so they lit in. This was the fight where Aunt Sophrony came up when it was all over; with the Bartlett Twins very badly bunged up and McGuire standing nearby without a scratch, Aunt Sophrony read the twins a lecture on what a terrible thing it was for two brothers to beat each other up like that and hauled them off to their mother refusing to listen to any explanation.

And if McGuire licks only setups how about the time he walked three miles in a broiling sun to fight a guy in an outlying village who had sent him a challenge. When he got there McGuire found that the challenger was about a foot taller and outweighed him over thirty pounds. There was such a difference in the weight and size that the big boy did not want to scrap. He said he had no idea that the famous McGuire was such a little fellow. McGuire said he had walked too far for this scrap not to have it so they squared off, and McGuire LICKED THAT BIG BOY. I have been told it was very much like the Dempsey-willard battle at Toledo.

A lot of folks don't seem to realize that this McGuire is good. He is better than good. He has everything; speed, footwork and for a little feller, good gracious what a sock! Of course all the rest of the kids are afraid of him, not that they are cowards but they are simply just not plain durn fools.

It would not be human nature if McGuire did not take advantage of such a situation and he does. He rules with an iron hand, he domineers, his word is law. That is, law to everybody except The Powerful Katrinka's Little Brother. I cannot say I believe McGuire is afraid of him and I do not believe that Olaf is afraid of McGuire. Last week McGuire confided to "Spunky" Edwards that as soon as Olaf had learned enough English so that they could explain to him the rules of a fair fist fight (no wrestling) that he (McGuire) would be willing to take Olaf on. But, he added, that until then he wasn't going to take any chance of having Olaf tear off one of his arms or a leg. This doesn't sound to me much like picking a setup. When it comes to a setup McGuire just slaps 'em flat and walks away. But as for really licking a setup; Never.

Fontaine Fox

Army Service Has Many Opportunities

So Declares Army Recruiting Officer At New Castle City Hall

There are some rare opportunities afforded young men of an ambitious turn of mind in the United States army service, which on their return to civilian life enables them to follow a lucrative and high standing profession, asserts the local recruiting officer.

In this classification is the medical department, which is charged with the guarding of the health of American soldiers. This work is done not only by the doctors, who are commissioned officers, but also by a number of soldiers who act as assistants.

Ambitious enlisted men may learn physiology, anatomy, nursing, sanitation and other lines of work closely allied with the profession of a physician.

At the army medicine school at Washington, special courses are given soldiers in laboratory work, X-ray photography. A number of selected soldiers act as dental surgeons' assistants and have the opportunity of learning dental hygiene and mechanical dentistry. In the veterinary service, a number of soldiers learn the care of animals, prevention of disease, veterinary medicine and surgery. Meat and dairy hygiene are also included in the courses.

Then there is the ordinance department in which young men may now enlist. The functions, duties and responsibilities of the ordinance department are of such a technical and mechanical nature as to require vocational or trade ability in substantially all of its enlisted personnel. A few of the things that members of this department may learn are the trades of armorer, blacksmiths, carpenters, chauffeur, draftsmen, electricians, machinists, mechanic, welder, wheelwright, munition and sheet metal workers. At Araitan arsenal in New Jersey a school is maintained by the ordinance for the training of enlisted specialists.

For further information in regard to these branches of service, as well as all branches of army service, the prospective soldier should see Corporal Walter McKelvey, in charge of the recruiting station in the city building.

Weather Prevents Atlantic Flight Of German Plane

All Preparations Had Been Made For Hop From Ireland Today

International News Service.

DUBLIN, April 7.—After all preparations had been made and a definite time for a take-off had been set, unfavorable weather over the Atlantic today again prevented the monoplane Bremen from starting on its attempt to span the Atlantic in a westward flight.

Captain Hermann Koehl had announced last night that weather conditions seemed favorable and that the attempt would be made at noon today but at that hours reports were received which caused him to announce another postponement.

Although it appeared unlikely that an attempt would be made later today, the plane was held in readiness for an immediate hop-off, if later reports permitted.

Commandant James Fitzmaurice, the Irish Free State air chief, will accompany Koehl and Humbert. Von Huenefeld, acting as relief pilot, it was officially announced. He has received a leave of absence from the Irish government for the flight and is taking the place of Arthur Spindler, the German pilot, who originally was to have accompanied Koehl on the trip.

The Bremen received a final tuning up last night, and the fliers declared the motor was in perfect condition for the trip. In compliance with an Irish government regulation, a doctor, priest and fire engine were brought to the Baldonnel field to be on hand at the take-off.

Screen Actress Given Divorce

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—Blanche Mehaffey, auburn haired screen actress, today won a divorce from George Joseph Hausen, wealthy big game hunter of San Francisco.

The couple separated after a married life of two months and seven days, consisting mostly of a honeymoon trip to New York City.

RUMORS ARISE OF ATLANTIC FLIGHT

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 7.—There was much conjecture here today as to whether Lieutenant Michael De Troyat's 700 mile flight yesterday was in preparation for a long distance flight or a trans-Atlantic hop, but the latter theory was given general credence.

"The Lone Falcon" made a circuitous flight which carried him south from Le Bourget Airdome to Marseilles. From there he swung northward, passing Lyons and landing at Dijon, nine hours after his start.

Mystery surrounds the mechanical details of De Troyat's plane. It is said to be similar in design to the Spirit of St. Louis and capable of making 115 miles an hour.

The arrival here of Sergeant Major Antoine Paillard, a noted war pilot, in his new monoplane "Red Bird," which is powered with a 600 horsepower motor and is said to be capable of a sustained flight of 46 hours, gave rise to other trans-Atlantic rumors.

Another report was that the French navy was preparing a monoplane for a flight to New York.

ABE MARTIN On Crowds And Mobs

TH' RUSH FER SOMETHIN' FER NOTHIN'

Ther's good natured crowds, anxious crowds, infuriated crowds, terrified crowds, and curious crowds, but so fer as ill manners, varnish breaths, nickel cigar odor, an' violet talcum combined with perspiration are concerned, a crowd's a crowd. All our home trainin', all our finer instincts, our consideration fer others, our personal pride an' bearin', are forgotten th' moment we git squeezed in a crowd o' jostlin', shovin', panic stricken savages. Little children are trampled, wrist watches are crushed, makeup smudged, wives are torn from husbands, furs are ignited by cigarettes, corns are trampled, cologne spirits breaths sicken th' delicate, traces are broken, hose are snagged, pipes are broken off close t' th' mouth, beads become tangled, ears are exposed, nose glasses are ground t' smithereens, strong met beat down th' weak an' undersized, stout round women crush ther less favored sisters, youth jostles ole age, painted sirens are carried forward on th' crest, while th' frail an' ailin' fall maimed an' bleedin', an' not infrequently th' nimble pickpocket reaps a rich harvest. A crowd movin' toward some place where ther givin' somethin' away moves twice as fast an' ferocious as a crowd bent on violence. Th' ole Bryan jams 'll go down in history. Nearly ever' day I meet some one who's aunt or uncle wuz crushed t' death at a Bryan meetin'. Box office crowds are made up o' people who all expect seats on th' sixth row. Th' ole circus parade crowds wuz th' most patient of all, often assemblin' as early as 7 o'clock an' remainin' motionless till 12 noon. Th' most stubborn an' determined mobs are bargain crowds—crowds that are after somethin' fer nearly nothin'. These crowds move slow, but allus forward an' are usually five times as wide as th' door it's goin' t' enter. All th' police in th' world couldn't make a soap sale customer give up an inch once she's gained it. Some crowds are swayed an' stampeded by mounted police, or street cars, but special sale mobs know no such word as retreat. Th' howlin' mob is not allus infuriated, or bent on violence. It may only want t' jeer, or drown out some performance not t' its likin'. Then we have th' sea o' faces, th' expectant throng, th' vast assemblage, an' the' surgin' mass—all curious an' wild eyed. We often hear audiences spoken of as large an' intelligent. Nothing' could be more remote from th' truth. An audience may be large, but ther never wuz an occasion where an audience wuz both large an' intelligent. An audience may be small with a smatterin' of intelligence where th' attraction appeals strongly t' th' intelligent an' not only likely t' intrigue lesser intellects, but such cases are very rare. What is commonly known as "intellectual treats" do attract a few intelligent people, but it's not unusual fer th' great bulk o' th' patronage t' be made up of inferior, or No. 4 people who wish t' be regarded as intelligent. But th' real crowd, th' surgin', pantin', panicky, ill mannered jam, is a mob movin' toward somethin' fer nothin'.

Fontaine Fox Comes Forth To Defend Mickey McGuire; What Is Your Opinion?

Fontaine Fox, author of the Mickey McGuire cartoon has received so many complaints that Mickey licks only "setups" that he is forced to defend Mickey in the appended letter.

The author's mail is crowded with letters of which some of the writers want to see Mickey licked and others defend Mickey in his exploits, until things have come to such a pass that the author himself has to have his say, in defense of his hero.

If any of our local sports have any doubt of the prowess of Mickey let the following letter help to convince him that as yet Mickey has not as yet met his match. If you still have any doubts, tell us so. Who knows, you may be the means of causing the downfall of the champion or you may help uphold your hero.

Fox Writes

The letter from Fontaine Fox follows:

A letter has come to me complaining that Mickey (himself) McGuire licks only "setups". How on earth such an impression could have registered with anyone is very hard for me to understand.

If McGuire licks only setups what about his famous battle with the Bartlett Twins? Either of the twins is BIGGER than McGuire and furthermore either of them is capable of holding his own with almost any kid in the neighborhood. McGUIRE LICKED THEM BOTH AT ONCE! Does than sound like a setup? Not wishing to do the Bartlett Twins an injustice I must say that they are good sports as well as good fighters and the idea of "two on one" did not appeal to them but McGuire was willing so they lit in. This was the fight where Aunt Sophrony came up when it was all over; with the Bartlett Twins very badly bunged up and McGuire standing nearby without a scratch. Aunt Sophrony read the twins a lecture on what a terrible thing it was for two brothers to beat each other up like that and hauled them off to their mother refusing to listen to any explanation.

And if McGuire licks only setups how about the time he walked three miles in a broiling sun to fight a guy in an outlying village who had sent him a challenge. When he got there McGuire found that the challenger was about a foot taller and outweighed him over thirty pounds. There was such a difference in the weight and size that the big boy did not want to scrap. He said he had no idea that the famous McGuire was such a little fellow. McGuire said he had walked too far for this scrap not to have it so they squared off, and McGuire LICKED THAT BIG BOY. I have been told it was very much like the Dempsey-willard battle at Toledo.

A lot of folks don't seem to realize that this McGuire is good. He is better than good. He has everything; speed, footwork and for a little feller, good gracious what a sock! Of course all the rest of the kids are afraid of him, not that they are cowards but they are simply just not plain durn fools.

It would not be human nature if McGuire did not take advantage of such a situation and he does. He rules with an iron hand, he domineers, his word is law. That is, law to everybody except The Powerful Katrinka's Little Brother. I cannot say I believe McGuire is afraid of him and I do not believe that Olaf is afraid of McGuire. Last week McGuire confided to "Spunky" Edwards that as soon as Olaf had learned enough English so that they could explain to him the rules of a fair fist fight (no wrestling) that he (McGuire) would be willing to take Olaf on. But, he added, that until then he wasn't going to take any chance of having Olaf tear off one of his arms or a leg. This doesn't sound to me much like picking a setup. When it comes to a setup McGuire just slaps 'em flat and walks away. But as for really licking a setup; Never.

Fontaine Fox

Army Service Has Many Opportunities

So Declares Army Recruiting Officer At New Castle City Hall

There are some rare opportunities afforded young men of an ambitious turn of mind in the United States army service, which on their return to civilian life enables them to follow a lucrative and high standing profession, asserts the local recruiting officer.

In this classification is the medical department, which is charged with the guarding of the health of American soldiers. This work is done not only by the doctors, who are commissioned officers, but also by a number of soldiers who act as assistants.

Ambitious enlisted men may learn physiology, anatomy, nursing, sanitation and other lines of work closely allied with the profession of a physician.

At the army medicine school at Washington, special courses are given soldiers in laboratory work, X-ray photography. A number of selected soldiers act as dental surgeons' assistants and have the opportunity of learning dental hygiene and mechanical dentistry. In the veterinary service, a number of soldiers learn the care of animals, prevention of disease, veterinary medicine and surgery. Meat and dairy hygiene are also included in the courses.

Then there is the ordinance department in which young men may now enlist. The functions, duties and responsibilities of the ordinance department are of such a technical and mechanical nature as to require vocational or trade ability in substantially all of its enlisted personnel. A few of the things that members of this department may learn are the trades of armorer, blacksmiths, carpenters, chauffeur, draftsmen, electricians, machinists, mechanic, welder, wheelwright, munition and sheet metal workers. At Araitan arsenal in New Jersey a school is maintained by the ordinance for the training of enlisted specialists.

For further information in regard to these branches of service, as well as all branches of army service, the prospective soldier should see Corporal Walter McKelvey, in charge of the recruiting station in the city building.

S. army history, being the only one that has six stars on its victory medal, having taken part in the Chateau Thierry, Aisne defensive, Champagne-Marne defensive, Aisne-Marne offensive, St. Mihiel offensive and the Meuse-Argonne engagements. A special program is being completed at the Boston branch of the outfit.

Weather Prevents Atlantic Flight Of German Plane

All Preparations Had Been Made For Hop From Ireland Today

(International News Service)

DUBLIN, April 7.—After all preparations had been made and a definite time for a take-off had been set, unruly weather over the Atlantic today again prevented the monoplane Bremen from starting on its attempt to span the Atlantic in a westward flight.

Captain Hermann Koehl had announced last night that weather conditions seemed favorable and that the attempt would be made at noon today but at that hours reports were received which caused him to announce another postponement.

Although it appeared unlikely that an attempt would be made later today, the plane was held in readiness for an immediate hop-off, if later reports permitted.

Commandant James Fitzmaurice, the Irish Free State air chief, will accompany Koehl and Humbert Von Huenefeld, acting as relief pilot, it was officially announced. He has received a leave of absence from the Irish government for the flight and is taking the place of Arthur Spindler, the German pilot, who originally was to have accompanied Koehl on the trip.

The Bremen received a final tuning up last night, and the fliers declared the motor was in perfect condition for the trip. In compliance with an Irish government regulation, a doctor, priest and fire engine were brought to the Baldonnel field to be on hand at the take-off.

EVA FAY EXPLAINS HER KNOWLEDGE OF MYSTICISM

Eva Fay, "High Priestess of Mysticism" and marvel of the twentieth century, credits her years spent in the bamboo structures of learning in the Orient under teachers of the occult with her power to read your inner most thoughts. Mrs. Fay was born in this country but as a baby was taken to East India where she played around the shrines of the Yogi and Mahatma, as soon as she was old enough to go out alone. Later she proved that through her deep study of philosophy and science she was worthy to take up the Occult sciences and was admitted to the colleges in bamboo huts. Priests in their flowing Oriental garb and with their mysterious ways taught her the power to pierce the veil covering the future and enabling her to accurately foretell events months before they were to happen. After she married John T. Fay she moved back to Boston and later to her villa up on the Hudson river where she spends her summers studying. Mrs. Fay appears as the feature of the program at The Capitol next week here, and answers the questions put to her by the audience, with special ladies matinee on Tuesday. Wonderful pictures and other stage acts.

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

A TUSSLE WITH AN EEL

Peter saw that the Kingfishers were really worried about their carelessness in not warning him to beware of fishbones. He hastened to relieve their feelings.

"Pardon you! Of course I will. I shouldn't have said anything about it in the first place if it hadn't happened so quickly. My hand hardly hurts at all now, and since no great harm is done I am rather glad that I ran into the old fishbone. If I hadn't I might have left your home without ever guessing that you built your nest on a foundation of fishbones.

"You Kingfishers are a sensible couple, taking care of your babies the way you do—building a house that will last as long as you need it and using things that you have at hand to make it solid."

"Thank you, boy." Kingfisher was greatly pleased. "And we are a happy couple too. Do you know, I am getting hungry again. How about you, wife?"

"Well, I could nibble a nice fat minnow." Mrs. Kingfisher laughed. "You know what an appetite I have, my dear."

"Then I am going fishing again," declared her husband. "Coming with me, two-legs?"

"To be sure. Goodbye, Mrs. Kingfisher. I am having a fine time. Gracious! What a hurry your husband is in. I shall have to run to keep up with him. I shall come again sometime, if I may."

The last words were called back over his shoulder. Peter was hastening down the tunnel trying to catch Mr. Kingfisher, and in a very short while indeed he found himself out again upon the bank.

Mr. Kingfisher took up his former perch upon the pole and watched the water beneath him for an unwary victim to swim within his reach. It didn't seem longer than a minute before he took his little fly into the air and dived into the river. But this time he returned with—not a fish, but—a wriggling eel in his beak.

What a time Kingfisher did have with that troublesome eel. It twisted and it turned and it wriggled and seemed to be flopping in all directions at once. Peter expected to see Kingfisher drop it, but the bird had no such idea. He flew from his perch over to the bank. Upon the bank was a moss covered rock and flying upon this rock Kingfisher began to hop about as if he had suddenly gone mad.

But with every hop he beat the head of the poor eel upon the rock. "Bang! Bang! Whack! Whack!" At last the eel stopped squirming and hung limp and still in the bird's beak. Then Kingfisher stopped dancing.

"There!" remarked he, with a satisfied air. "I have finished him. Wife is fond of eel meat and she shall have this fellow for dinner. But I am all tired out. I shall have to take a nap after this tussle. I doubt if I fish any more today.

"Goodby, boy. Wife is waiting, so I must hurry. I shall keel over if I don't get home soon." Breathless but victorious, off flew Kingfisher. And the boy did notice that the fellow's feathers were flat and his crested head drooped as if he was quite worn out.

Lexington Kentucky Greatly Excited As "Lindy" Lands Plane

(International News Service)

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 29.—Col. Charles Lindbergh after landing in a field near here late yesterday afternoon was preparing to take off this morning for another unannounced destination.

The famous colonel's arrival was entirely unexpected and there was much excitement in the city last night. The last time he was here was a number of years ago before his trans-Atlantic flight.

He refused to appear in public and spent the night at the home of Dr. Scott Breckenridge, brother of Col. Henry Breckenridge, his personal attorney and adviser.

Passengers in his Ryan plane besides Col. Breckenridge, were Maj. Thomas Lanphier, commander of the First Pursuit Squadron, Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich.; Capt. E. S. Land, assistant chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the navy and O. R. Root, Jr., 14 year old stepson of Col Breckenridge.

Col. Lindbergh refused to talk to newspapermen but it was reported that his party would fly to St. Louis today.

Car Tickets Are Still Being Used

Although the ticket system was discontinued by the Pennsylvania-Ohio Electric company almost a year ago, some street car riders have not yet entirely used their supply and some patrons still use tickets to pay car fare. The token system is in effect here.

The ticket system was abandoned for economical reasons. It had been anticipated that the tickets would have all been used up months ago. Tickets are acceptable for fare.

GERMAN AIRMEN AGAIN POSTPONE ATLANTIC FLIGHT

and placed on the long wooden runaway specially built for the take-off. Mechanics had given the machine a final grooming and covered all parts with paraffin to keep the formation of sleet during the flight down to a minimum.

Field Is Soggy

It had rained during the night, however, and when Koehl, Baron Von Huenefeld and relief pilot Arthur Spindler came on the field, they found the ground in an extremely soggy condition.

After scanning late weather reports, which were anything but favorable, the fliers reluctantly announced the postponement of the flight.

Captain Koehl, in announcing he would not start today, said he did not think the soggy field would permit a perfect take-off of the heavy plane. The Bremen with its full load of fuel and three occupants weighs about five tons.

Unless reports from Newfoundland indicate rising temperatures there, it appeared likely today that when the fliers do start, they will take the southern shipping lane course direct to New York and thus avoid the Canadian coast entirely.

Captain Koehl has been deeply impressed by Colonel Lindbergh's stressing of sleet dangers in his book "We." If he shies south of the "Great Circle" he will have been the first trans-Atlantic flier to do so.

Dublin, March 29.—The departure of the German monoplane Bremen upon a trans-Atlantic flight was postponed indefinitely today owing to continued bad weather. Capt. Herman Koehl, the pilot, and Baron Von Huenefeld, financial backer of the enterprise, said they hoped to get away tomorrow morning, but would not hop off until weather conditions over the ocean were safe. So far there has been no suggestion that the flight would be abandoned.

During the morning a stiff west wind was blowing and fog made visibility very poor. The weather forecaster held out no hope that conditions would become favorable during the day.

"We are determined to fly—sometime," said Baron Von Huenefeld.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT

A plate of potato soup is a good start for luncheon. With a salad, or a dish of rhubarb sauce and some good whole wheat bread and butter, it makes a very good luncheon indeed. Don't peel your rhubarb at this time of the year. Wash and cut it up with the peeling on and cook with enough water to make it juicy.

Potato Soup Toasted Bread Strips
Rhubarb or other Sauce
Whole Wheat Bread and Butter
Milk

Today's Recipes

Potato Soup—Two and one-half cups raw potatoes, one quart milk, one-half onion or one-half teaspoon onion salt, one-eighth teaspoon celery salt, two tablespoons flour, three tablespoons butter or butter substitute, pepper. Put the milk in the upper part of a double boiler and add the sliced onion or onion salt to it. Put in the celery salt and green pepper, if desired. Let this milk heat above hot water for a half hour. This heating brings out the flavor of the onion and celery salt and flavors the milk without giving an unpleasantly strong taste.

Peel the potatoes and cut in small pieces. Cook in boiling salted water. When the potatoes are soft, rice back into the pan. We are assuming that the water in which the potatoes cooked has all been absorbed by the potatoes so that there is no waste of mineral salts. Add the strained hot milk to the potatoes. Mix well. Blend the butter and flour over the fire and add this roux to the potato milk mixture. It should immediately thicken the liquid. Let the mixture boil and then season to taste.

You cannot be attractive without a clear skin

EVERYBODY wants to be attractive. It is a great and just ambition. But no one can be attractive without a clear skin—you know that.

Do you realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of most skin disorders is in the blood?

Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs, and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning. Instead, you feel refreshed, ready to meet the world.

Your appetite is keen—you enjoy work or play—your skin is clear, cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood builds and sustains the body.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"S.S.S. cleared my skin of pimples and blackheads. I think it a most wonderful blood medicine. Several of my friends are taking it for the same reason I did." Miss Margaret Frye, Lapel, Ind.

QUARRYMAN LOSES LEG IN ACCIDENT

(International News Service)

ALTOONA, Pa., March 29.—John Yeager, 43, Mapleton, quarryman at the Pennsylvania Sand Corporation, today was in the Huntingdon hospital in a serious condition following the amputation of his left leg.

Suspended by a rope over a 30-foot ledge, he was injured when loose stone dislodged and poured down upon him. He lost his hold and was found hanging face downward while the rope cut deeply into his leg.

When rescued 15 minutes later the leg was found to have been so badly cut that amputation was necessary.

Youthful Slayer Given Life Term For Brutal Crime

Alvin Hess, 16, Found Guilty Of Murder By Jury; Recommends Life Term

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 29.—Life! Silent and unrepentant, Alvin Hess, 16, sat in the county jail today, convicted of first degree murder by a jury of nine men and three women who recommended a life sentence, waiting for "the ride" when prison bars will close around him for the remainder of his life.

A little more than three dollars was the amount he and Robert Stevens, 14, who will face trial Monday, found in the pockets of the "ragged stranger" which they were said to have confessed to murdering on the banks of the Monongahela river last September.

One of the youngest defendents ever arraigned for murder in Allegheny county, he heard witnesses testify that he knocked his victim to the ground with a heavy club, crushed his skull with a stone, robbed the battered corpse and then attempted to prevent others discovering the body as it lay in a thicket beside the river.

More like a hardened criminal than a boy not yet out of his teens, he remained calm throughout the trial, and calmly heard the verdict which will send him behind prison bars for the remainder of his life.

And the crowd which filled the court room remained silent as it listened to the verdict. A warning had been given before the jury filed in that there must be no demonstration, regardless of the decision and there was none.

Insanity Plea Fails.

Counsel for the young prisoners had attempted to establish an insanity defense. Witnesses swore that the boy had been insane since his skull was fractured in a coasting accident, that he "talked queer" and played with dolls.

Then he was placed on the stand and calmly told the story of the murder, admitting all that he was charged with. The defense brought forward a few more witnesses to show that the boy was abnormal and rested its case. The prosecution brought forward its authorities to show that Hess could differentiate between right and wrong.

The jury deliberated on his fate for two hours and five minutes.

Attorney A. L. Grainer, defense counsel appointed by the court, announced that he would file a motion for new trial within the four days allowed him.

STRICKEN SUDDENLY

Almost daily we hear of it—the story of some man, probably a friend, suddenly cut off in the midst of his usefulness, in the very prime of life. That's what high blood pressure and heart trouble will do—snap off life without warning. All due to our abnormal living habits which put too great a strain upon the vital organs, especially the liver.

The liver becoming weak and sluggish fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. The whole system then becomes toxic, with stomach, kidneys, heart and blood vessels affected.

The liver, especially at middle life, needs a little help, and there's nothing better for this, as physicians today know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a great natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning, so essential to health and vitality. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing ten drops of pure ox gall. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and one or two days' use will prove a revelation. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, ask for Dioxol.

Free Test Take this ad to the druggist named below and he will give you a free sample of Dioxol tablets. Try them yourself. See the splendid, quick results. One trial of Dioxol and you will want a full package!

You Need More Than A Smile

By Edna Wallace Hopper

It's pleasant to know that your glistening white teeth fascinate and allure. But we who make an earnest study of health and youth preservation demand more than cleanliness. The enamel and gums must be protected.

Edna Wallace Hopper as she looks today

To assure the greatest precaution against wearing away of precious enamel I have had to understand personally the effects of the various ingredients of the tooth paste I use, which is called Quindent, the "five-in-one" dentifrice.

I am convinced that it not only cleanses and polishes the teeth perfectly, but it purifies the breath, and, above all, counteracts the ever-present acids. This last protection is due to one of its most valuable properties—milk of magnesia, which I used to use separately as a mouth wash before expert scientists had produced Quindent.

Quindent is not a biting, sharp dentifrice. Its action is sure and mild. The taste is pleasant and I advise you to leave a slight coating of it on the gums and tongue which is effective for hours.

You can obtain Quindent at any toilet counter, 50 cents for a large tube.

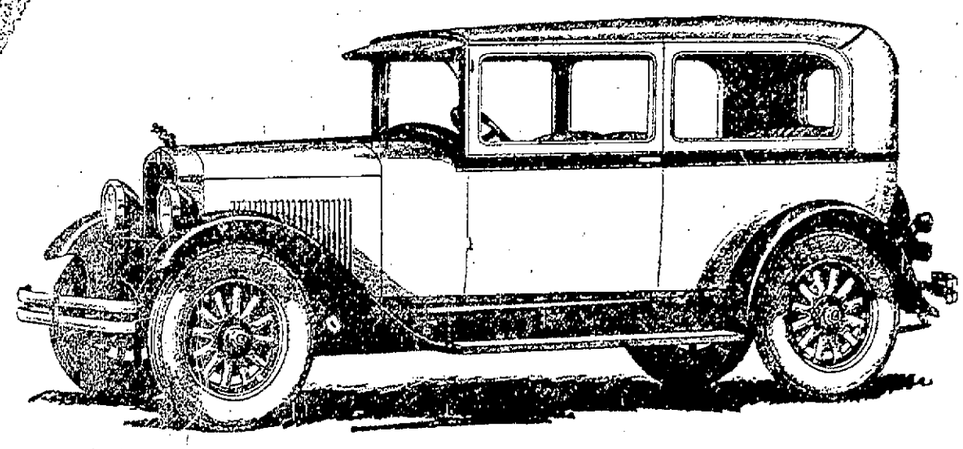
Advanced Engineering—

40 miles per hour the day you buy it!



NEW-American Edition of

ERSKINE SIX

NOW for the first time a low-priced car has been developed which you can drive at 40-mile speed the day you buy it—the New American Edition of the Erskine Six.

No other car in the Erskine price class is so finely built that it may be driven at 40-mile speed when new. This is a symbol of the extra years of care-free service built into this quality automobile.

Quality Throughout

Studebaker's advanced engineering is evident in every detail of the New Erskine Six. Design is scientifically sound. High quality materials are exactingly tested. Production is held to precision standards hitherto found only in the most expensive cars. And finally every Erskine Six in the course of building is checked and re-checked by hundreds of the most rigid inspections.

This new Erskine Six is the champion performer of its class—conclusively demonstrated when a stock Erskine sedan averaged better than 54 miles an hour in a 24-hour test. This set a record never equaled by any stock car under $1000.

Bigger—More Powerful

But even these authentic facts and figures cannot tell you the story of engineering triumph represented in this new American Edition of the Erskine Six. A bigger—roomier—more powerful Erskine. Comfortable—spacious—doors nearly a yard wide—rear seats 4 feet wide—62 miles an hour—nimble acceleration—thrifty of gas and oil—amplified-action 4-wheel brakes. And remember this car is Studebaker built and that speaks volumes for its quality and dependability. Test it out—NOW!
